Would Link Pact to League Program.

THE HAGUE, Jan. 8.—France will take the initiative and assume a preponderant rôle in the five power naval disarmament conference at London, it was announced here today. The French government will submit concrete and detailed proposals for limitation and reduction of naval armaments along the same lines as those the United States presented in its scheme at Washington in 1921.

Premier Tardieu of France expects the conference to complete its work in three weeks or a month at the outside. The premier is confident that the negotiations will result successfully in a general agreement.

Ask Six Year Holiday.

The French will propose a scheme covering six years, to 1936, when the Washington agreements expire, thereby creating a sort of naval holiday during the interim.

The Paris delegation will demand that the accord reached at London be transmitted to the league of nations' preparatory disarmament commission to be dovetailed with the general scheme for reduction of land and air armaments.

The French believe that before the six year limit expires the league's international disarmament conference will be held, limiting and reducing all phases of armies and military aviation, as well as navies, and embracing the military strength of all nations, including nonmembers, such as Russia, Turkey, the United States, Mexico, and others.

Assured of Favorable Reception.

I obtained today a comprehensive outline of the French policies and the line of action which will be undertaken, with a reasoned estimate of the American, British, Japanese, and Italian reactions.

I also was informed that the tenor of all correspondence and interchange of views between Paris, London, and Washington, as well as the informal pourparlers with Rome and Tokio, gives ample assurance that the French position is well founded and is certain to meet favorable reception.

Instead of being the bad boy of the conference, as had been expected and forecast, the French delegation will furnish a constructive and comprehensive program as a basis for the discussions.

Would Strip Subs of Power.

The French believe—and insist—that they have foundation for expecting no determined opposition to their demands to retain submarines. Premier Tardieu is willing to restrict the size, gun power, and cruising radius of submersibles to the point that would render them strictly defensive and not capable of offensive operations against enemy coast lines, or even for commerce raiding or hostile maneuvers on the high seas.

France intends to renounce its rights to construct capital ships up to 175,000 tons, as allocated to it at Washington, and concentrate its sea power in the auxiliary classes—cruisers, destroyers, and submersibles. The French plan will seek to overcome the existing deadlock between the United States and Great Britain over 10,000 ton cruisers carrying eight inch guns, by allocating the global tonnage of the various powers with categories merely indicated approximately, permitting each power to allot whatever amount of the total it decides necessary for self-defense to that class.

Provides for Full Publicity.

This scheme provides for full publicity and exchanges of proposed schedules for the construction of the various types of craft, so that every government will be aware of what the other nations contemplate in their building programs.

Premier Tardieu will urge the political members of the delegations to negotiate agreements without calling in naval experts except on such technical questions as absolutely require their presence.

Thus, he expects to obviate the possibility of the conference falling into a deadlock over the characteristics of

Knot Tied in Simple 5 Minute Rite.

A Real Eyewitness

David Darrah, Rome correspondent of The Chicago Tribune, was the only American newspaper man who received a special invitation to witness the wedding of Crown Prince Humbert of Italy and Princess Marie Jose of Belgium yesterday. The invitation to The Chicago Tribune representative was extended by the Italian royal family through the Italian government.

ROME, Jan. 8.—Little Belgium today gave its "snow princess," Marie José, in marriage to Crown Prince Humbert, heir aparent to the throne of Premier Mussolini's Fascist Italy.

In the mystic half-lights of Quirinal palace's Pauline chapel, where many popes have been elected, King Albert led his daughter to the red plush covered prayer stool, where she was joined by Prince Humbert. Both kneeled before the altar. Cardinal Maffi, archbishop of Pisa, married them for better or for worse in a ceremony which lasted about five minutes.

Cardinal Reads Ritual.

After the choir had sung "Oremus Pro Principe Nostro," which means "Let Us Pray for Our Prince," Cardinal Maffi moved down from his throne to where the couple were kneeling and read the ritual, which said:

"Does his royal highness Prince Humbert of Savoy take her royal highness Princess Marie of Belgium as his legitimate wife according to the rites of holy mother church?"

The prince replied, "Si."

The cardinal then asked the same question of Marie José, who replied "Si," in Italian. The cardinal then said:

"I join you in matrimony, in the name of the Father, the Son, and the Holy Ghost. Amen."

Mussolini Stands at Right.

Premier Mussolini, in his uniform of prime minister, watched from the right hand side of the altar as Cardinal Maffi, in accordance with the custom at royal weddings, asked the parents of the young couple if they consented to the marriage. He looked at Premier Mussolini as if mutely asking his consent.

After this ceremony Msgr. Tuzzi read the special papal bull extending plenary indulgence to all those who took part in the ceremonies.

When Cardinal Maffi had finished the ceremony a flock of white doves was unloosed from the Quirinal palace courtyard to announce to the crowds outside that Marie José had become the princess of Piedmont. The acclamations could be heard inside the palace. This ceremony corresponds to white smoke issuing from the Vatican chimney which announces the election of a new pope.

1,500 Watch Ceremony.

The marriage took place before 1,500 royal guests, members of the diplomatic corps, members of the government, court ladies, newspaper men and photographers, who filled the Pauline chapel and the adjoining salon. About the palace, which sits atop of Quirinal hill, was thrown a ring of soldiers to control the enormous crowds.

The mass following the ceremonies was celebrated by Cardinal Maffi. He was the first cardinal to have crossed the threshold of the royal palace, in which Pope Pius IX. lived until he lost his temporal power, since the break between the church and the state 60 years ago.

Cheered by Great Crowds.

After the ceremony, which began more than half an hour late because the princess was kept up later than usual by the prolonged reception last night, the royal couple appeared on the central balcony of the palace to receive the homage of the masses of people packed in the square. Both royal families appeared behind them.

Marie José threw kisses to the crowd from the same balcony on Sunday. Today she appeared unsmiling and much moved, but her husband bowed and smiled to the people.

A mighty murmur went up from

ROBBER SHOUTS THREAT TO JUDGE AFTER SENTENCE

Louis Stanek, leader of the recent jail break when six men escaped through an unbarred window of the new county jail, threatened and cursed Judge William N. Gemmill in the Criminal court yesterday after he was found guilty and sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary for robbery. The judge overruled his motion for a new trial.

Stanek was the only man to be recaptured after the escape. Because of his actions, his trial had been speeded up and he will be taken to the penitentiary at once. He was heavily guarded in the courtroom and when the bailiffs put the handcuffs on him as the judge refused further delay, he shouted:

The Hudeceks were married in 1909. Since a quarrel in 1917 he has not said even "Good morning" to her, the bill states. When his children sought to effect a reconciliation last July 1, he told them that he would never speak to them again and they left the home of their mother.

Specialists from New York tonight were called to his bedside, as were his sons and his father-in-law and business associate, Cyrus H. K. Curtis. His wife came here with him. The philanthropist is 67 years old.

Senate Finance Post Is Given to La Follette

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 8.—[Special.]—Republican radicals today won a seat on the powerful senate finance committee, from which all irregulars have been excluded since the death of the elder Senator Robert M. La Follette.

The Republican committee on committees, despite the continued opposition of most of the old guard Republicans, voted to assign "Young Bob" La Follette [Rep., Wis.] and Senator John Thomas [Rep., Idaho], to the Edge and Sackett vacancies on the finance committee. Senator Thomas usually is identified with the regulars.

Floor Fight Evidently Feared.

Senator Reed Smoot [Rep., Utah], chairman of the finance committee, who yesterday declined to break a tie vote and at the same time insisted that the regulars ought to be allowed to retain complete control of this particular committee, was responsible for the victory of the radicals.

Senator Smoot, evidently desirous of avoiding a threatened row on the floor of the senate, and realizing that the radicals and Democrats probably would have been able to muster enough votes to give La Follette the seat, cast his vote against the motion to give the two vacant places to Senators Thomas and Guy Goff [Rep., W. Va.]. Senator Smoot then voted with Senators Charles L. McNary [Rep., Ore.], T. L. Oddie [Rep., Nev.], Arthur Capper [Rep., Kas.], and G. P. Nye [Rep., N. D.], to give the two seats to Senators La Follette and Thomas.

Senators Charles S. Deneen [Rep., Ill.], Hiram Binhgam [Rep., Conn.], and George H. Moses [Rep., N. H.], the last named also having the proxy of Senator David A. Reed [Rep., Pa.], continued to oppose the La Follette assignment.

Committee's Vote Close.

The committee now includes 11 Republicans and 8 Democrats. Should only Senator La Follette turn against the regular Republicans the committee would stand 10 to 9. If Senator James Couzens [Rep., Mich.], who has opposed many of the policies of Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, or Senator Thomas, should join forces with Senator La Follette and the Democrats, the vote would be 9 to 10 against the regulars. Hereafter seven of the eleven Republicans on the committee will be from central and western states. The control of the committee by eastern Republicans has been broken definitely.

Allen May Aid Chicago.

The committee on committees in filling the vacancy on the commerce committee caused by the death of Senator Theodore E. Burton [Rep., O.] took action which will improve the prospects of the Illinois waterway. Senator Henry Allen [Rep., Kas.] was slated for this place. He is expected to aid Illinois in the Chicago water diversion controversy. Two opponents of Chicago on the water diversion question sought this vacancy, Senators Roscoe McCulloch [Rep., O.] and John J. Blaine [Rep., Wis.].

Gain of a second member of the commerce committee who is likely to favor the Ilinois waterway resulted from naming of Senator R. B. Howell [Rep., Neb.], in place of Senator La Follette.

Rosenwalds Off to Egypt on Honeymoon

New York, Jan. 8.—[Special.]—Julius Rosenwald and his bride, the former Mrs. Adelaide Rau Goodkind of Chicago and St. Paul, sailed on their honeymoon at midnight tonight to the accompaniment of the booming of photographers' flashlights and the cheers of fellow voyagers.

They sailed on the Cosulich liner Saturnia, in the finest suite on the ship, for Italy and Egypt on a voyage lasting until about April 1.

The sailing followed by only a few hours the marriage of the Chicago financier and multimillionaire philanthropist to the mother-in-law of his eldest son, Lessing Rosenwald, at the latter's home just out of Philadelphia.

Dinner Party in New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Rosenwald, accompanied by members of the wedding party, arrived in New York from Philadelphia shortly after 7 p. m., and went at once to the St. Regis hotel, where there was a dinner party with sixteen at the table, including Mr. Rosenwald's five children and two of Mrs. Rosenwald's three children.

After the dinner, the bride and groom and members of their party went to the pier and found their fellow passengers on the ship, including many well known New Yorkers, waiting at the railing to greet them.

A battery of still and motion picture camera men also was massed on the ship, directly over the entrance to the gangplank. Mr. and Mrs. Rosenwald stopped, smiling, midway up the gangplank, and posed for photographs. They went immediately to their suite, the "Mirasole," while their fellow travelers applauded them. It is a suite of several rooms, opening upon a private veranda. They found the suite laden with flowers, and containing also hundreds of messages.

Telegram from Al Smith.

One of the telegrams was from former Gov. Alfred E. Smith, with whom, in company with ex-President Coolidge, Mr. Rosenwald has been engaged in administering the Conrad Hubert fund. Mr. Smith's telegram was laughingly chiding.

"Well, so you held out on one of your partners," it read. "That does not look so good for the future of our firm. However, I am tickled to death and hasten to send you hearty congratulations and good wishes."

Mr. and Mrs. Rosenwald posed once more for the photographers. He said:

"Mrs. Rosenwald and I expect to have a very pleasant voyage."

The wedding, extreme in its simplicity, was performed by Judge Horace Stern at The Meadows, home of Mr. Rosenwald's eldest son, Lessing J. Rosenwald, near Philadelphia.

The ceremony was performed at 12:30 o'clock. The witnesses were Mr. and Mrs. Alfred K. Stern of Chicago, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar B. Stern of New Orleans, La.; Dr. and Mrs. David Levy of New York, Mr. and Mrs. William Rosenwald of this city, Mr. and Mrs. Lessing Rosenwald, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Goodkind of New York, and Mr. and Mrs. Herman Felsenthal of Chicago.

The two Mrs. Sterns and Mrs. Levy are daughters of Mr. Rosenwald. Mrs. Felsenthal is a daughter of the bride and Harold Goodkind is the bride's son.

Children at Wedding Breakfast.

Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Rosenwald and their children sat down to a wedding breakfast.

In obtaining their marriage license at Norristown, near here, today, Mr. Rosenwald said he was born in Springfield, Ill., a son of Samuel and Augusta Rosenwald, that he is a merchant and resides at 4901 Ellis avenue, Chicago. The bride gave her age as 60. Mr. Rosenwald is 67. The bride is the widow of Benjamin Goodkind, St. Paul merchant. After his death she moved to Chicago to live.

The capitalist's first wife, Mrs. Augusta Nusbaum Rosenwald, died in Chicago last May.

'JEW' BATES, ONCE O'BANION GANG MEMBER, SLAIN

David Jerus, 39 years old, once known in Chicago gangland as "Jew" Bates, a henchman of the late Dean O'Banion, was shot to death on Tuesday night in Covington, Ky., the Chicago police learned last night. Bates was slain when he and a confederate, Lawrence Coates, attempted to take Charles J. Stubbs of Covington "for a ride."

The kidnapers forgot to search Stubbs for weapons after they seized him, and as the ride started the prisoner drew a pistol. In the battle that followed Bates was shot to death and both Coates and Stubbs were wounded.

Bates was reported to be in danger after the slaying of O'Banion in 1924 and later turned up in New York. From there he went to Covington, where he and Coates were credited with being two members of the triumvirate which ruled the underworld of the Kentucky city. He was sought by the Chicago police for questioning in connection with the St. Valentine's day massacre, but was not apprehended.

ALDERMEN VOTE TO RESTORE CITY SAFETY FORCE

26 Battle Mayor's Budget Veto.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

The city council early this morning ordered the reinstatement of the 473 patrolmen and 222 firemen recently laid off for lack of appropriations.

The night session was called to consider the Mayor Thompson's veto at the afternoon session of two-thirds of the corporate budget, and the mayor drew first blood in the battle. He mustered 19 votes to sustain his veto of $37,423,060 of the $55,272,295 total in the budget. The opposition could not gather more than 26 votes to override his veto, while 34 are required.

Still fighting in the face of this defeat, the opponents of the mayor's veto then adopted a resolution proposed by Ald. Joseph McDonough instructing the police commissioner and the fire commissioner to reinstate their discharged men. The McDonough resolution pledged the city council to appropriate any new revenue to the police and fire departments that the full strength may be maintained during the entire year.

Ettelson Advises Reinstatement.

Immediately after the resolution was passed Police Commissioner Russell and Deputy Fire Commissioner Edward A. Maloney went into conference with Corporation Counsel Ettelson for an opinion on its legality. Ettelson had previously contended that the appropriation for the discharged police and firemen was illegal, but he advised the commissioners to obey the council's resolution and reinstate the men.

Action was swift on the reinstatements. The council adjourned at 12:30 a. m. after passing the resolution, and the commissioners received Ettelson's opinion at 1 a. m. Before 2 a. m. Commissioner Russell's reinstatement order was on the police teletype.

Safe from Summary Action.

The 473 reinstated policemen, when they were discharged last Saturday, were probationers who had only a day left to serve of their six months' period to make them full fledged members of the force, subject to discharge only under civil service rules. The reinstatement will put them in a position in which they are no longer subject to summary dismissal.

Deputy Commissioner Maloney sent out a reinstatement order over the fire telegraph and said the department would be reorganized on the old basis today.

The battle over the mayor's veto is scheduled to start again at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning. Although defeated by the two-thirds rule on the veto, the 26 votes cast against it are sufficient to repass the vetoed budget items, which requires only a majority vote. The 26 aldermen, led by Chairman John Clark of the finance committee, plan to repass the items in the same form and same amounts as originally adopted.

Will Defy Mayor.

The action of the council hurls the challenge back at the mayor. The aldermen, if they succeed in their plan, will dare the mayor to veto these same items again. If they win, the "mayor's candidacy for reelection has gone bust," as one alderman put it.

But if they lose, and then refuse to make any further appropriations for the vetoed departments, the financial troubles of the city will be multiplied several times. Without a legal appropriation money will be hard to borrow.

The relative strength of the mayor's plan of overloading the budget and the opposition is shown by the roll call to override the mayor's veto. Those who registered "yea" favored a budget within the estimated revenues. The "nay" votes favored inflated appropriations. The roll call follows:

Ald. O'Toole, Kaindl, and Maypole

were absent. They would probably have voted with the 26.

Many aldermen were surprised at the mayor's showing of strength. Ald. Guy Guernsey [5th] in a speech explained it. He said:

"All day long there has been a string of aldermen in and out of Corporation Counsel Ettelson's office. They got their orders there and came down here and voted against their own best interests. No department head in the city hall has suggested a way to save money."

"When the people get their tax bills there will be an uprising in this town," added Ald. Jacob M. Arvey [24th].

Ald. Clark during the debate at the night session asserted that the finance committee budget is financially sound, while he charged that the budget offered by City Controller Schmidt cut appropriations for interest on tax warrants and judgments and made no allowances for public benefits and for payment of street lighting. He asserted that Schmidt's budget would "have ruined the credit of the city."

Ald. Arthur Albert [43d] took several flings at the mayor. He charged that Goodrich and Russell "will do anything for political expediency," and he demanded that both be fired.

"With the appropriations for police, fire, health and electricity vetoed, those departments have no appropriations that legally allow them to operate tonight," said Ald. John Toman [23d]. He urged that the 1929 allowances for the budget items be appropriated by the city council.

Apparently the mayor and his advisers believe they can operate the vetoed departments, even if the city council refuses to act.

Argue Over Departments' Status.

On Dec. 30 the city council passed an order directing the departments to continue operations until "a continuation ordinance" was passed on Jan. 2. That ordiance was adopted, telling the departments to operate on the 1930 budget. Mayor Thompson submitted a veto of that ordiance.

This leaves in effect the "continuation order" of Dec. 30, which his advisers claim is sufficient to permit the departments to function. Ald. Clark disputes that claim. He asserted that no taxy levy can be made for the vetoed departments until a legal budget exists for them.

The battle of yesterday afternoon and last night, which was tense but for the most part reasonably orderly, prevented the passage of the tax levy ordinance. This will probably be deferred for several days, which means that issuance of tax anticipation warrants will be delayed just so much longer. That in turn puts off payment of salaries to city employés.

If there is some question regarding the legality of the budget, which now appears probable, the sale of tax warrants may be difficult. The council majority in effect has thrown aside the legal opinions of Corporation Counsel Ettelson and has sought advice from former Corporation Counsel Francis X. Busch and others.

Mayor Asks "Adequate" Budget.

The mayor at the afternoon session vetoed appropriations which he asserted are insufficient. These include the items for the police, fire, health, and other departments. They total $34,199,795. The mayor asked that these be increased to adequate amounts, which his friends say means the 1929 allowances, that totaled $38,818,318, or $4,618,523 more than the vetoed items.

Then he urged that an appeal be made to the legislature for relief. His floor leader, Ald. O. F. Nelson [46th], presented a resolution to the council embodying the appeal.

The mayor in his veto message laid the entire blame for the city's financial embarrassment at the door of "the reformers," who obtained a revaluation of all the real estate in Cook county for taxing purposes. Every one connected with city affairs was whitewashed by the mayor of any responsibility.

Next the mayor submitted a veto of sundry other appropriations totaling $3,225,265. His assigned reason for disapproval of these is that they are illegal in form. He did not request that they be increased, but certain councilmen predicted that the mayor's aldermanic friends will try to place these items upon the basis of the 1929 appropriations.

If that proves true, the $3,225,265 will be increased to $4,128,150. That would add $902,885 more to the proposed overloaded budget. But taking the mayor at his word and omitting the $902,885, his plan calls for boosting the corporate budget from $55,272,205 to $59,890,728. This is $6,322,400 over the estimated revenue for 1930 and does not take care of the 1929 deficit.

In the mayor's list of items he wanted increased and which he vetoed for that purpose are the entire appropriations for the police, fire, health, and electrical departments, and then particular items in the department of public works. In his list of "illegal appropriations," the mayor's veto applied to entire departments.

VETOED AS "INADEQUATE."

Department—	Vetoed. 1930.	Budget, 1929.
Police	$16,135,070	$17,366,800
Fire	7,412,000	8,176,680
Electricity	3,390,743	4,308,626

The mayor's plan of increasing appropriations contemplates the adding of 473 policemen, 222 firemen, 197 health employés, 200 workers in the department of gas and electricity, 110 regular employés in the street cleaning bureau, and about 300 others employed in that bureau by the day. This would reinstate 1,502 of the estimated 2,153 employés eliminated by the aldermanic budget.

Mayor Thompson in his veto message gave three reasons for what he described as "the present unprecedented financial crisis." First he listed "the fact that real estate taxes have not been collected for the past 20 months, due to the reassessment of property ordered by the state tax commission, which assessment is yet far from completed."

His second reason was that because the municipalities have been deprived of their normal revenue for 20 months they "have been compelled to borrow approximately $280,000,000, on which borrowed money they are now paying $1,400,000 a month in interest." Of this the city, exclusive of the schools, is paying $326,645 a month, or about $4,000,000 a year.

The third reason was the reduction in real estate values within Chicago, on which topic the mayor said: "It is now apparent that the reassessment total, as equalized by the assessors, reduces the loop valuations by $300,000,000, and will make the grand total assessed value of all Chicago real estate at least that much lower than the total estimates on which the tax rates were based."

Absolves Public Officials.

Then the mayor absolved the city administration from blame as follows: "It is therefore evident that the city officials are in no measure responsible for the revenue crisis."

He followed with a plea to the aldermen to stand by his veto and boost the appropriations above revenues in this way:

"It is the manifest duty of the mayor and the aldermen to do all in their power to protect property, health and lives of the people by voting appropriations essential to the vital needs of the departments and agencies of the city. By so doing we at least will do our duty under the law.

"I have always favored the building of a budget within the estimated revenues. But I have always believed, and do now believe, that efficient service should be rendered to our people in the protection of their property, their health and their lives."

New York Police Fund Cited.

The message said that the New York police appropriation for this year is $60,000,000, "which is several million more than provided for all departments in Chicago."

Reverting to his plea to the aldermen to follow him, the mayor went on:

"A community which has tolerated the expenditure of many millions in a 'reform reassessment,' from which the loop is the chief and outstanding beneficiary, will insist that money be found to protect health and homes. The reform standard of taxation in the interest of the loop is not to be compared in importance to the protection of the people of Chicago, and such protection is small in cost as measured in the high cost of 'tax reform' in the interest of big money.

"The situation into which this 'reassessment reform" has plunged the community is as intolerable as it is unprecedented. It is manifest and mandatory that emergency revenue legislation be secured through the general assembly to lift from the people the monthly interest charge of $1,400,000 and to resume the collection of taxes in this community."

The mayor patted himself and other officeholders on the back by claiming that the fact that Chicago and other municipalities have been able to function without practically any tax revenues for 20 months "is a most impressive tribute to the high financial standing of those municipalities and to the confidence the bankers and other business generally have in the good faith and sincerity of the aldermen and other public officials."

He said that the city and other governments are reaping the whirlwind in the name of "reform."

SCHOOL BOARD DEAF TO HEMINGWAY PLEA FOR AID ON BUDGET

James A. Hemingway, chairman of the school board's finance committee, yesterday sought to shift the responsibility of reducing the $87,000,000 school budget to the entire board. The task of eliminating $7,000,000 to fit the educational fund revenues ought to be considered by the committee of the whole, he told the trustees at the regular board meeting. The board did not accept his suggestion.

Yesterday the finance committee made budget reductions totaling $114,289. Nine more employés were recommended for dismissal bringing the total to ninety-three. After a week's work the whole budget has been reduced $456,915, and the educational fund appropriation has been increased $392,983.

The Parental School for Girls was abolished at a saving of $27,584 at yesterday's meeting. Other reductions were: Community centers, $14,705; Parental School for Boys, $7,000; and $65,000 appropriated for salaries in the undistributed accounts.

RESCUERS HOPE ASSEMBLY WILL HEED CITY PLEA

Strawn Group Prepares to Go to Legislature.

Hopes for a special session of the legislature at which remedies for the chaotic financial condition of the city and county governments may be provided were expressed in a preliminary report of progress issued yesterday by the citizens' rescue committee, headed by Attorney Silas H. Strawn.

Although Gov. Emmerson's public utterances have always been opposed to the calling of a special session for relief of Chicago tax spenders, the committee apparently expects that such a session will be called.

Committee Maps Program.

"For the next three months, in anticipation of a special session of the legislature," the report stated, "efforts of the committee should be concentrated upon the following subjects of prime importance:

"1. Amendment of the revenue article of the state constitution so as to enable the legislature to have more freedom in the matter of revenue laws.

"2. Reorganization of assessment adminstration for the purpose of bringing about a more accurate, orderly and expeditious method of assessing taxes.

"3. Revision of the legislation regarding temporary borrowing power, floating debts, budgetary procedure and control.

"4. Revision of the school fund financing basis.

Experts at Work on Plans.

"Obviously, as the work progresses, more definite plans will be formulated. The experts of the committee are diligently at work and expect to evolve constructive suggestions under the heads above indicated at an early date.

"It is the expectation of the committee that when the plan is completed, the committee will collaborate with the Illinois revenue investigating commission and other organizations to the end that the most helpful and constructive solution of the many problems now confronting our state, city, and county may be evolved.

"The validity of the county budget being challenged, the possibility of a veto hanging over the city budget, and the budget of the board of education being under consideration, it is obviously impossible for the citizens' committee at this time to offer any suggestions as to obtaining funds to relieve the present emergencies in the county, city and board of education. Just as soon as the committee has before it the budgets and sufficient information to act understandingly, it is the purpose of the committee to do what it can to help in the relief of the present emergency."

Revenue Commission Meets.

The revenue investigating commission, which is headed by State Senator Arthur A. Huebsch, held a meeting yesterday at the Hotel Sherman, at which the Strawn committee report was read.

Senator Huebsch expressed a belief that no taxes will be collected before June, if then.

"We made an effort to find out when the tax bills will be sent out," he said. "It's safe to say the people will not get their tax bills for another six months. I don't believe any tax money will be collected for six months."

CALLS FOR DISMISSAL OF PROTESTS AGAINST LOOP TAX VALUATIONS

Harry S. Cutmore, director of the reassessment, announced yesterday that he will petition the board of review to dismiss 1,700 complaints filed against the new valuations of loop property by Attorney Thomas V. Sullivan in behalf of the school board. Cutmore declared that the complaints have not been filled out in accordance with the rules of the reassessment because proper information has not been included.

Charles V. Barrett, a member of the board, indicated that the reviewers will deny Cutmore's petition. He said that dismissal of the complaints would not be good public policy Attorney Sullivan seeks to raise loop property valuations $300,000,000 on the ground that valuations for bonding purposes, which are much higher than the valuations placed by the board of assessors, are the proper valuations for assessment purposes.

Cutmore said that hearing of the complaints will delay the reassessment from 30 to 45 days.

35 ROBBERIES IN 7 HOURS LAID TO POLICE CUT

The wave of crime and petty thievery which started last week with the dismissal of 473 policemen as a result of the council's reduction in the budget continued to mount steadily last night. During the seven hours between 5 p. m. and midnight, 35 robberies had been reported to the police, the greatest number on one evening for several years.

The police regarded the increase as a direct result of the reduction in the size of the police force, encouraging inexperienced bandits to arm themselves and go in search of easy money. Most of the robberies, according to the police, have been committed by young hoodlums.

APPEAL COURT DENIES HAFFA A NEW HEARING

The United States Circuit Court of Appeals yesterday denied a petition for a rehearing of the case of Titus A. Haffa, former alderman in the 49th ward. The Appellate court recently upheld the former alderman's conviction for liquor conspiracy. He was sentenced nearly a year ago to serve two years at Leavenworth and fined $11,000.

STARTS SUBPOENAING OUSTED POLICE FOR CIVIL SERVICE QUIZ

Assistant State's Attorney George Lavin, who has been conducting the civil service investigation, started sending out subpoenas yesterday for the 473 policemen recently discharged because of the failure to appropriate for them in the city budget. The men are to be called in groups of twenty each and asked about the rumors that police department jobs cost $300 each. They will start to appear on Monday.

BOLT HITS BRANDY VAT; FOWL, HOGS REEL TO DEATH

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Jan. 8.—Lightning today struck a huge brandy vat in the village of St. Jean d'Angely, near Bordeaux, unloosening a flood of over 100 gallons of the precious fluid.

Streets in the vicinity of the winery of the luckless M. Dubreuil were quickly flooded. Nobody was hit and the only casualties thus far were some fowls and a few hogs, which, having partaken of a repast of what the French aptly call the "water of life," slithered to happy death in the wheels of traffic. The townspeople salvaged the liquor in pots and pails.

Coughs

ACTIVE, frisky little bodies—bubbling with stored-up energy—heedless of cold—indifferent to small discomforts—it seems incredible that they should ever tire—or lose zest for play—or become a prey to any kind of germ.

Yet how easily even these same healthy, resilient little bodies are exhausted by a cough! How quickly they lose weight—their rosy color leaves them.

That is why mothers are so fearful of a cough. For coughing uses up her youngsters' energy more quickly than almost any other bodily exertion.

And doctors advise: Check Coughs At The Start. Don't Let Them Weaken You. Pertussin brings quick relief because it gets at the immediate cause. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritation and quiets the cough, yet it is entirely harmless. That's why it is safer to use Pertussin.

Unlike many other cough remedies, it contains no dope or harmful drugs. Doctors have prescribed Pertussin more often than any other advertised cough remedy.

CHICAGO NEEDS SOME REFORM, MALONE'S VIEW

Answers Mayor's Attack on Reassessment.

"The order to reassess property in Cook county merely focused public attention upon a most damnable condition of squandering and pay roll padding which had persisted beyond the limit of human endurance."

William H. Malone, chairman of the state tax commission, thus commented yesterday upon Mayor Thompson's assertion in his veto message that the "reform reassessment" was responsible in great measure for the financial predicament in which Chicago now finds itself. The reassessment was ordered by Mr. Malone's commission to correct inequalities in the valuation of property in this district.

Points to Flood of Complaints.

"In 1927, when the boards of assessors and review had finished their work, there were more than 110,000 complaints which could not be heard because of lack of time, and there were over 40,000 individual complaints filed in the County court," said Mr. Malone. "The tax commission, under the law, has no authority to change any individual assessment. The law does, however, authorize the commission to order a complete revaluation in any county whenever it appears that inequalities exist.

"It would have taken over 15 years to hear the cases on file in the County court, to say nothing of the hundred odd thousands who had the doors closed upon them for lack of time. I wonder if the mayor, when confronted with such indefensible and deplorable conditions, would say that it did not appear that inequalities existed. If he would admit that it did appear thus, then his duty would be clear as the sun, namely, to follow the law and order a complete revaluation.

Says Mistakes Can Be Remedied.

"I have heard a great deal about valuations being cut in the loop. The mayor knows that the tax commission did not make this reassessment. The mayor knows well that the board of assessors has the full power to remedy any mistakes that are proved and that the board of review also has the power to raise valuations where the evidence indicates they should be raised. Both of these doors are still open.

"The mayor talks about the cost of this reassessment. I am sure that he cannot be referring to the cost of the reassessment, but to the cost of the delay in making it. The order of the commission was issued last June. If the taxing officials had complied with this order immediately, instead of fighting the order through the courts and up to the Supreme court, and if the city fathers had started pruning their pay rolls then instead of now, what a wonderful condition Chicago would be in today.

It's Wonder City Carries On.

"It seems that in the past every time the tax spenders would run out of money they would get into a huddle to devise some way to obtain more money from the taxpayers. Between the city hall and the sanitary district, with the methods they employed, the wonder of it is that Chicago still carries on in spite of the public officials.

"In regard to the mayor's statement with reference to a 'little clique of reformers' dictating this assessment, let me say that no man or set of men ever petitioned the commission for an order of reassessment. That order was issued by the commission upon my request and I take full responsibility for the issuance of it.

"If the mayor, in terming this a wild move of reformers, believes that the proper purging of the payrolls, the conscientious handling of the people's money, and a scientific, equitable spread of assessment consists of 'reform,' then I am for the reformers."

PICKED TO TYPIFY CHICAGO

Three Beauties Chosen

Three Chicago beauties were selected yesterday from hundreds of applicants to appear in final screen and sound tests for the privilege of typifying "Miss I Will" in the talking picture "Behind the Footlights," to be produced by the Chicago Civic Opera company.

Those successful in yesterday's contest, held before a jury of Chicago business and professional men at a luncheon in the bungalow atop the Hotel Sherman, were Miss Jean Beyerle, 715 Melrose street; Miss Phyllis Stepler, 1125 Farwell avenue, and Miss Margery Moline, who is employed by an advertising firm at 65 Wacker drive.

Miss Beyerle, a slender, blue-eyed girl with chestnut hair, is a student at the Goodman theater, and is scheduled soon to appear in the leading rôle of "Candida," to be produced at Little theater. Miss Stepler, who is a blonde, is an elocutionist. Miss Moline is a brunette.

Other girls making up the final coterie of beauties from whom the three were selected included Stella Novak, Inez Riddle, Adrienne Friese, Theora Martens, and Kathleen MacDonald. The judges were: Judges Harry Lewis and Marcus Kavanagh, Charles Marshall, J. I. Carrick, O. O. Bottorff, C. E. Moore, Clyde Eckhardt, Max Balaban, William Pine, William Saltiel, Charles S. Peterson, Frank Bering, and Mrs. Bessie Bragg Pearson.

WESLEY SEARS REGAINS CONTROL OF HIS ESTATE

Wesley M. Sears, 28 years old, 506 Sheridan road, Glencoe, son of a founder of Sears, Roebuck & Co., regained control of his estate yesterday when a jury in Probate Judge Horner's court found him competent, removing a conservatorship secured by his wife and mother Dec. 5, 1928. When the conservator was appointed the estate, comprised of Sears, Roebuck stock, approximated $800,000, but the recent market crash has reduced it to $400,000.

His wife, Mrs. Lillian Carroll Sears, and mother, Mrs. Anna L. Sears, obtained the appointment when they united in declaring him a spendthrift. The wife appeared before Judge Horner yesterday to testify that her husband was now competent to manage the estate and asked for the removal of the Northern Trust company as conservator. Sears is employed by Phalem & Co., brokers.

Although the estate will be placed in his name Sears will not have full access to it, because all of the stock is to be placed in trust under an agreement made with his wife, it was explained. The trust fund will yield an income of $25,000 a year.

COUNT DE JANZE TO WED ANOTHER U. S. GIRL TODAY

PARIS, Jan. 8.—(AP)—Count Frederick de Janze tomorrow will marry Miss Genevieve Ryan of Washington, D. C., at the Parisian church of St. Pierre de Chaillot. It was learned at the church tonight that his marriage with the former Alice Silverthorne of Chicago was annulled by the Vatican in 1927, making it possible to have a religious ceremony tomorrow.

The annulment followed the shooting of Viscount Raymond de Trafford at the Jare du North in Paris by the countess, who also wounded herself. She was given a suspended jail sentence of six months.

Count de Janze today declined to comment on the marriage beyond saying: "I am deeply pained at your query. One unfortunate wedding experience should be sufficient for puerile curiosity. All I want is peace and silence."

SUGAR WITNESS HOTLY SCOLDS LOBBY QUIZZERS

Senators Are Upbraided by Broker.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 8.—[Special.]—The senate's lobby investigators found another Grundy today in the person of H. H. Pike Jr., a New York sugar broker, who upbraided them for bringing the names of President Hoover and their own colleagues into the inquiry, and bluntly declared he is aware that a citizen's rights count for little among politicians or in senatorial inquisitions.

Shouting just as loudly as the senators who thundered at him for "bandying" the names of the President and senators in his sugar lobby correspondence, Pike retorted the names would not have become public if the committee had not seen fit to "broadcast" the contents of personal letters and memoranda seized in his files.

Walsh Leaves Room.

Senator Thomas J. Walsh [Dem., Mont.], the committee's chief examiner, pounced upon what he thought was evidence in one of Pike's letters that the low sugar tariff lobbyists sought to insert a "joker" in the bill as it was passed by the house. The Montana senator worked himself into a fury denouncing the resort to a "joker" and then left the room when Pike calmly pointed out that the joker was already in the bill and that he and his associates were trying to expose it.

Pike's testimony in substance was that the Coca Cola company and the Hershey company, producers and refiners of Cuban sugar, had placed $50,000 in his hands to finance a campaign against proposed increases in the duty on Cuban sugar. The campaign has been conducted in the name of the American Bottlers of Carbonated Beverages, and to date, according to Pike, a total of $32,000 has been spent in publicity.

"We are proud of the campaign," he asserted.

"The best answer to that is another question—when will the senate pass a tariff bill?" he responded when asked how much longer the campaign would continue.

Letter Causes Clash.

The first clash about the "bandying" of the President's name and those of other senators came when Senator Arthur Robinson [Rep., Ind.] read from Pike's letter to P. A. Staples, Cuban manager for the Hershey company, that W. C. D'Arcy, advertising manager of the Coca Cola company, "has a personal method of approach to Hoover and is going to see that Hoover gets full but concise data on the sugar subject."

"That," said Senator Robinson, "suggests some 'backstairs' method of reaching the President. Do you think it is fair to bandy the name of the President around in this fashion?"

"I think," answered Pike angrily, "you are suggesting something the President would resent very much."

"Don't you lecture this committee," shouted Robinson.

In another minute the hearing room crowd was roaring with laughter as Robinson read from an undated memorandum found in Pike's file which was explained as an analysis of the attitude of the Republican members of the senate finance committee on the sugar tariff.

While Pike sat flushed with anger and embarrassment, Robinson proceeded to read:

"Shortridge—Not influential; likely to speak for California interests; whatever they want, he'll want; C. and H. (California and Hawaii Sugar company) will certainly tell Shortridge what to do.

Thinks in "Terms of Iron."

"Reed—Is thinking in terms of pig iron . . . would undoubtedly trade to Pennsylvania interest.

"Edge—Will have to be shown good and sufficient reason for any change before he'll vote for it. . . .

"Couzens — Interested in Mexican labor situation and in agitation by Detroit Free Press, which regarded as his mouthpiece over proposition of turning convict labor into best fields in Michigan; believe as Free Press thinks, he thinks; unknown quantity.

"Watson — Administration spokesman.

"Keyes—Sick of whole tariff situation; made up mind not to commit self or study anything; old guard conservative; opposed to special session; would listen to Moses."

Deneen Mentioned in Group.

Under the heading of "confidential memorandum," Senator C. S. Deneen [Rep., Ill.] was listed with Senators F. L. Greene [Rep., Vt.], Hiram Bingham [Rep., Conn.], and F. M. Sackett [Rep., Ky.]. Greene's attitude was one of "waiting," according to the memorandum; Bingham is "a New England protectionist, but that section does not favor too high duties on commodities it consumes." And Sackett's position was unknown.

"Senator Deneen," Robinson read, "is not considering tariff matters yet and don't care to talk much about them until the bill comes over from the house. He says he has heard nothing from Illinois about sugar yet, but frankly, he looks for opposition to sugar increase from Chicago and industrial parts."

28 WARSHIPS SAIL FOR MANEUVERS IN SOUTHERN WATERS

Norfolk, Va., Jan. 8.—[Special.]—Bound for Cuba, where they will spend four months in maneuvers with the combined Atlantic and Pacific fleet, 28 battleships, cruisers, destroyers, and supply vessels, comprising part of the navy scouting fleets, steamed out of the Virginia Capes today. More than $4,000,000 worth of food and supplies were loaded on the ships in Hampton Roads before they made their departure.

Leading the procession out to sea today was the battleship Wyoming, flagship of the fleet, on board of which is Admiral W. C. Cole, commander-in-chief. Other battleships included the Nevada, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Utah and Florida. Then came a line of cruisers in command of Rear Admiral F. H. Clark. The destroyer division followed the cruisers, and then came the supply ships. The voyage to Cuba is expected to consume nine days.

RIOT IN MUSEUM TO HEAR ABOUT EINSTEIN THEORY

Mob of 4,500 Fights for Seats; Police Called.

New York, Jan. 5.—[Special.]—A mob of 4,500 persons rioted to hear about the Einstein theory at the American Museum of Natural History tonight.

The crowd, which had gathered in the main auditorium among the big meteorites, resented the fact that the uniformed attendants were trying to exclude those who did not have tickets. And a group of young men suddenly charged the attendants who were guarding the door which leads into the hall of the North American Indians.

Police Are Summoned.

The rioters swarmed between the canoes, totem poles and walrus tusks, ornaments to the main auditorium, where they seized the remaining seats.

The less agile were knocked down and stepped on. Women screamed. The manhandled attendants fled as soon as they could find an opening. The doorman telephoned for police, and in a few minutes uniformed men were rushing into the great scientific institution on a mission that was new to police department history—quelling a science riot.

Hall Filled but Fight Not Over.

The battle was not over with the victory in the first skirmish. Down at the other end of the Indian exhibit there was another terrific struggle at the entrance to the auditorium itself. The hall was already filled, but hundreds were milling about among the kayaks and igloos of the Eskimos, the stuffed, feathered chiefs and the thousands of glass inclosed tools and weapons of stone and ivory.

Frantic knowledge hunters begged to be admitted to hear about Einstein. Bruised and tearful women pleaded with the overflow mob which blocked the doorway not to bar them from a chance to learn if Einstein were right or wrong.

Finally the police quelled the first science riot in history.

Sale of School Land in Austin Again Postponed

The sale of 200 acres of school fund property in Austin was postponed again by the school board at the meeting yesterday. President Caldwell explained to the 10 west side property owners, who attended to urge the sale, that the affirmative votes of nine board members are necessary, whereas only eight members were present. The delegation was headed by W. R. James, new president of the west park board.

Fire yesterday destroyed the five story warehouse of the General Fireproofing company at 29th and La Salle streets and partly wrecked the adjoining structure, occupied by the Art and Detroit Stove companies. The blaze was spectacular, halting railroad traffic on the Rock Island, New York Central, and Nickel Plate lines.

Billows of yellow smoke rolled from the warehouse and the smoke spread over most of the southwest side. Fire Marshal Corrigan sent in a 5-11 alarm, and this emergency call brought fire companies from all sections of the south side and near loop district. The loss to both buildings was estimated at $450,000. The emergency call also brought Commissioner Goodrich and Deputy Commissioner Maloney to the fire scene.

The warehouse is owned by the General Fireproofing company of Youngstown, O. The fire is believed to have started in the finishing room on the first floor.

Alderman Demands More Buses on Evanston Lines

A demand that the Evanston Bus company add more buses to its lines on the west side of Evanston was filed with the utilities committee of the Evanston city council yesterday by Ald. Oscar H. Carlson of the 5th ward in Evanston. Ald. Carlson declared that the bus lines operate on an irregular schedule and that passengers are frequently forced to wait an hour for a bus.

the multitudes in the piazza when the prince and princess and the two royal families made their appearance. People had climbed up on every vantage point and the famous statue of Dioscuri and the tall obelisk in the square were covered with humanity. They yelled frantically for about ten minutes when the prince and princess stepped on to the balcony.

Newlyweds Visit Pope.

After this demonstration the royal couple visited Pope Pius XI. to receive his pontifical benediction. The pope waited 25 minutes as a result of delays in the nuptial ceremony, and in order not to make the delay longer the princess did not take time to change from her wedding gown. She appeared in Vatican City also as the little white princess instead of wearing the usual black.

The newlyweds remained in secret audience with the pope in his throne-room for half an hour. The pope gave them as a present a circular piece of Arras tapestry about a yard in diameter, which was manufactured in the special Vatican factory.

The pontiff gave the couple his benediction and then they went to St. Peter's cathedral, where they prayed before the confessional altar. Before leaving they paused to embrace the foot of a fifth century bronze statue of St. Peter.

U. S. Envoy at End of Line.

The marriage cortége, which filed out of the chapel after the ceremony, was characterized by the fact that the American ambassador, John W. Garrett, occupied a position little better than that of the late President Theodore Roosevelt at the funeral of King Edward VII. some years ago in London.

Mr. Garrett came at the end of the diplomatic procession. He was accompanied by Mrs. Garrett, who wore a beautiful blue dress, shot with silver, with a turban of the same color, over which was fitted a diadem adorned with diamonds and pearls.

The ambassadorial procession was headed at its exit by Marshal Petain, official envoy of France the British ambassador, the Japanese ambassador, the French ambassador, and the German ambassador.

Guests Salute Mussolini.

Another outstanding feature of the wedding was the acclamation given Il Duce. When Premier Mussolini entered the Cuirassier salon, just before entering the chapel, diademmed ladies and bemedaled and uniformed diplomats, officials, and nondescript guests arose from their seats and raised their arms in the Fascist salute, right there in the royal palace, and there were suppressed cries. Premier Mussolini and Undersecretary Giunta, who marched beside him, raised their arms in a returning salute. They smiled.

Today's marriage was a gorgeous and spectacular event, the like of which royalty has not witnessed since the war and perhaps will not witness again.

Early this morning a service of order, consisting of troops and police, was deployed about the palace, blocking access to all except invited guests. The guests began to arrive about 9 a. m.

They were ushered up the marble stairway, covered with a thick red velvet carpet, through lanes of red liveried lackeys and cuirassiers with iron breastplates and helmets. They took their places in the cuirassier salon adjoining the Pauline chapel, which is a gorgeously decorated hall with gilded ceiling, bearing the papal arms frescoed on the upper walls and with the lower part of the walls hung with tapestries.

Altar Simply Arranged.

From this hall was visible through the wide open door the altar of the Pauline chapel. The altar was simply arranged. A fifteenth century painting of the Annunciation formed the altar piece. Before this was a cross, and flanking each side were three high candlesticks. Before the altar were two red plush upholstered prayer stools for the prince and princess.

Princess Marie José had left the Belgian embassy for the palace shortly after 9 o'clock, but at 10 o'clock, when the ceremonies were to start, there was no sign of the wedding cortége.

It was not until 10:40 a. m. that the master of ceremonies, Count Solaro di Borgo, walked to the end of the hall and announced: "His majesty the king." Servants pulled back the curtains over the door and the first part of the procession entered the hall. They were the governor of Rome, government officials, prefect commissaires, representatives of the government, army commanders, Supreme court judges, those wearing the collar of Annunziata, and finally the sovereigns and princes.

Every one arose as King Albert, in a general's uniform, entered with Princess Marie José on his arm. King Albert looked composed and serene. The bride was a vision in white, the same as she first appeared to the Roman populace on Sunday.

On her head she wore a high filigree crown in the form of orange flowers, adorned with pearls and diamonds. Her wedding gown was of white satin, and over it was a mantle of white velvet made especially in the Omo district, with a train seven yards long trimmed with white ermine and held by four male attendants dressed in black, gold braided uniforms. The princess looked straight ahead. She appeared pale and grave.

Then came King Victor Emmanuel in military uniform. He bowed and smiled to the curtsies of the ladies. On his arm was Queen Elizabeth of Belgium, with impassive face. She was dressed in a dark blue robe covered with lace, a diadem, and a blue mantle with a train four yards long with a border of gold brocade. Two attendants held her train.

Prince Looks Embarrassed.

Finally came Prince Humbert, escorting his mother, Queen Elena. She wore a robe and mantle of fawn champagne colored lace and silk. Two attendants held her train. Queen Elena bowed smilingly and graciously on all sides. The prince looked a trifle embarrassed, but was composed and smiling.

Then, in gorgeous uniforms and gowns, came the other royal princes and members of the royal family, including King Boris of Bulgaria in a gorgeous Hussar uniform; the duke of York in admiral's dress uniform; Prince Leopold of Belgium; former King Manuel of Portugal; former King Amanullah of Afghanistan, who now lives in Italy; the prince of Monaco; the grand duchess of Luxembourg; Prince Daniel of Montenegro; Prince Paul and Princess Olga of Jugo-Slavia; Don Fernando of Bavaria, and former princes, princesses, kings and queens from all over Europe.

Cortége Takes 20 Minutes.

An especially cordial greeting was given the duchess of Aosta, who was dressed in white and wore a diamond diadem. She returned the greetings with smiling hauteur.

It took some 15 to 20 minutes for the cortége to reach the Pauline chapel, 200 feet distant, from which the odor of incense was issuing and altar boys were preparing for mass. Msgr. Beccarria, the king's chaplain of the Pauline chapel, was preparing lustral water to offer to the sovereigns and kings.

The marriage rites were brief. After the sovereigns had been offered the lustral water, King Albert escorted his daughter across to the front of the altar. Prince Humbert took his place beside her. Cardinal Maffi, in a five minute service, united them in a ceremony ending with blessing their rings. Prince Humbert put one ring on his own finger and then fitted the other on Marie José's.

The ceremony over, the royal families and princes smiled across at the pair and the princes of the house of Savoy threw a tight white veil over the heads of the couple. This veil ceremony is traditional in the house of Savoy. The same veil was used for the grandfather and grandmother of the prince, and also for his parents.

Wed According to Concordat.

The prince was married strictly in conformation to the concordat between the church and state, but during the rites Cardinal Maffi read three articles of the code respecting religious ceremonies which has full effect in Italy now.

The witnesses of the wedding were the count of Turin and the duke of Aosta for the prince and for the bride her brothers, the duke of Brabant and the count of Flanders.

When the prince and princess returned from their visit to the pope, a regal nuptial wedding feast was served to the royal guests in Quirinal palace at a table arranged in horseshoe shape, with the king and queen of Italy at the head and the newlyweds in the curve of the table immediately before them, and with the king and queen of Belgium on each side.

Princess Gets Special Apartment.

Princess Marie José, who has been residing at the Belgian embassy, tonight will leave what symbolically is her father's house and go to the home of her husband. For her there has been prepared a special apartment in Quirinal palace, which she will occupy tonight. This apartment was decorated by Queen Elena in rose colored decorations and has a chamber with a rose curtained canopy.

Two more days of hectic celebration are faced by the royal couple before they escape from Rome for their honeymoon, which will scarcely be a honeymoon, for they will leave Rome for Turin on Saturday, where another week of celebration is being prepared for them.

CONSULS OF ITALY AND BELGIUM IN CHICAGO HAIL ROYAL WEDDING

The celebration of the marriage of Princess Marie José of Belgium and Crown Prince Humbert of Italy at the Quirinal palace in Rome extended to Chicago yesterday. At the time of the marriage a breakfast attended by the Belgian and Italian consuls and 40 others took place at Mother Cabrini's Memorial hospital, Racine avenue and Gilpin place.

Giuseppe Castruccio, consul general of Italy, and Dr. Vermeren, Belgian consul, their wives, and members of their staff entered the hospital between two lines of student nurses. They were greeted by Missionary Sisters of the Sacred Heart of Jesus headed by Mother Superior Theresa.

SIXTY COUPLES WED IN VENICE AT SAME HOUR AS ROYAL PAIR

VENICE, Italy, Jan. 8. — (AP) — There were sixty marriages in Venice today at about the same hour as the wedding of Princess Marie José of Belgium and Crown Prince Humbert of Italy.

Namesake Weds at Same Hour.

Racconigi, Italy, Jan. 8.—(AP)—Umberto Monasterolo, who was born the same day as Crown Prince Humbert, Sept. 15, 1904, today was married to Maria Cossaj, the daughter of a neighboring farmer, at the same hour as his royal contemporary.

Monasterolo annually has received gifts from Prince Humbert and the royal family in honor of the coincidence of his birth with that of the prince and today congratulatory messages were exchanged between the royal couple and their humble friends.

50 TRUNKS OF FINERY

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Jan. 8.—When Princess Marie-José of Belgium arrived in Rome to marry Crown Prince Humbert of Italy two baggage cars of the royal train disgorged numerous trunks filled with her royal finery.

Dozens of dresses and wraps made of silks and velvets, painstakingly hand woven by Florentine fabric makers, versed in the art of centuries, came out of those trunks. Precious furs, sable, chinchilla, blue fox, ermine, and mink trimmed the wraps or made up the cloaks themselves. Crêpe, georgette, satins, and velvets overlaid with embroideries done in pure gold and silver thread and real jewels, have been fashioned into frocks and court wraps for the princess.

Slippers and Stockings.

Slippers galore, scores of pairs of filmy silk stockings, and many pairs of gloves made of the finest kid, trimmed in fur or lace or rare embroideries, are a few of the details of this lovely trousseau.

Jewels to make a rajah envious, diamond tiaras and necklaces and earrings, rubies, sapphires, and pearls will adorn this golden haired girl just out of her teens.

The dresses in Princess Marie-José's trousseau follow the dictates of fashion, being moderately long for daytime and not very long for evening. They are cut in a youthfully curved silhouette. They are daringly modest as to decolletage and sleeves. She has chosen as costume colors white, gold, blue, and rose. Moire is the favorite material.

Every dress in the princess' trousseau has a matching coat and often a draped hat of the same material.

Her lingerie is all made of white silks and satins, trimmed in real lace and gossamer embroidery. She has 100 lace bordered handkerchiefs and 30 negligees embroidered by the cleverest embroiderers of Italy.

FOUR ANARCHISTS REPORTED JAILED AS PRINCE WEDS

PARIS, Jan. 8.—(AP)—The Havas News agency says that four men, described as Italian anarchists, have been arrested at Cannes after the discovery of explosives in their possession. Further arrests were believed imminent.

There have been several arrests of Italians along the French Riviera, some on suspicion of plotting against Fascists and others on suspicion of relation with Camillo Berneri, who was arrested late in December in Brussels on a charge of plotting against the lives of the Belgian royal family on their journey to Italy for the wedding of Princess Marie José.

Children Slain; Danes Ask Death Penalty Be Renewed

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, Jan. 8.—The Youth's National society today demanded that the death sentence be reinstated in the Danish criminal law. Several children were recently murdered.

KEELEY LIQUOR PATIENTS TOTAL HIGHEST SINCE '07

More drunkards were treated last year at the Keeley institute at Dwight, Ill., than in any year since 1907, according to the annual report made public yesterday by Martin Nelson, secretary. The institute is a sanitarium for the cure of the liquor and drug habits.

The number of patients treated showed a steady increase each month over the corresponding month of 1928, with the exception of one month. That month was November, and the sudden drop in applicants for treatment was attributed to the stock market crash.

"The same phenomenon has been noted before," Secretary Nelson said. "The explanation is that when people are short of money, they are prone to neglect medical treatment of any kind. It is when they are in easier circumstances that they take treatment."

December Above 1928.

The report showed that the drop in business continued into December until the latter part of the month when the normal increase was resumed and the final figures for December showed an increase over those for the same month of 1928.

When 1928 showed the biggest year in point of registration since 1911, the institute officials thought the peak had been reached.

Year.	Patients.	Year.	Patients.
1927	946	1927	571
1918	731	1928	703
1915	660	1929	754
1920	136	1900	795

The number of women patients has continued to increase, the report revealed. This has necessitated an increase in housing accommodations and other facilities. Additional buildings, now under construction, will provide approximately 50 more sleeping rooms with a corresponding increase in dining club, and lounging room facilities.

More Business Men.

Business and professional men continue to make up the majority of the patients. The number of famers under treatment showed a decrease early in 1929, but came back to normal later, showing an increase over 1928. Before prohibition the number of working men taking the cure always exceeded that of the business and professional classes.

One difference in the history of patients at the institute was pointed out in the report. Formerly, the records of many indicated the use of patent medicines and "bitters." The use of these substitutes prevailed among those who did not drink openly in the old days. These alcoholic nostrums have been replaced, under the dry laws, with home brew and moonshine, the reports of applicants reveal.

Convention Visitor Is Found Dead in Hotel

L. J. Pulskamp, 50 years old, of Huntington, W. Va., was found dead of heart disease yesterday in his room in the Stevens hotel. Pulskamp, the president of the Globe Furniture company in Huntington, was in Chicago to attend the furniture men's convention at the Furniture Mart.

ASKS DIVORCE

Mrs. Hazel Bernard Overgard, a former musical comedy actress, yesterday filed a bill for divorce in the Superior court against her husband, Chester L. Overgard, wealthy contractor. The bill, drawn by Attorney Irving Eisenman, charges Overgard with deserting his wife four months after their marriage on May 2, 1927. Mrs. Overgard lives in the Berkshire hotel.

SOLVE EVANSTON BOMB MYSTERY; JUST SKYROCKETS

The mystery of numerous bomb explosions in vacant lots and unfinished buildings in Evanston last autumn was explained yesterday by Police Chief William O. Freeman in his report of the police department activities for 1929. Chief Freeman explained that the supposed bombs were large skyrockets, set off by children and tossed into the vacant lots and buildings, where they exploded with a loud report but trivial damage.

No arrests were made, the chief explained, because the children promised to stop the practice. The "bomb" scare, however, was responsible for policemen working some 2,300 hours' overtime without recompense, according to the chief's report, most of that time having been spent in guarding property against bombing before the source of the explosions was revealed.

Chief Freeman also reported that 1,700 minor violations of traffic regulations by visitors to Evanston were disregarded by the police during the year in order not to discourage outsiders from shopping in the suburb.

Water Too Cold, Would-Be Suicide Swims to Shore

Napoleon Babaeff, 39 years old, 1550 West North avenue, startled passersby yesterday by suddenly dashing into the lake at Monroe street, fully clothed, and swimming out into the water for 200 feet. Then he swam back to the shore. He was taken to the Chicago Yacht club nearby and after being given dry clothing, he explained that he was hungry and penniless and had decided to end his life by swimming out where the water was deep enough to assure his drowning. "It was too cold, so I changed my mind," Babaeff said.

An armed bandit entered the restaurant of Mrs. Sophie Nyholm at 6146 Wentworth avenue yesterday while she was there alone and took $20 from the cash register.

DORR CONFESSION IS READ TO JURY IN MURDER CASE

Crowds Pack Court to Hear Statement.

As a climax to a day in which a crowded courtroom saw its share of tears and heard testimony emphasizing all the elements of a dime novel, love, money, and blood, the alleged confession of Samuel Howard Dorr, on trial for the murder of William J. O'Brien, was read to a jury in the court of Judge Harry B. Miller.

Reading from the statement signed by Dorr, Assistant State's Attorney Walker Butler repeated a question, "Who shot William J. O'Brien?" made originally by Assistant State's Attorney Harry Ditchburne in questioning Dorr on Nov. 21 in the detective bureau. "I did," Dorr answered, according to the statement.

Dorr continued to tell, in answers to questions, according to the statement, how he had spent the previous evening with Genevieve O'Brien, widow of the slain man, who is in the county jail awaiting trial on a murder charge. He said he remained all night with Mrs. O'Brien in her bedroom, and that he heard her husband come in at 3 o'clock the morning of Nov. 20, and that he, Dorr, went back to sleep.

He again awoke to hear Mrs. O'Brien arguing with her husband at 7 o'clock, and when Mrs. O'Brien returned, Dorr asked her where the gun he had given her was, according to the statement read to the jury. He said he looked for it in her closet then and when Mrs. O'Brien again left the room he went into O'Brien's room and found the gun on the shelf. The statement described O'Brien's return to his room, when Dorr fired at him, missing.

"What did you have Howard shoot me for?" O'Brien cried to his wife as Dorr shot at him a second time, Dorr said in the statement.

The state contends Dorr fired four shots.

Genevieve O'Brien's alleged statement was read to the court in the absence of the jury, but arguments as to its admissibility as evidence were not heard at the time.

Don O'Brien, father of William, took the witness stand before the jury and gave the testimony he had given with the jury excluded the previous day concerning his son's dying statements. He wept at one point in the story when he said, "'I told my boy, 'Willie, you're going to die,' and he said, 'I know it, dad.'"

The court ordered the jury be dismissed, and jurors filed out just as Mrs. Dorr and Mrs. Don O'Brien, both seated in the front of the courtroom, were taken out sobbing and on the verge of collapse. Both Mrs. Dorr and the O'Briens had been warned against any show of emotion by Judge Miller during the noon recess.

Gunmen Oust Doctor and Driver; Take Automobile

Two gunmen jumped on the running board of the automobile of Dr. Julius H. Hess, 5717 Blackstone avenue, last night at Congress and Wood streets and after putting Dr. Hess from the car forced the chauffeur, S. W. Winfrey, colored, to drive them ten blocks south, where they put him out and drove away.

MORE SNOW DUE TODAY; WINTER STRIKES DIXIE

Winter was settling down over virtually the entire country last night as a heavy snowfall covered Chicago in lieu of the predicted cold wave. C. A. Donnel, weather forecaster, said the snow probably would continue throughout today and that there would be a drop in the temperature.

Southern states were facing much colder weather, with snow and sleet forecast from Texas to Kentucky, while the north Atlantic seaboard was expected to get a taste of the bitter weather which has prevailed for several days throughout the northwest. New York yesterday had springlike weather with a temperature of 62 degrees, four degrees more than the warmest Jan. 8 in the history of the city's weather bureau, but extremely low temperatures were forecast for today, with cold winds from the west following rain.

SPEEDS MEASURE TO INVESTIGATE TROUBLE IN HAITI

Borah Says It Will Be Reported to Senate.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 8.—[Special.]—Some prospect of early senate action on the pending resolution authorizing a presidential commission to investigate conditions in Haiti was seen today when Senator W. E. Borah [Rep., Idaho], chairman of the foreign relations committee, indicated in a formal statement that the measure will be favorably reported to the senate next Wednesday.

If it appears that the resolution can be disposed of promptly and without prolonged debate, which would delay the tariff bill, there will be no objection, so far as he is concerned, to immediate consideration on the floor, Mr. Borah said. He heretofore has expressed doubt as to the wisdom of an investigation.

Would Solve Problem.

Senator Borah again insisted that the substitution of a civilian "occupation" for the military régime which, under Brig. Gen. John H. Russell of the marines as high commissioner, now administers the protectorate over Haiti and the holding of an American supervised congressional election in the Negro republic would solve the problem without an inquiry.

"I am not myself opposed to a commission," said the senator, "but I feel that some things ought to be done without waiting for the report of a commission. We should appoint a civilian as high commissioner or as governor—for that is what it is—of Haiti. Secondly, we should give the Haitian people a free and untrammeled election. At this election they should be permitted to vote for members of their congress, and then the congress should be permitted, as is provided by the constitution, to elect their president."

Much Service to Haitians.

"We have been of much service to the Haitians in some respects," continued Senator Borah, "particularly in the bettering of their sanitary conditions. But we have not assisted them in the slightest in political affairs or in preparing them for self-government.

"Over twelve years ago we dissolved their assembly by force of arms, and since that time they have not been permitted in any substantial way to have anything to do with their government. They are completely disfranchised. The United States government ought to be ashamed to stand before the world at this time, with all our professions of peace and against military power, in the attitude of keeping a military heel upon a helpless people. This is a fundamental matter of policy and will have to be decided by the government."

FORECAST DEMOCRATS WILL GAIN CONTROL OF SOUTH PARK BOARD

Democratic control of the south park board was forecast yesterday when it was indicated that Benjamin F. Lindheimer probably will be elected to succeed Commissioner Louis J. Behan when the latter's term expires at the end of February.

B. F. LINDHEIMER. [Walinger Photo.

The Republicans have controlled this system for many years. The present board consists of three members of that party, Behan, John Bain, and Philip Graver, and two Democrats, Edward J. Kelly and Michael L. Igoe. If Lindheimer is elected by the Circuit court judges when they meet, probably somewhere between Feb. 25 and 28, his party will be in a position to make extensive changes in the park administrative organization if it desires to do so.

The election of Lindheimer was forecast yesterday following an announcement that the Democratic county managing committee will meet tomorrow afternoon to receive the names of county and sanitary district candidates from the ward leaders. In this connection it was said on what is considered the best authority that a resolution will be adopted indorsing Lindheimer for the park board.

County Chairman Snow and his friends are expected to stand by Commissioner Behan, but it is reported that he can count definitely on only four votes—those of Judges Taylor, Bartelme, David Brothers, and William V. Brothers.

SNOOK'S APPEAL DENIED BY OHIO SUPREME COURT

Columbus, O., Jan. 8.—(AP)—The State Supreme court today rejected the motion of Dr. James H. Snook, former Ohio State university professor, for rehearing of his appeal from a sentence of death in the electric chair on Jan. 31 for the murder last June 13 of Theora Hix, Ohio State co-ed.

MEXICAN ARMY CHEERS CALLES AT GUARDED FETE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 8.—Mexican army leaders today formally welcomed Plutarco Elias Calles back to Mexico.

The grand banquet of welcome was professedly a demonstration of the adhesion of the army to the former president and commander in chief of all federal troops in the recent revolution. For the past two weeks prominent officers, among them generals commanding military zones, have been arriving in Mexico City for the Calles banquet. The guests of honor today included President Portes Gil and minister of war, Gen. Joaquin Amaro. Heavy detachments of military and metropolitan police guarded Balbuena park.

Boats took Calles and 400 invited guests to the island. The organizers of the fête took no chances of an assassin reaching there, as happened at the last banquet to Calles at La Bambillo restaurant at San Angel, where the late President Obregon was assassinated.

SPANISH BULL SMASHES CITY HALL, GORES 3

SALAMANCA, Spain, Jan. 8.—(AP)—A bull crashed the gate of the arena today, fled to the street, and then crashed the door of the city hall.

The bull climbed the winding stairs of the hall and rushed into the assembly room. A doorman who attempted to stop the bellowing intruder was gored.

After smashing mirrors and overturning furniture, the bull returned to the street and charged into a crowd, injuring two persons, a young man climbed a lamp post, drew a razor from his pocket, and hurled himself at the animal's throat, killing it.

MODIFY DRY LAW IF IDEALS OF JACKSON LIVE, EDWARDS SAYS

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 8.—(AP)—The Democratic party must "stand for modification of the eighteenth amendment, if it is to be true to its history," former Senator Edward I. Edwards of New Jersey said tonight at the Jackson day banquet here.

Edwards spoke of former Gov. Alfred E. Smith of New York as a courageous leader who "walked in the shadow of Jefferson and Jackson," and added that "if he should carry the standard again, I will be glad to support and follow the great former governor of New York."

"Sniveling Fraud," Says Lewis.

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 8.—(AP)—Partisan hypocrisy has grown to such an extent that it forms a confidence game of which all citizens of the United States are victims, former Illinois Senator J. Hamilton Lewis declared in addressing Democrats at the annual Jackson day dinner here tonight.

"Our nation has made a sniveling fraud of prohibition," Lewis said. "Our farmers have been beguiled by delusions of relief that bury them deeper in the morass of bankruptcy."

HUSTON, G. O. P. CHIEF, DINNER GUEST TONIGHT

Prominent Republicans of Illinois and other central states will be guests of George Woodruff, Chicago banker, at a dinner at the Chicago club this evening in honor of Claudius H. Huston, chairman of the Republican national committee, on the occasion of his first official visit to this city.

There will be well known men from Michigan, Indiana, Wisconsin, Ohio, Iowa, Nebraska and Kentucky, among them three governors, including Gov. Emmerson of this state, the visiting executives being Gov. John Hammill of Iowa and Gov. F. W. Green of Michigan. Others of prominence will be Dr. Hubert Work, former national chairman; Joseph R. Nutt of Cleveland, national treasurer for many years, and Hanford MacNider, leader in the service men's organization work for the party.

Among the Illinois state officials in addition to Gov. Emmerson will be Lieut. Gov. Sterling, State Treasurer Custer, Director of Finance Kinney and Director of Public Works Cleaveland. The Chicago guests will include a large number of men well known in banking and business circles.

RUM RUINED HER MARRIAGE, SAYS DRY CRUSADER

Wife, Ex-Legislator, Sues Henry A. Born.

Secret tippling was blamed for the wreck of the marriage of Mrs. Edith Wilmans Born, former member of the Texas legislature, and Henry A. Born, president of the Born Refrigerating company, when Mrs. Born told her story yesterday before Superior Judge Sabath in pressing her suit for separate maintenance. Their romance began while she was making a prohibition speech.

Mrs. Born is 47 years old. She was in the Texas legislature in 1923-'24. In 1926 she ran against "Ma" Ferguson for the nomination for governor of the state and ran a second time in 1928 against Dan Moody. She was a widow with three daughters and a grandchild before her marriage to Born.

Mr. Born, who is 58 years old, was a widower. He has a daughter, Harriet. The Borns were married on April 30, 1929, and separated last December. They lived at 5234 Dorchester avenue.

Says He Sent Poems.

"Mr. Born and I became acquainted when he began corresponding with me after seeing my picture in a Chicago paper four years ago," Mrs. Born said. "Knowing that I published poetry, he sent me several poems.

"The first time we met was on Feb. 22, 1928. I was making a prohibition speech in Tulsa in celebration of Washington's birthday. He expressed his sympathy with the dry cause and our friendship ripened. Later he became ill and his daughter, Harriet, wrote me asking that I visit Mr. Born in a Chicago hospital. We were married as soon as he left the hospital.

"Early in December he left me and took with him only an assortment of liquors which he had been taking surreptitiously. He struck me several times."

Born Denies Charges.

Born denied the charges. He verified the details of their courtship, but insisted that his wife had hit him with her fist and ordered him to leave the apartment.

Judge Sabath ordered Mrs. Born's suit referred to Master in Chancery Benjamin Epstein, so that the financial difficulties might be argued at length.

Residents of Edgebrook are waiting for signs of spring in the expectation of park improvements and beautifications due to the presence of a woman, Mrs. Grace R. Dean, 6173 McClelland avenue, on their newly created park board. Mrs. Dean, as one of the five commissioners, has been active in preparing the way for the benefits to come. She is the wife of Frank Dean, the mother of Donald and of Mrs. Henry Jordan. As president of the Edgebrook Woman's club she has been active in the affairs of the Seventh district of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs.

10 MOTOR PLANE, BIGGEST IN U. S., TO HAVE 3 HULLS

New York, Jan. 8.—[Special.]—John O'Connor, head of the O'Connor Trans-Atlantic Airways, Inc., announced today that construction on a giant flying boat will be started within two weeks at the plant of his company.

It will be the largest seaplane yet projected in the United States, according to the announcement. It is to be powered with ten motors.

The plane will be of the biplane type, with three hulls.

EIGHT SCALDED AS PIPE BURSTS AT BRIDEWELL

Eight prisoners in the Bridewell were scalded severely early yesterday when a hot water pipe burst in the boiler room of the Bridewell hospital at 26th street and California avenue, spraying them with hot water. The eight prisoners were at work in the room at the time. Andrew Martinez and Thomas Curdey were the most seriously burned. The other six, all of whom were taken to the hospital for treatment, are Gus Allowitter, Mike Murphy, Nick Gonghzek, Steve Bohesh, Valentine Kizesinski, and Sam Touanas.

Order Radio and Steal It When Delivered to Flat

Two young men called yesterday at the Emerald Radio shop, 1958 West North avenue, and ordered a $200 radio delivered to their apartment, second floor, 713 Brompton place, at once. The machine was delivered and Paul Friedman, the salesman, was explaining the installation to the two buyers when a third young man overpowered him. The three bound Friedman, loaded the radio, which was unpaid for, into an automobile, and drove away.

SAY BOY KILLED FATHER TO SAVE MOTHER'S LIFE

John Grzesikowski, 38, proprietor of a soft drink parlor at 1041 West 34th place, was dead yesterday from four bullets fired by his 18 year old son, Eugene. The youth was held by the Deering street police for the inquest this morning. The boy and his mother, Mrs. Helen Grzesikowski, both declared the father had suddenly run amuck with an ax, and had badly wounded his wife before the son seized a pistol and fired.

Mrs. Grzesikowski, bleeding from a scalp wound and hysterical, told police her husband had been acting strangely for weeks. She said he came up from the basement yesterday morning carrying an ax and said he was going to kill her. She turned to run but he struck her on the head, she said.

The report numbered 77,515 visitors to see prisoners, visit officials, or view the new jail.

CONVICT AUTOIST WHO HURT FOUR; FACES JAIL TERM

Three Deaths Raise Toll to 15.

Floyd J. Owens, 45 years old, Niles Center excavating contractor, was found guilty yesterday by a jury in Judge Jacob Hopkins' court of "hit and run driving," technically known as leaving the scene of an accident. The conviction carries a sentence of one year in the county jail.

Owens, according to the testimony, sped through a stop light last September and crashed his automobile into another car, injuring four persons, one of them a 10 year old girl, who will be crippled for life.

Driver Sent to Jail.

Louis Butek, 23 years old, 1322 North Leavitt street, motorcyclist, who struck and severely injured two small girls in November, was sentenced to ninety days in the Bridewell and fined $50 by Judge Francis Borrelli. Witnesses testified that Butek had been speeding.

Three deaths raised the 1930 motor toll for Cook county to 15. The victims:

Miss Annie Moran, 60 years old, 359 Hazel avenue, Highland Park. Walked in front of an automobile as she was crossing Rosemont avenue at Francisco street. Harold Duffy, 28 years old, 2651 Arthur avenue, the driver, attempted to stop, but his car skidded. He was held.

Hyman Lowenthal, 53 years old, 701 Independence boulevard. Died of injuries suffered when he was struck by an automobile driven by Patrick Doherty, 4521 Washington boulevard.

George W. Blaney, 51 years old, 6609 South Wabash avenue. Struck by an automobile at 66th and State streets and died in St. Bernard's hospital. William Byrnes, 11341 South Park avenue, was driver of the automobile.

Stephen Rother, 37 years old, 7130 Cyril avenue, a private watchman, narrowly escaped death yesterday when his automobile skidded into the path of an Illinois Central suburban train at 79th street and Exchange avenue. The automobile was demolished, but Rother was thrown clear of his car by the impact of the collision. He suffered a fracture of the right collar bone.

Body of Navy Pilot, Crash Victim, to Be Brought Here

The body of Ensign John D. Clark, 24 years old, navy aviator killed with Lieut. Eugene Field Burkett when their amphibian fell 1,500 feet into San Diego bay Tuesday, is being returned to Chicago for burial. His father, Harry J. Clark, lives at 6162 Kenmore avenue. Ensign Clark is also survived by his wife, to whom he was married a year ago Monday.

QUEST FOR CLEW IN HASSEWER KILLING FAILS

Cop and Others Accused by Slain Man Freed.

Testimony at a coroner's inquest yesterday afternoon only added more mystery to the murder of Jean B. Hassewer, cabinetmaker, who was found shot to death Tuesday evening in his factory at 5642 Lake Park avenue.

Hassewer was the complaining witness against William Begley, former sergeant of police, and four others indicted for extortion. Police had believed the cabinet maker was killed to prevent him from testifying in that case. It was testified before the coroner's jury, however, that Hassewer had agreed to accept a cash settlement in open court from Begley and the other defendants, and thus the motive of the alleged extortionists seemed removed.

Hunt Missing Defendant.

Police, however, were seeking Howard Hulbert, alias Ward, the only one of the defendants in the extortion case who could not be found after the Hassewer slaying. Ward, like the other defendants, had been before Judge E. I. Frankhauser in the Criminal court on Tuesday, several hours before the killing, when the case against them was continued until Feb. 24.

Mrs. Josephine Hassewer, divorced wife of the slain man, was the first witness at the inquest. She said she had left him about seven years ago, had been divorced about five years ago, and had not seen him in more than a year.

Mrs. Marie Ballard, secretary-treasurer of Hassewer's cabinet concern, testified she left him in the building reading a newspaper at 4:30 p. m. Tuesday. She said she had expected him at her apartment for dinner. She tried to call him on the telephone and finally went to seek him. She found him dead at the bottom of a stairway leading into the basement.

Deputy Coroner Bauman asked whether the slain man had any insurance. Mrs. Ballard said he had two policies and that he had signified his intention of making her the beneficiary.

Former Sergt. Begley said he could throw no light on the murder.

Joseph Yerkes, another defendant, testified he and Ward had been together on Tuesday. He corroborated testimony given by Mrs. Ballard to the effect that negotiations had been under way to have Hassewer accept a settlement of his case in open court and that Hassewer had agreed to a settlement.

Lieut. Charles Grattan of the Hyde Park station testified he had investigated the alibis of Begley and Yerkes and found that they had told the truth concerning their movements.

Following the testimony the jury returned a verdict that Hassewer had been slain by a person unknown. Lieut. Grattan then released all those who had been taken into custody, including Begley and Yerkes.

Says Hubby Showed Girl Uncensored Films; Sues

Mrs. Frances Schrader, 26 years old, of 1528 Cleveland avenue, yesterday filed a bill for divorce in the Superior court against Fred C. Schrader, a motion picture operator. The bill charges Schrader with giving previews of uncensored movies to a girl friend. The Schraders were married Jan. 15, 1923, and separated last Dec. 27.

CRIME BOARD REPORTED SPLIT OVER DRY LAW

Black, N. Y. Wet, Wants Public Sessions.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 8.—[Special.]—President Hoover's law enforcement commission, meeting behind closed doors, wrestled with the vexatious prohibition problem today, while in the house the wet and dry controversy raged on with unabated intensity.

Although no statements were forthcoming following the secret session of the commission, it was understood that the members spent the day trying to thrash out questions in connection with the dry enforcement program soon to be recommended to congress. Chairman George W. Wickersham indicated that the commission may make an announcement in a few days.

Meanwhile reports that the commission members are in conflict among themselves over the prohibition program persisted, gaining in credence when Representative Loring M. Black [Dem., N. Y.] repeated them in a speech to the house. Black named as the dissenters Dean Roscoe Pound of Harvard law school and United States Judge William S. Kenyon.

Find Fault with Dry Law.

"I understand," Black asserted, "there is some dissension now in this commission with its procedure concerning prohibition. I am told that Judge Pound, one of the distinguished jurists of this country, is finding fault with the commission. I also understand that a former senator, now Judge Kenyon, finds fault with the operation of the commission in respect to prohibition procedure.

"I want to ask the chairman of that commission a question and I think that congress ought to demand an answer: Is there dissension within your commission? I think congress should demand further that Mr. Wickersham should order public hearings and let congress and the public know what they are doing."

Since its creation six months ago, the law enforcement commission has kept its activities almost entirely in the dark and it was not until recently through Senator Wesley L. Jones [Rep., Wash.] and other administration spokesmen that it became known the commission was preparing an immediate report on prohibition.

Today's outbreak in the house of representatives on prohibition followed on the heels of a bitter clash yesterday over the recent coast guard killings of rum runners during which Representative C. L. Beedy [Rep., Me.], a dry, was applauded for his justifications of the shootings.

Referring to the report of the shooting of a Washington Negro by a prohibition agent last night, Representative John Schafer [Rep., Wis.] asserted:

"Following the applause favoring the dry killings yesterday, within the shadow of the nation's capitol, we find that another prohibition agent shot a citizen while making a prohibition raid without a search warrant.

"'When ye make many prayers I will not hear; your hands are full of blood,'" he continued, quoting Isaiah 1:15. "Each day's tragic news indicates more human lives are sacrificed on the altar of prohibition Baal. This God of theories must have blood.

"For almost ten years the crimson tide has flowed and the next victim ever waits at the gates of his temple. No one innocent or guilty of violating the sacred prohibition laws knows whether his bleeding form will be the next to be cast upon the reeking altar without warning. It may be some of those who vigorously applauded the prohibition killings in the house yesterday."

More Dry Cheer Leaders.

Representative Black raked the drys for applauding during the Beedy speech, but pointed out that it was not quite so loud as on a previous occasion, when other dry killings were lauded.

"The boys were not bloodthirsty enough yesterday," Black declared. "They were not wild eyed enough. Perhaps they have in mind that some of our own members got jammed up with this law and were arrested like gentlemen instead of being shot on sight.

"Now, what they need on the dry side of this house is a few more cheer leaders and I am going to nominate Bishop Cannon as one of them, so they will get a little more pep and zip into this question. They ought to have the bishop here wearing a sweater with a big D on it. Of course, I do not want him to turn any somersaults, because some chips and stocks might fall out of his pocket.

"Then there is another distinguished dry who will be jobless and qualify pretty soon," he continued, referring to Senator Thomas J. Heflin [Dem., Ala.]. "He is one of the drys and they soon will have to say he was once a senator from Alabama and was once a Democrat."

Black predicted there never would be a real judicial determination of the prohibition question until a President is impeached for not enforcing the law.

"Then you will have a trial in the senate and the defense of the President, whoever he may be, will have to be the sensible defense—that it cannot be enforced," Black declared. "I have the greatest respect in the world for the present President, but I cannot for the life of me understand why he cannot see the realities and come to the rescue of the country instead of temporizing as he has.

Knows His Difficulties.

"I know his difficulties. It is all right for members of this house, the drys on the side and in the senate, to talk about enforcing the law, but the poor President has to actually try to enforce the fool thing. All the drys have to do is to talk about it, put speeches in the record, and go home and get votes."

A moment later Black referred to the budget proposal for the construction of thirty new coast guard boats to patrol the great lakes. Describing this proposal as "a sop to the drys," he declared that the President "wants to break down our national defense, but he wants thirty more murder cruisers to shoot down American citizens engaged in the rum traffic."

Launching his attack upon the law enforcement commission, Black averred that if it does not deliver itself on the enforcibility of the law it will have provided itself useless.

"I think it should never have been created in the first place," he concluded. "I have never had any faith in these commissions. I never saw one that was not put out as a whitewash proposition to cover something. But let us have the facts. Here is a commission with a lot of money. Mr. Wickersham and his commission are in a position to give the public the facts and I think the President should insist that they open up the doors."

RUM RUNNER HIRES SUBSTITUTE AT $20 DAY FOR JAIL TERM

Erie, Pa., Jan. 8.—[Special.]—A substitute now in Erie jail serving a term imposed on Joseph Jarvis, rum runner, is to be paid $20 a day or $1,200 for the 60 day sentence, authorities learned here today. Department of justice agents say the Joseph Jarvis originally arrested is really Stanley Wells, a Canadian rum runner, who is in Port Colborne, Ont.

Federal Attorney Joseph A. Graham is in Washington conferring with Assistant Attorney General Youngquist in an effort to find a way to bring about the extradition of Wells to the United States.

U. S. JUDGE RULES DRY AGENTS CAN SEIZE PROPERTY

Holds the Dismantling of Roadhouse Legal.

Prohibition agents can seize any personal property, from pianos to boxes of cigars, wherever they have made a legal seizure of liquor on which internal revenue tax has not been paid, according to an eleven page opinion handed down by Federal Judge Woodward yesterday. This was the first written opinion on this question given by a federal court.

The judge's ruling arose from the seizure of fixtures and supplies at a saloon operated by Stanley Fiesa, 1409 South 49th avenue, Cicero. Attorney Harry I. Welsbrod has sought return of the property.

Argument of Defense.

Welsbrod has argued that prohibition agents could not make seizures under a statute pertaining to internal revenue, that goods not connected with law violation could not be seized, and that a saloonkeeper or other person convicted for prohibition law violation was not subject to property forfeiture.

The judge overruled each of these arguments in his opinion, citing as authority an internal revenue law passed in 1864 and amended in 1866. He said that it made no difference if the agent did not have authority to seize. To the second objection he said that everything in a building, yard or enclosure where the prohibition law was violated was contaminated, and could be seized.

Defense Plans Appeal.

The judge ruled that property could be taken from a person convicted of dry law violation because prosecution, a criminal matter, would not interfere with seizure, a civil matter. Defense counsel said that a motion for new trial would be entered today, and that efforts to reverse the ruling would be carried to the Supreme court, if necessary. Assistant United States Attorney Walter E. Wiles argued the case for the government.

Daughter of Clergyman Weds in Campus Romance

Miss Caroline Eugenie Beck, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. L. D. Beck, was married yesterday to Gordon Hunter Bryan of Peoria. The ceremony was performed at the Beck home at 1221 East 57th street. The bride's father, who is pastor of the Hyde Park Presbyterian church, officiated. Mrs. Bryan is a senior student at the University of Chicago and is to be graduated in March. Mr. Bryan was a student at the university until a few months ago when he withdrew to attend the American University of Commerce.

N. U. May Put Ban on Auto Driving to Save Campus

The driving of automobiles by students may be prohibited by Northwestern university unless students refrain from parking their cars on the campus along Sheridan road. This was announced yesterday by George Lovelace, chairman of the campus committee of the student government association of the university. There are no curbs along Sheridan road where it bounds the campus and students have persisted in driving onto the campus lawn, according to Lovelace.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 20 years, and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid liver.

No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They help cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth" —bad breath—torpid liver—constipation, you should find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets.

BANDITS KIDNAP CHIEF OF CHINESE NAVY AT DINNER

Cover Guests with Guns; Seize Six Others.

FOOCHOW, Jan. 8.—(AP)—Admiral Yang-Shu-Chuang, commander in chief of the Chinese navy, was kidnaped Monday night by bandits, who also abducted six Fukien provincial officials.

Yang, a member of the Kuomintang party's central executive committee, member of the government's state council and civil governor of Fukien, was attending a dinner when the bandits appeared. Yang is believed to be held in Foochow. The other captives are said to have been taken to the mountains west of here.

The abduction was executed in a sensational manner. The bandits entered the room where an official dinner was attended by scores of guests. Covering the guests with revolvers, they bound the seven officials with ropes and departed unmolested. The raid was the most spectacular of many daring forays by bandits, who for the last year have ravaged Fukien province. The organized bands have steadily increased in boldness as a result of the Nationalist government's failure to subjugate them.

Bandits Kidnap City Fathers.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PEIPING, Jan. 8.—The city fathers of Mengtzu, one of the largest towns in Yunnan province, have learned to fear ex-bandit chiefs, even when they issue dinner invitations. Because they were too trusting, most of the officials and wealthy men in Mengtzu fell an easy prey in a wholesale kidnaping plot.

An American missionary in Yunnan tells the story in a letter received here. The governor of Yunnan, during a war, was hard pressed, and sought the aid of a bandit chief. The bandit leader agreed to help if appointed as an official. He was put in charge of Mengtzu, which he ruled for some time.

But the governor won his war and decided that he had no further need for the bandit chief. He arranged to send an armed force to Mengtzu to disarm the bandits. But the bandit chief learned of the scheme. He issued invitations to all important men in town to a banquet in the city hall. The banquet was an elaborate affair, with plenty of good food and wine and after-dinner speeches.

Seized on a Signal.

As the third speaker rose the bandit chief gave a signal. His followers pounced upon the guests and hurried them off to the railway station, where a train was waiting. The train was rushed to the end of the line, in the mountains of Yunnan. Then the party was forced to walk a hundred miles to mountain caves. Three or four of the less important personages were sent back with word that the others would be held for ransom.

Government troops arrived to find the bandits gone, and with them every important man in Mengtzu, including the district judge, the mayor, heads of municipal departments, bankers, and business men. The leader of the troops knew it was hopeless to invade the bandits in their own fastness. He was still bargaining with them over the amount of ransom when the missionary wrote. The bandit leader has agreed to release the men if assured of a permanent official post, and it appears he may win out.

James W. Palmer, Railway Detective, Believed Suicide

James W. Palmer, 65 years old, of 5428 University avenue, chief special agent for the Chicago and Western Indiana railroad, was found shot to death yesterday in his offices in the Dearborn street station. The police were convinced he had committed suicide. A gun was found lying alongside his body. His widow said that Palmer had been in ill health.

DAVIS OPENS WAR ON 'SHYLOCK' EVIL IN PHILIPPINES

Hopes to Reorganize Banking System.

BY FORD WILKINS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MANILA, Jan. 8.—Having clambered gracefully and easily over some rough hurdles in his first legislative session in the Philippines, Gov. Gen. Dwight F. Davis is now ready to devote a major portion of his official attention to what he considers most vital to Philippine welfare—reorganization of the banking system with a view to stamping out the usury bugbear.

That problem will be attacked through the Philippine National bank, government owned, which is in line for reorganization.

May Implant U. S. Ideas.

The practice of usury in the Philippines, older than the Spanish régime, has long been known as the outstanding social and economic evil of the country. In many provinces virtual serfdom exists, with farmers so everlastingly indebted to rich land owners and native chiefs that their earnings are not sufficient to pay the exorbitant interest rates on the money they owe.

Gov. Davis is watching with an eagle eye the activities and accomplishments of President Hoover's farm relief plans in the United States. He hopes to gain ideas which may be applied to the Philippines. His present plan, still in rough outline, is to so organize the Philippine National bank that, with the aid of other bank resources, and possibly in conjunction with various coöperative farm organizations, which already exist in the Philippines, small amounts of money will be available to the poor peasant in the provinces at reasonable rates of interest and with sufficiently easy time payments.

Job for More than One.

It is an old problem. A. W. Prautch, chief of the rural credits section of the bureau of agriculture, has been working on it for years through rural credit bureaus. But no one man can overcome the enormous inertia and indifference that such a program meets. Gov. Davis realizes that force and power must be behind such a plan.

"Victim" Says Robbery Was Joke; 4 Cops Freed

Four policemen assigned to the state's attorney's office to work with Capt. William Shoemaker on the slot machine syndicate cases were freed yesterday when arraigned before Judge William Helander in the Felony court on charges of robbery. Maires Meyers, 2646 West Division street, testified that the robbery of his store on Dec. 13 was a practical joke. The policemen are Edward O'Malley, Grover Mulvaney, Michael Coan, and Joseph Casey.

FRANCE PATCHES UP PRIVATE ROW WITH GERMANY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

THE HAGUE, Holland, Jan. 8.—The widely circulated rumors last night that the German delegation was offended by the demand of Premier Tardieu of France for a written agreement that the reparations question reverts to the competence of the Versailles treaty, if the German government wilfully defaults in execution, was blasted today, when private conversations among chief delegates at the second reparations parley brought considerable progress toward a settlement on outstanding points.

The French premier tonight said that only four major problems were unsettled and expressed the hope that a complete accord would be reached on all questions early next week.

The French this evening sent Foreign Minister Julius Curtius of Germany a draft of a document, which is satisfactory as a guaranty, binding the indemnity settlement if the Young plan is ever denounced. The text was telegraphed to Berlin for examination by the German cabinet.

FOUR SUSPECTS IN GEM HOLDUP NOT IDENTIFIED

Four men and a woman seized yesterday in early morning raids by Chief Investigator Pat Roche of the state's attorney's office could not be identified as participants in the robbery of the home of Charles M. Richter, 1418 Lake Shore drive, which was invaded by five bandits Monday evening. The Richters, who lost jewels valued at $25,000, could not identify any of the men.

The suspects are Charles Partner, 27, 401 Fullerton parkway, and his wife, Madonna; William Fransiche, 26, 706 Buckingham place; Albert Sachen, 27, 7017 Greenview avenue, and George Naygran, 26, 3161 Hudson avenue. The men are being held at the detective bureau. Mrs. Partner was released last night.

ROB DRIVER OF $200.

Edward W. McGrady, 4646 Race avenue, a truck driver for a department store, was robbed of $200 yesterday by a gunman, wearing goggles, who stopped him at Homan avenue and Monroe street. The bandit escaped in an automobile in which an accomplice was waiting.

DOCTORS RECOMMEND NATURAL 100% BRAN

Over 90% of Physicians' Group Express Preference

Here is the opinion of experts on a problem that is very close to all of us:

Not long ago ten thousand doctors were asked this question: "Do you believe that raw natural 100% bran is the best form of bran for the relief of constipation?"

93% of the answers were "Yes."

This overwhelming preference gives a valuable suggestion to all of us who suffer from one of the most troublesome of modern ills—atonic constipation, irregularity resulting from bowel sluggishness. Natural 100% bran gives natural relief. Pillsbury's Bran is natural 100% bran—nothing else. It is the best way to supply the roughage which almost all of us need.

Primitive man had roughage in his daily diet, and had no constipation. Modern man eats soft food, and suffers from constipation—with the resulting sallow cheeks, headaches, sleeplessness, loss of vitality, nervousness, and increased susceptibility to more serious diseases.

To avoid these consequences eat Pillsbury's Bran in some way every day—there is an infinite variety of delightful forms. You can use it to prepare any number of delicious foods—muffins, tea cakes, apple cake, macaroons, doughnuts, etc. You can sprinkle it over salads, or mix it with cereals. You can eat it as it comes from the package, with cream and sugar. No matter how you take Pillsbury's Bran, you may be sure you are using the most effective kind—natural 100% bran, recommended by over 90% of these doctors.

UTILITIES STATE THEIR CASE TO FEDERAL BODY

Washington, D. C., Jan. 8.—[Special.]—Presentation of the other side of the power trust propaganda picture to the federal trade commission was begun today by Bernard F. Weadock, chief counsel for the joint committee of national utility associations, the national electric light associations, and various state utility associations, whose publicity methods have been under investigation by the commission for nearly two years.

With nearly 4,600 exhibits and many hundreds of thousands of words of testimony before it, the commission's record, according to Mr. Weadock, shows merely what was done by the electric companies, but not why it was done, and the purpose of his rebuttal, he continued, was to bridge the gaps which leave the record "incomplete and so fragmentary as to be misrepresentative."

Some Make Mistakes.

The outstanding fact, he argued, is "that while a few individual employés out of a quarter of a million in the industry throughout the United States have made mistakes in trying to sell the utility story, no evidence has been offered to show that these errors in judgment or zeal were ever approved or countenanced by the industry as a whole."

To substantiate his assertion that the utilities companies first entered the publicity field during the war to secure "public support for a necessary national industry, important both in peace and war," Mr. Weadock produced copies of correspondence between the late President Wilson, Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo, and other officials indicating their concern for the stability of the industry.

Refers to Advertising.

Mr. Weadock insisted that the percentage of gross revenues devoted by public utilities to advertising is small in comparison with the expenditure of other industries for other purposes and that in spite of the sensational charges made in the commission's investigation or the interpretations placed on some of the evidence, "utilities have never endeavored, nor do they believe it possible, to influence the attitude of newspapers by means of advertising."

He asserted that "with trifling exceptions utility pamphlets made available to the schools were noncontroversial, were wholly factual and technical in their nature," and that "utility activities in connection with schools and colleges were with the sanction of the educational authorities," who, he added, have long been accustomed to securing similar information from all classes of industry.

Only One Witness.

Thus far the utilities' defense plan contemplates the calling of only one witness—Preston Arkwright, former president of the National Electric Light association and now president of the Georgia Power company—when Mr. Weadock concludes his argument tomorrow or Friday.

McManus, Racketeer, Dies Without Naming His Slayer

James McManus, 37 years old, racketeer and gunman, who was shot in a pistol battle at Lincoln avenue and Diversey parkway on Monday night, died yesterday at the Chicago General hospital without revealing the identity of his slayer. Policeman James Penne of the Sheffield avenue station made repeated efforts to obtain a statement from him before he lapsed into unconsciousness but McManus scoffed at the request.

Volunteers to Aid House Wreckers; Killed by Beam

John Mann, 38 years old, 5855 Glenwood avenue, a salesman, was killed yesterday when he became a volunteer house wrecker to assist two workmen who were dismantling a building at 1261 Noble street. The laborers were having difficulty in tearing out a section of the porch and Mann lent his assistance by tugging at the planks. A heavy beam fell, striking him on the head.

ASSERT RAYON TARIFF BENEFITS FOREIGN FIRMS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 8.—[Special.]—Reduction of proposed duties on rayon was sought in the senate today by Democrats and radicals on the basis of charges that the domestic industry is controlled, in part, by British, German, Belgian, and other foreign interests, and has been consolidated in such a way as to amount to a trust.

Senators Wheeler [Dem., Mont.] and King [Dem., Utah] led the attack upon a provision fixing a 45 per cent minimum rate on various classes of filaments of rayon or other synthetic textile. This provision had been approved yesterday, but its consideration was reopened today and a fight carried on with such vigor that action was deferred until tomorrow.

Senators David I. Walsh [Dem., Mass.] and George [Dem., Ga.] assailed another provision of the rayon schedule which shifted the duty on filaments of rayon not exceeding 30 inches in length from 20 per cent ad valorem to 20 cents per pound, representing a doubling of the duty.

The regular Republicans finally accepted a compromise proposed by Senator George by which the duty was made 25 per cent ad valorem. It was contended by Senator Walsh that only one company would benefit by an increased duty.

On the motion of Senator George the duty on spun yarn was reduced for 20 cents per pound as proposed to 12½ cents.

Senator Wheeler, attacking rayon rates, asserted that the protection provided was far in excess of legitimate needs. He said the high duties were designed to enable rayon manufacturers to recover contributions to the Republican campaign fund.

Senator Wheeler stated that the American Viscose company of New York was controlled by British interests and that other rayon manufacturers in the United States were under other foreign influences.

Two women rayon experts of the tariff commission, Misses Ruth Petersen and Evelina K. Southworth, occupied seats on the floor, the first time any women other than women members of congress have been admitted to the floor while the senate was in session.

U. S. DELEGATION SAILS TODAY TO NAVAL PARLEY

Including Advisers, Will Number 100 Persons.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 8.—[Special.]—America's delegation to the London naval reduction conference will sail tomorrow on the steamer George Washington hopeful of effecting a general reduction of the world's major naval establishments, but far from confident such a treaty can be concluded.

So many obstacles to a five power agreement have developed that the optimism of the United States officials following the conclusion of the Hoover-MacDonald naval understanding has been superseded recently by the more cautiously expressed opinion that the difficulties faced by the five delegations are not insuperable.

With the exception of Secretary of the Navy Charles Francis Adams, all the United States delegates have left Washington. The naval secretary will leave tomorrow on a special boat train which will take the 100 members of the official party direct to Jersey City, whence the American group will motor to Hoboken, where the George Washington will be boarded.

Host of Technical Advisers.

The boat train departs at 9 o'clock and is expected to arrive in time for the steamer to weigh anchor in the early afternoon. Upon the George Washington will be five of the seven American delegates, a host of technical advisers from the navy and state departments, a large group of newspaper men and several secretaries, clerks and stenographers.

Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson, chairman, and the other four delegates sailing tomorrow will be joined by the other two regular members of the delegation at London. When complete the American delegation will consist of two cabinet members, three ambassadors and two senators. It includes Secretaries Stimson and Adams, Ambassadors Charles G. Dawes, Hugh Gibson, and Dwight W. Morrom, and Senators David A. Reed [Rep., Pa.] and Joseph T. Robinson [Dem., Ark.]

Among their principal advisors will be Admiral William V. Pratt, Rear Admiral Hilary P. Jones, veteran naval delegate and technical adviser; Theodore Marriner, chief of the western European division of the state department; George Rublee of Chicago, secretary to Mr. Morrow; Rear Admiral J. R. P. Pringle, Rear Admiral A. J. Hepburn, Rear Admiral H. E. Yarnell, Capt. A. H. Van Keuren, and Commander Harold C. Train.

All the American delegates leaving tomorrow and most of the advisers will be accompanied by their wives.

Decide Important Questions.

Upon the shoulders of the American delegation will rest the responsibility of determining the position taken by the United States on various questions that may arise. President Hoover has made it clear that the delegation has his complete confidence and that it will have his support in any conclusions reached. It is understood, of course, that before vital decisions are reached, the position of the President will be ascertained by cable.

A few months ago the reduction of cruisers, submarines, and destroyers through a five power agreement was stressed as the major objects of the conference. So important was the cruiser question considered that the Dawes-MacDonald discussions were initiated in an attempt to end British-American disagreement on this question. Today, on the eve of the opening of the conference, the question of battleship replacement postponement and the retention of battleship expenditures are stressed as among the most important subjects to be discussed.

Savings that might be effected through the declaration of a battleship building holiday for the next few years are cited by the administration, notably by Mr. Stimson, as reasons why an agreement to postpone battleship construction is desired.

Statistics prepared for the naval delegates show that when the London conference opens Great Britain will have a 74,000 ton advantage in battleships over the United States. Although the assertion has been made in the London press that the United States battleship fleet is superior to the British, a study of the latest naval statistics discloses that seven years after the Washington treaty was effected this country is still inferior in capital ship tonnage.

United States Trails Britain.

The new naval statistics give the comparative battleship tonnages of the two nations in standard displacement. Thus, for the first time since the Washington treaty the tonnages are published in a form which permits a fair comparison of the two battleship fleets.

The revised figures, which include all the changes in displacement effected by the modernization of the American and British ships, disclose that this country's battleship tonnage is 523,400 tons, plus 9,000 tons of repairs and alternations in the shape of blisters and heavier armor to be built into three of the older capital ships. The British tonnage figure is 606,450. Japan has 292,400.

The Washington five power naval treaty established the 5-5-3 ratio for the United States, Great Britain, and Japan. In 1942, when all replacements were to be completed, the United States and Great Britain would have a tonnage of 525,000 tons each, while Japan would have 315,000 tons.

DR ADLER QUITS AS CRIMINOLOGIST FOR STATE; GOES WEST

Dr. Herman M. Adler, state criminologist since 1917, tendered his resignation yesterday to Gov. Emmerson at Springfield because of illness in his family. It was announced at the same time that Dr. Adler has accepted a professorship of psychiatry at the University of California at Berkeley. He will also be consultant to the California state department of institutions. Dr. Paul Schroeder of Chicago, his assistant for several years, has been designated by Gov. Emmerson as his successor.

Regret at the loss of Dr. Adler was expressed both by Gov. Emmerson and Rodney Brandon, director of the state department of public welfare. He has been in the service since July 1, 1917, when the office, the first of its character in the country, was created under the administration of Gov. Lowden. From its inception Dr. Adler was regarded as the leading scientist employed in this work.

"We are sorry to lose Dr. Adler," Gov. Emmerson said. "He is the outstanding figure in America, if not in the world, in his line. I am appointing Dr. Schroeder as state criminologist in order that the work Dr. Adler inaugurated may continue without interruption."

FRENCH PROPOSE SIX YEAR NAVAL BUILDING TRUCE

the different types of ships, which resulted in the Geneva impassé in 1927 over cruisers carrying eight inch guns.

Information which the French government has received through its embassy at Washington and from American Ambassador Walter E. Edge, Counselor Norman Armour at the Paris embassy, and Hugh Gibson, ambassador at Brussels, has led Premier Tardieu to believe that the French proposals, as they are being prepared, are acceptable to the United States.

The result of the conversations that the special French envoy, Rene Massigli, had with Prime Minister MacDonald and the admiralty chiefs in London gives rise to the belief that the French proposals also are agreeable to the British.

The French believe that adoption of a six year breathing space will go a long way toward the complete elimination of costly giant battleships.

MAC DONALD UNDER FIRE

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 9.—[Thursday.]—The admiralty's unanimity regarding the British stand in the forthcoming naval disarmament conference, which was implied in the statement given out by Prime Minister MacDonald at Lossiemouth yesterday, looks to be a very shaky kind of unanimity, in the light of the Daily Telegraph's explosion this morning. The Telegraph continues its campaign of sabotage against the conference, in which the admirals and the Tory press are working hand in glove.

The Telegraph takes issue with Mr. MacDonald's optimism as follows: "Mr. MacDonald summed up briefly the prospect as regards the coming five power conference. To put it more accurately, he has summed up the prospect as he sees it. Mr. MacDonald cannot be unaware that his view of the matter is not shared by those who have followed with attention the course of events since his sending out invitations to the conference.

"There is no justification for his referring to the whole subject in terms of satisfaction, which can but make on credulous and uninformed minds a seriously misleading impression. The conference will deal with issues which touch upon the vital interests of Great Britain more closely than any other power, and ought not to be discussed by the head of the British government in the tone of light-hearted assurance that marks his statement."

Optimism is a bad state of mind in which to approach the conference, the Telegraph continues, because it does not go well with prudence.

Sure Way to Get Rid of Dandruff

There is one sure way that never fails to remove dandruff completely and that is to dissolve it. Then you destroy it entirely.

To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid Arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning most, if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and two or three more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid Arvon at any drug store and four ounces is all you will need. This simple remedy has never been known to fail.

THE DELEGATES GO TO LONDON.

The American delegation to the London naval conference takes ship today and has been given the parting words of President Hoover. They can be construed as indicating that he hopes the outcome of the conference will be found to resemble more that of the Washington than of the Geneva. The one, under Mr. Harding, succeeded in disposing of a number of American battleships. The other, under Mr. Coolidge, did not.

The President faced the fact that there are many difficulties in reaching a basis of reduction acceptable to five nations, but none of them, he thought, insuperable. He said the progress of peace for many years to come rested on the shoulders of the delegates, and the occasion was one of great gravity. The United States, he said, is prepared to meet the other nations fairly in great reductions of naval maintenance. He asked Americans generally to be patient and to give the conference encouragement and freedom from criticism.

Some exception could be taken to these farewell remarks, particularly as they are intended to protect the proposals in conference from criticism. Mr. Hoover in the case of Mr. Shearer evidently intended to make an example. It is true that Mr. Shearer did not represent the highest or least interested variety of criticism, but if it is his offense that he contributed to a prevention of an American backdown incompatible with American interests one might look elsewhere to lodge complaint.

The conference will have the attention and the criticism of each other country involved. It will be freely denounced by unmuzzled British navy men if it threatens to impair what they regard as British security on the seas. It will not find sacrificial Italian, French or Japanese delegates sitting at its board. Unless it preserves or even serves the interests of these countries it may go the way of the Geneva conference and good riddance to it. Americans may hope that their representatives are not persuaded that their greatest failure would be to come home without an agreement of any sort. President Hoover's hope that something can be done to add to the guarantees of peace is generally shared, but it must rest upon a just consideration of American welfare.

BOSTON TACTICS IN CHICAGO.

In the Voice of the People this morning is a letter, "Boston Tactics in Chicago," from Mr. William Targ, a Chicago bookseller. Mr. Targ is indignant at the operations of Philip Yarrow's Illinois Vigilance society in an inquisition of Chicago book stores. We share Mr. Targ's indignation.

The story to which Mr. Targ refers is that of Ernest Brady, a bookseller, and of an investigator for the Rev. Yarrow, known by the alias "Henry Smith." Shortly before Christmas the investigator entered the Brady bookshop and asked for a copy of "My Life and My Loves," by Frank Harris. The bookseller did not carry it in stock. According to Brady's version, Smith insisted that the book be ordered. "It is a rare and expensive book with many frank passages," the bookseller demurred. But Smith insisted he wanted the volume as a Christmas present for a doctor and Brady agreed to get a quotation on the book.

A few days later Smith returned. Brady produced the book. "Which are the dirty passages?" asked Smith. "I sensed something wrong with the man," Brady said. "He acted like a moron and I was about to refuse to effect the sale when I was arrested."

Smith also took with him from Brady's shelves a copy of "Heptameron," Balzac's "Droll Stories," and Mazurka's "Novelina." Judge Schulman in the Morals court found that these three volumes were not offensive, but he fined Brady $100 for the sale of the Harris book.

Apparently the Rev. Yarrow has been inspired by the entrapment methods of the Watch and Ward society of Boston. The same reprehensible technique was practiced in Boston in obtaining evidence against the bookseller Dunster. An agent provocateur of the Watch and Ward called on Dunster and wheedled him into ordering a copy of "Lady Chatterly's Lover." Although the district attorney said that if the society ever brought a case into court again with evidence secured in the same manner he would prosecute the society for conspiracy against bookshop proprietors, Dunster was fined $1,000 and sentenced to jail. In protest against these tactics, three prominent members of the Watch and Ward society have resigned.

The Rev. Yarrow is prosecuting eight more cases against Chicago booksellers. Perhaps all of the evidence was not obtained by entrapment. His operations which do not include entrapment are none the less offensive. The idea of the Rev. Yarrow or any other self-designated guardian of the public morals sitting in judgment upon what free, adult American citizens may read is in conflict with our natural and inalienable rights. We have no apology for "My Life and My Loves." Critics of distinction have claimed literary merit for it. Others have disputed that claim. It is the privilege of adult American citizens to read that book if they so desire and form their own judgments.

The employment of entrapment methods by the Rev. Yarrow's agent is abhorrent to every sense of decency. It is sufficient grounds for suspecting the honesty of the Rev. Yarrow's motives. A misguided campaign to cleanse the book stores of volumes which he might consider objectionable would be understandable in a conscientious megalomaniac. But the use of entrapment is dishonorable even according to the standards of honest crusaders, and neither the police authorities nor the courts should abet it.

NINE YEARS OF THE C. M. T. C.

The Military Training Camps association has published a brochure, "Nine Years of the C. M. T. C." We are sure that the pamphlet does not overestimate the value of the training camps to the individual. The opportunity to spend a month in the open, with supervised sports, drill, and recreation at the government's expense, is a unique privilege for citizens who enjoy that experience. For men jealous of their health and for those who enjoy the exhilaration of physical exertion, and for those who seek outdoor comradeship, the life at the civilian camps is, we are certain, incomparable.

Whether the government gets the same return from the investment in training camps is, perhaps, problematical. Of course, if the military value of the camp training were nothing, which is not true, the nation would be healthier because of the healthy influence of the camp life upon those citizens who were admitted to it. But it must be remembered that the C. M. T. C. was created as part of the national defense act of 1920. The first purpose of the camps must be to train the members in the rudiments of military existence and tactics, so that they may be readily assimilable into the first line of defense in an emergency.

It is doubtful whether one term of thirty days at camp would make a man a much more valuable potential soldier than if he had not had the short experience. In order thoroughly to justify the expense it seems to us that a considerable proportion of those entering the camps should attend the maximum of four years. They would then be prepared for introduction into real service. The figures of the association, however, indicate that a rather small proportion of the entrants graduate from the camps. The freshmen in the camps are assigned to the "basic" course; the sophomores, to the "red"; juniors, to the "white," and seniors, to the "blue." "About 60 per cent," according to the pamphlet, "are usually in the 'basic' course, 20 per cent in the 'red,' 15 per cent in the 'white,' and 5 per cent in the 'blue.'" Further on the pamphlet states: "The best type of applicant is eager to make a record which will win him promotion in successive years from corporal to sergeant, from sergeant to cadet lieutenant, and ultimately to a commission in the reserves, if circumstances permit. Not many will reach the final goal, but all may feel the satisfaction which springs from daily growth in purpose and achievement."

Apparently the association recognizes the virtue of the four year course. We would have been glad, therefore, to have had their opinion as to whether a condition whereby only one in twelve of those who start the course completes it is satisfactory. We appreciate the difficulties of the individual in arranging to spend a month each year for four consecutive years away from his work, and we appreciate the difficulties of the association in this situation. It does seem, however, as if, by a process of selection, more citizens might be enrolled in the camps who would be likely to return for four years.

GREECE AND ROME AGAIN.

President Lowell of Harvard says that American college sports tend to be too much Roman and not enough Greek, too much a spectacle for the multitude and not enough healthy exercise for the many, too much filling the eyes and not enough building the body. The Greeks would point their athletics to an occasional meet of great renown and brilliance to encourage excellence, and the Harvard president thinks their moderation, the results obtained from it being considered, might well advise American universities.

The issue, of course, is principally football, the big show which makes some schools and worries others; but football does not set the pace for general college athletics. Most of them are relatively feverless, engage numbers of young men and women, and would die if they had to live on the publicity they get. Football heats the college atmosphere for a short season, and even basketball, its closest rival in popular favor, has not worried the average faculty, or even the Carnegie Foundation. But Dr. Lowell's comparison involves conclusions as to the Greek and Roman world, a subject which frequently sends others than Mr. Dooley home with their hats. At least as to durability the Roman system seems to have worked, and the other was wrecked on the irreconcilability of petty countries in fatal rivalries.

Editorial of the Day

IS IT IGNORANCE!

[Columbus, O., Dispatch.]

We have noticed in a number of different newspapers recently an identical letter, unsigned except by initials which may or may not have any relation to the writer's name, making an attack on the economic value of the quail. Claiming to have studied the matter for some years, he draws the conclusion that the value of Bob White, from the economic point of view, "rates from neutral down to zero."

Although the writer has virtually nothing to say directly about laws for the protection of quail, it is quite evident that he is dead against them. At the end of his screed, after asserting that we could get along very well without any quail at all, he adds, apparently as a kind of blind to hide the real purpose of the letter, that "we could struggle along without any hunters."

The idea that the quail is of no economic value to agriculture is of course the merest nonsense. As a voracious feeder on various insect pests, as well as on the seeds of many noxious weeds, its value has been so often and so conclusively proved, by careful scientific tests, that any one who now denies it at once creates the belief either that he is unnecessarily and deplorably ignorant, or that his denial springs from some other motive than sincere belief that what he says is true.

We do not believe that the writer of this anonymous letter against the quail is ignorant.

WINTER TIME AND HEALTH.

WINTER is the unhealthy season. The records show that. Yet Dr. C. P. Fordyce says: "Properly regarded, the winter is the healthiest time of the year." How can these statements be reconciled? Winter is the unhealthy season because it is the indoor season. When we make of it an outdoor season it becomes the healthiest season of the year. Dr. Fordyce tells us how to exercise in the outside air with comfort, in the chapter, "Winter Travel Afoot," of his book, "Touring Afoot."

The garments should fit loosely. There should be one layer which is impervious to wind and another in which there are air spaces in the fabric. Skins tanned with the fur on make the ideal garment. If the skin is easily irritated light silk or cotton garments should be worn under the wool or fur.

In very bad weather one should wear a parka. This garment, borrowed from our far north neighbors, is composed of a hood to cover the head and a coat or a shirt—whichever you want to call it—coming down to the knees or thereabouts. The face opening of the hood should be of a fur or fabric on which water does not readily condense or congeal. A free use of grease will help to give a fabric this quality. Loose wool mitts with leather on the outside make the best hand protection. The shoes should be large and loose.

If the snow is wet, the outside should be of rubber; no amount of greasing will make leather entirely waterproof. In dry going, oiled moccasins or oiled shoes should be used. Inside the shoes, two pairs of heavy woolen socks should be worn. One of these should reach to the knees or above. If the weather is not so bad, the inner pair of socks can be light. In some instances, straw should be worn between the outer sock and the sole of the shoe.

The ears must be protected by some woolen or fur cover which presses them against the head. In bright sunlight on the snow the eyes must be protected. Snowlight is very rich in ultraviolet and, while this makes it superb for building up resistance to pneumonia, it is hard on the retina. The feet must be given especial care night and morning. In the morning dust the feet profusely with talcum or zinc stearate powder or use U. S. army foot powder. At night wash the feet well but use very little soap. Dry well. If the feet tend to become sore, wash them in salt water. Weston is said to have "pickled his feet in a strong solution of common salt, at the temperature of the body." For sweaty feet Fordyce recommends washing in a solution of one part formalin, nine parts water. A strong oak bark tea is a good substitute.

THE FRAGRANT, HEALTHFUL ONION.

Mrs. M. R. writes: Four years ago my mother was stricken with paralysis and was unable to eat anything, not even liquids. After two months in the hospital we brought her home. After a few days she asked for onions. I boiled some and fed her. It was the first meal she was able to retain in her stomach. So I began to serve her onions in any way she craved, and after a few weeks she was much better and could eat other things. Now she still eats them frequently, and says her bowels are better than ever before. [Mother is still an invalid, as her left arm and leg are useless.]

In my own home I buy onions by the peck, and potatoes by pounds, and find that my children never need any laxatives and, therefore, they are strong and healthy.

GLASSES STAY WITH YOU.

R. H. S. writes: Is it possible for glasses to correct nearsightedness, farsightedness or astigmatism so that after wearing for a while they could be discarded?

REPLY.

While this happens occasionally with certain eye defects, it is not to be expected. The probability lies in the opposite direction.

IT'S UP TO YOU.

H. R. writes: Is the nightly washing of eyes with boric acid a good or a bad practice?

REPLY.

MINOR SIGNS AGREEMENT.

Chicago, Jan. 5.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I am 18 years of age and have signed an agreement with a correspondence school to send payments each month. I sent first payment and am dissatisfied with the course. 1. Can they sue me? 2. Is it true that if one hasn't $400 in cash or property he can't be sued? 3. Can they secure the money in any other legal method? J. S.

1. Of course they can sue, but your minority is a defense. 2. No; $400 is the exemption allowed to the head of a family, but it does not prevent the recovering of judgment against him. 3. They cannot force it on the facts stated.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

MAY STILL BE CITIZEN.

Chicago, Jan. 2.—[Friend of the People.]—Is the following man a citizen of America: Born here in 1904 of European parents; went to Europe in 1910, married, and now wants to return to the United States? E. S.

Under the constitution of the United States all persons born in the United States and residing under the jurisdiction thereof are deemed citizens. The person referred to may have assumed citizenship in the country of which his father is a citizen and his present citizenship status cannot be determined without a personal interview. This is a matter for the American consul in the country where he resides. H. L. ROETHE, Acting District Director of Naturalization.

BOUND BY TERMS OF LEASE.

Chicago, Jan. 6.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Two months ago I took a one year lease on a furnished apartment. Lease calls for sixty day notice to be given owner upon giving up premises at end of year. I now find it necessary to leave Chicago permanently within the next four months. If I give owner notice, can he hold me for payment of balance of lease or assess my possessions for same? J. M. K.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

Well, I'll Tell You About That—

Our delegation and all the newspaper fellows that are going to tell us what it's all about are sailing today for the navy disarmament convention in London. Our delegation is going to stand pretty strong for cutting down the number of fighting ships so there won't be any more wars. Our idea is to reduce battleships, but we're going to put thirty more coast guard ships on the great lakes so as to keep people from sneaking Canadian rum into this country. If we keep on cutting down battleships and cruisers and increasing the coast guard ships, then if another war should happen along about all we would have to keep the enemy from landing right in the middle of New York or Boston or Philadelphia would be the coast guard. Philadelphia is the real danger point, because the enemy could land in Philadelphia and march around the city hall for three or four months before anybody found it out.

Of course we could fight 'em at sea with the coast guard, but the coast guard is just geared up to pump bullets out of machine guns into motor launches that are acting suspicious, and to the coast guard any motor launch that has a motor or looks like a launch is suspicious. Big battleships have guns that shoot a ton of lead every shot, and a coast guard ship that goes sputtering at a battleship with some little machine guns is going to be awfully disappointed. And then maybe the sullen foreign foe—foreign foes are always sullen, but what makes 'em that way nobody knows—will pick on Boston. Everybody else does, so why shouldn't the sullen foreign foe? Anyhow, at the very minute the sullen foreign foe is sneaking down on Boston the mobs down there will be chasing the coast guardsmen around and pitching 'em in the Back Bay. The coast guardsmen can't be fighting the sullen foreign foe and swimming around in the Back Bay at one and the same time. We've got to do something about this. But, gosh! What?

HELEN GILLER.

WELL, the mayor vetoed the trimming down of the police force and the fire department yesterday. Now the aldermen have got to go hustling around to find the money and they may have to go quite a ways. Yessir, that's the reason probably why the aldermen voted to keep their city owned automobiles. Now, you see, they were right after all. They can hustle around quicker in their autos than they could if they had to run around on their dogs. You've got to hand it to those fellows; they're smart, they are.

They're Trying to Horn In with Us Poor.

RHL: O, the dire wealth and riches of the country! Wealth has been the bane of civilization since they sold Joseph for silver. Wealth, as we all know, is a terrible thing. Some unfortunate people are born wealthy, while others fail in business and acquire, it seems, everybody's shirt. However, since the late hocus pocus in the market things are looking up and many people have become poverty stricken over night. On the one hand this is a very happy state of affairs, but on the other this overnight transition brings our old exclusive poverty stricken families face to face with a new social intruder—I refer to the new poor. And how ambitiously vulgar some of them are. Loud and noisy, and attired at all times in the extremest of rags. Moving farther down the avenue to exclusive attics and coal sheds they boast and rant of their play in the market. Socially ambitious, too, they attempt to enter the sacred portals of our select poverty stricken circles. But that is absurd—it cannot be done. Poverty has been ours so long, and how much of absolute nothing you may have doesn't make horse feathers with us. I met a man doddled up in rags by the railroad tank and he told me he was as poor as a church mouse.

The man then boasted three 1914 model Fords and no shoestrings. His idea was to impress me with his untold poverty, and I, in turn, would introduce him to the much sought after company of our leading families. But I said: "Tut tut—it isn't extreme poverty that will ever make you one of us—it's breeding and background and the clink and rattle of ancient English and Dutch tomato cans. Why, my dear man," says I, "our forefathers were vagrants on the Island of Manhattan before old man Astor ever saw Henry Hudson, and our best families were amalgamated and annealed with a social and exclusive crust before the Vanderbilts had a rubber tired surrey. Do you suppose for a minute that the mere acquisition of debts and creditors and nothing minus, on your part, will admit you to the inner sanctus sanctorum of our hollowed-out and very holy retreat? Nay and no. We care not a dried pumpkin seed how little you have. What we require is threadbare nobility and a long family bread line. Were any of your kin folk asleep in the alley when Missus O'Leary kicked the cow over and set fire to Chicago? Did any of them eat mulligan by the B. & O. tracks the night Casey Jones was late? Were any of them lazy loafers when Louis XVI. was trying to make a clock that would tick? Indeed, by the looks of you, nay and twice no—they didn't and wasn't, and furthermore, couldn't. So now begone with you, and don't be bluffing into the upper crust with your newly gotten, and who knows but ill gained, poverty." ORACLE.

CAL seems to have solved pretty effectually the old question, "Shall we shoot our ex-Presidents?" Nobody has had to worry about putting Cal on a pension, or putting him out of the way, or giving him a job in the postoffice, or anything. He went to Florida yesterday and was cheered by a big crowd of excited citizens and everything. And he gets so much a word for everything he writes, and he turns out stuff as fast as a threshing machine. So we don't have to worry about Cal being an ex-President. The worrying is done by people who fear he will be next-President.

Who Is Lynn?

Jimmy (James Weber) Linn said he thought he must be the one Lynnette meant in her "Songs for Lynn" that have been appearing in the Line. Yesterday we published a poem from Lynnette in in which she answered the question, "Who is Lynn?" She said, "The gracious, graceful name masks a man." Well, that sounds as though she meant Jimmie, because James Weber Linn is certainly a gracious, graceful name. But Hateful Hattie wrote in yesterday afternoon and said to us, "You are Lynn. Because Lynnette said yesterday that Lynn was like 'some great disabled bird of prey, doomed to walk a maimed and broken way.' So you can see for yourself that you are Lynn." Oh, very well, Hateful Hattie; we hope you are stranded on a desert isle with nothing to eat but spinach.

THERE! We've been expecting it and dreading it for days! We knew it would happen if the police force was cut down! And now, just as we feared! Somebody has stolen our last line!

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

65 YEARS AGO TODAY

JANUARY 9, 1865.

THE NEWS.—It will afford the people of this city a large amount of satisfaction to hear of the arrest in Baltimore of the infamous H. M. Flint, formerly of the Chicago Times but more recently the "Druid" of the New York World, for treasonable practices. The lash should have been applied to him a year ago. If he escapes hanging Justice and the Evil One will be the losers.

We have on our first page this morning the assertion, oft repeated, that Forrest and Hood are both dead, and in almost every instance the contradiction follows. We hope to have the statement repeated, with no contradiction to destroy the pleasurable sensation all good men would feel if it should really prove true. One report in West Virginia papers is that Gen. Forrest was killed by one of his own men.

War news by telegraph is meager. Our columns are full, however, of rumors and reports—to be taken for what they are worth.

NEW YORK.—The Tribune's Army of the James special says the rebel pirate ship Semmes has arrived at Richmond.

LOUISVILLE.—Gov. Bramlette in his message recommends gradual emancipation and ultimate removal of the slaves. He says his object in attempting to regulate the enlistment of slaves was not to save the institution but guard the people of Kentucky from an unnecessary burden in its accomplishment.

CHICAGO.—A. D. Boyington and Miss Lucia Walt were married on Dec. 29 by the Rev. Robert Collyer. Nick T. Curth of Chicago and Miss Mary Higgins of Aurora were married in the latter city on Jan. 4 by the Rev. Dr. Forrester.

JANUARY 9, 1900.

LONDON.—Gen. White reports that the Boer attack on his position at Ladysmith lasted from daylight until dark on Saturday. After the fighting, which in point of fierceness has seldom been equaled in the annals of warfare, was over the British remained in control of Ladysmith. Gen. Buller, barely fifteen miles away, did not give the slightest aid. Three times during the fighting Gen. White repelled the Boers' fierce assaults. He is now the hero of England.

CHICAGO.—The city council passed the Northwestern "L" ordinance, amended to make Wilson avenue the terminus, and May 31, 1900, the limit of time for completing the work.

MANILA.—There is hard fighting in Luzon between the American forces and the insurgent Filipinos. Gen. Wheaton's expedition had contact with the rebels at three points. At Novaleta sixty dead were found in the rebel trenches.

CHICAGO.—Miss Marie Julia Young, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Young, and Louis Graveraet Kaufman of Marquette, Mich., were married at the home of the bride's parents, 2032 Calumet avenue.

10 YEARS AGO TODAY

JANUARY 9, 1920.

WASHINGTON.—President Wilson and William Jennings Bryan dropped political bombshells into the twin Jackson day dinners tonight. A split in the party, with Wilson and Bryan leading the opposing wings, is the prospect. In a letter read at the Willard hotel dinner the President condemned the Lodge reservations to the league of nations covenant, reiterated his demand for ratification of the peace treaty without essential change and called for reference of the entire issue to the people in the forthcoming presidential election. Mr. Bryan in his Washington hotel speech came out for a compromise tantamount to surrender to the Lodge reservations. He repudiated Wilson's article X.

UNIONTOWN, Pa.—Mme. Maude Powell, regarded by critics as the world's most talented woman violinist, died here. A native of Peru, Ill., she was in her 52d year.

CHICAGO.—Aerial mail service between Chicago and Omaha was started yesterday. Pilot Walter J. Smith, who left Grant park with 400 pounds of mail at 8:29 a. m., arrived in Omaha at 12:55 p. m., his actual flying time being 3 hours and 56 minutes. He made one stop, at Iowa City.

BOSTON TACTICS IN CHICAGO.

Chicago, Dec. 4.—There may be some pretty preposterous situations existing in Chicago today, but to my knowledge there is nothing quite so small, so insidious, so unethical as the tactics of the Illinois Vigilance society headed by Mr. Yarrow. The methods of this self-appointed group of reformers are indeed petty. When one considers the amount of crime existing today, is it not surprising that time and money should be expended in the pursuit of spying upon and entrapping booksellers?

Consider the situation: An agent of this society steps into a bookshop, generally a small shop where the income is equal to that of the average wage earner. A general stock of books is carried. The agent of the society asks for some book considered immoral or obscene, generally Frank Harris' "My Life and Loves." The bookseller in all probability does not carry the book asked for, but, as is customary, says he can secure it for him on order. When the agent returns for the ordered book he is accompanied by a few detectives and the book is seized and the dealer arrested. For such offenses fines run from $100 to $1,000, and sometimes include a prison sentence! All this for selling a book to an adult!

There have been nine such arrests made in the last few weeks. Two dealers have already been fined $100 each. Mr. Yarrow is proud of these convictions and hopes to secure more. What a way to earn a living! WILLIAM TARG, Bookseller.

ANTI-SALOON AND ANTI-DRY.

Chicago, Jan. 7.—I have been hoping that some great leader would organize a society known as the Anti-Saloon and Anti-Prohibition league. It is safe to say that 95 per cent of all intelligent people would rally to this great cause. I am sure the saloon is a defunct hell hole, and am just as sure that prohibition is doomed to the same graveyard. H. A. SCANLAN.

DRAFT COOLIDGE.

Chicago, Jan. 7.—One of the outstanding feats of Calvin Coolidge was the reduction of government extravagance. Why not get him to manage Chicago, say for four years, to show how economically a large American city could be run? C. A. REED.

SAFER INSIDE.

Chicago, Jan. 8.—After reading during the last week of the condition of Chicago's finances I am convinced the only way out of the muddle at this late date is for the city government to put the respectable population in jail and turn the crooks loose.

This would alleviate the overcrowded condition of your jails and at the same time permit city officials to furnish protection for the respectable citizens at very little expense. O. S. RYAN.

WHERE THEY ARE NEEDED.

Chicago, Jan. 6.—It really seems a shame that our great city must lay off so many good firemen. Why not instead transfer all of them to Washington, D. C.? A FIRE FAN.

THE GREAT DRY FRAUD.

Kalamazoo, Mich., Jan. 3.—I have been for years an interested reader of your paper, and commend your enterprise as a news gatherer.

On the other hand, I want to voice my strong condemnation of your tactics in your oft repeated attacks upon our governmental efforts to enforce our constitutional provisions. I refer to your editorial, "The Great Dry Fraud," and similar effusions that have so often appeared in your colums.

In my opinion your Red, revolutionary radicalism approaches nonallegiance and might be likened to the recent raid on the coast guard station in Boston reported in the same issue.

These attacks, in my opinion, are little less than treasonable and should be treated as such. Thank God, your scurrilous sheet does not voice the sentiments of the rank and file of our nation's intelligent voters who have helped to make our country safe for democracy. J. T. BLAME CITIZENS IN EAST CHICAGO RUM PLOT TRIAL

Police Could Not Enforce Law, Defense Says.

Two pictures of Mayor Raleigh P. Hale of East Chicago were drawn in Federal Judge Slick's court at Hammond yesterday, where the mayor and twenty-six others are on trial for liquor conspiracy. One picture reproduced him as a grafting public official, untrue to his oath of office, while the other put him in the light as an honest man striving only to serve his polyglot community.

The first view was that given by Special Assistant Attorney General Earl J. Davis, former United States attorney at Detroit. Mr. Davis assailed the reign of Hale and his chief of police, James Regan, as an era of corruption wherein those bootleggers who wouldn't pay were put out of business and those police who wouldn't "keep their mouths shut" discharged.

Can't Enforce Law, Claim.

Defense Attorney C. B. Tinkham of Hammond said Hale's constituents are the greatest mixture of nationalities in the country, people who couldn't understand that there is a Volstead act and people who could not be restrained by a small police force of sixty-four. Hale did not graft and Regan came to the chief's job in 1925 from the Chicago department, leaving with the commendation of the then chief, Morgan Collins, said Mr. Tinkham.

The opening statements were followed by the evidence of six witnesses, four of whom testified against the mayor and the chief. The other two named minor bootleggers in the ranks of the defendants.

William E. Moore, an employé of the Inland Steel company of Indiana Harbor, testified that he had been in line for the chief's job prior to Hale's election in 1925. "We've got to clean up this place," Moore said he told Hale.

Three Reporters Testify.

"I don't intend putting a blanket on the town," he quoted the mayor as answering, and Moore did not get the job.

Three newspaper reporters—John De Jong and Lawrence George of the Hammond Times and Harry Patterson of the Gary Post-Tribune—were next, testifying that Regan told them shortly after he became chief that it was impossible to eradicate liquor, vice and gambling. He wished only to "control" them, he told the reporters. The government contends almost no "control" was exercised.

Attorney Hyman Cohen of East Chicago objected to a statement in yesterday's TRIBUNE, naming him as being present at the trial Tuesday and intimating that he was a defendant. Mr. Cohen was indicted for conspiracy to obstruct justice and is not a defendant in the present hearing.

Legal Fight on Gary Mayor Is Taken Before New Court

Emmet White, defeated Democratic candidate for mayor of Gary, yesterday filed mandamus action against Roswell O. Johnson, the present mayor, in the Porter county Superior court on a change of venue. White alleges that Johnson, who took office Monday, cannot hold the position because of having served a prison term for conspiracy to violate the prohibition law. Former Mayor Henry G. Hay was also named in the action.

Hammond Police Chief Is Demoted by New Officials

Chief of Police Emil Bundne of Hammond was removed from office last night and Detective Sergeant Thomas Martinson appointed to succeed him by the new board of public safety of Hammond at the first meeting of the new city administration. Capt. Edward Warner was reduced to the ranks as a plain clothes man and Defective Sergeant Fandral appointed to a captaincy. The status of two other police captains was not altered.

NEW ZEALAND ORDERS ARRESTS IN SAMOA RIOTS

APIA, Western Samoa, Jan. 8.—(AP)—New Zealand officials took stern measures today to end the turmoil of Samoan natives which culminated Dec. 28 in a fight in which one white constable and eight Samoans were killed and several policemen and more than thirty Samoans injured.

Col. S. S. Allen, the administrator, ordered the arrest before next Saturday of twenty natives charged with or convicted of offenses as a result of the riot, which was precipitated by the return of Alfred G. Smyth, deported for two years in January, 1928, for interfering with New Zealand's administration of Western Samoa.

In addition, Administrator Allen ordered 58 other natives to appear before him tonight at Mulinuu to explain their part in the rioting. All other Samoans congregated at Apia from from other districts were required to disperse to their homes before Saturday. High Chief Tamasese, one of those killed in the fighting Dec. 28, was one of the leaders of the Mau, or League of Samoan Natives, which for four years has resisted the authority of New Zealand over Western Samoa, granted by mandate of the league of nations in 1919.

Plans Firmer Policy.

WELLINGTON, New Zealand, Jan. 8.—(AP)—Premier Ward today announced that a firmer policy in administration in Samoa will be adopted by the New Zealand government because of recent disorders in that territory. The cruiser Dunedin, carrying a seaplane, left Auckland for Samoa today.

Movie Wage Parley Enters the Final Stages Today

Officials of the Exhibitors' Association of Chicago and representatives of the Motion Picture Operators' union will meet this afternoon at the Stevens hotel and enter final negotiations for a new wage agreement for the union. There was a brief meeting yesterday and Jack Miller of the exhibitors asked that final negotiations be postponed until this afternoon. The operators are asking a six day workweek without a pay reduction. Exhibitors stated this represents a 15 per cent wage increase.

To End a Cough In a Hurry, Mix This at Home

To end a stubborn cough quickly, it is important to soothe and heal the inflamed membranes, get rid of the germs and also to aid the system inwardly to help throw off the trouble.

For these purposes, here is a home-made medicine, far better than anything you could buy at 3 times the cost. From any druggist, get 2½ ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a pint bottle, and add plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey to fill up the pint. This takes but a moment, and makes a remedy so effective that you will never do without, once you have used it. Keeps perfectly, and children like it.

This simple remedy does three necessary things. First, it loosens the germ-laden phlegm. Second, it soothes away the inflammation. Third, it is absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly on the bronchial tubes. This explains why it brings such quick relief, even in the obstinate bronchial coughs which follow cold epidemics.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form, and known as one of the greatest healing agents for severe coughs, chest colds and bronchial troubles.

GREATER SALESPOWER FOR 1930 ADVERTISERS

THE issues of 1930 are clear. The results lie at the command of business executives. Business must make its decisions now and stand or fall by them. There is to be no abolition of the coming months.

The new year looks dark to the pessimist. The optimist finds reason in it for confidence. But neither pessimism nor optimism will stay the penalties of inefficiency. The issues remain. Business faces a period with conditions intensified by competition, made grim by declining general volume of sales.

Again is driven home the force of an oft-repeated axiom: Business exists on and for profit. And profit in 1930 will depend upon improved technique, greater power and more skilled direction of selective selling.

NO longer can there be disregard of the relative values of men, merchandise, methods and markets. The fumbling that was swept to success by a year of free spending by the consumer cannot compete in the coming months.

Volume alone no longer will safeguard profit. The steadily mounting cost of selling outpaces volume increases. Volume must be weighed and won in terms of profit. Pushing a line which responds in sales only at prohibitive sales cost, developing a market which dwindles annually in returns, employing means which are supported by rather than support sales—these must give way in 1930.

Business today must concentrate. It must concentrate its energy in making only those articles which can be sold at a profit. It must concentrate on salesmen who earn their way. It must concentrate its selling effort on accounts and in markets where profits are forthcoming.

Now is not the time to go through the empty motions of production and distribution. This is a period when profits, menaced by increasing costs and declining volume, must be conserved and increased. This is a period when business must become efficient. Half-measures and indiscriminate selling and advertising cannot survive. They must be replaced by definite attention to America's key markets and to the most profitable means of developing them.

THE Chicago Tribune is embodying these principles in its own operations. The Tribune is investing new millions in production facilities to step up its own efficiency and to reduce the milline cost of advertising space to advertisers. A huge expansion program is under way that business may in this key market of Tribune Town enlist during the coming months a more powerful and economical sales aid.

In 1914 the Chicago Tribune started developing its own supply of pulpwood. A rugged wilderness on the north shore of the Gulf of St. Lawrence was tamed to secure it.

Nature fought development at every turn. Wharves were built. Angry seas tore them down. Dams and power-houses were constructed. Floods swept them away. Rebuilding went on despite discouraging setbacks. By 1921 logs were being produced.

The Tribune then built ships to transport the logs 800 miles up the St. Lawrence river to the Tribune mill at Thorold, Ontario. A second Tribune mill is now in operation at Tonawanda, New York. These mills supply most of the paper used by the Chicago Tribune.

Further timberland development has been started. The most recent project will open a vast new region. Three years' construction of docks, dams, and power-plants must be finished before one log for paper can come out.

INVESTING millions upon millions, overcoming tremendous barriers, the Tribune has cut corners on production costs. The huge savings have been put to work broadening and intensifying the Tribune news service and developing brilliant editorial features. Restless pioneering in editorial fields constantly strengthens the Tribune's appeal to its vast audience. Each year new readers numbered in scores of thousands turn to the Tribune.

The Tribune's expansion program is swinging ahead swiftly and confidently. Month after month Tribune power to create sales increases. The Tribune's wisely spent millions are returning to advertisers in increased sales ability. Advertisers never before could employ Tribune selling power to greater advantage. Each dollar invested in Tribune space in 1930 will do more work, return bigger profits.

SELLING efficiency will determine 1930 profits. Any selling plan shooting for maximum efficiency must be backboned with Tribune advertising. Business in 1930 must look to key markets for sales volume at a profit. No program can overlook Tribune Town. Ask a Tribune man about it.

ROCKOLA CALLED IN BRIBE TRIAL; IS HAZY WITNESS

CRIMINAL COURT.

John Murphy and Talon Chrysler, burglary, sentenced to one to ten years each in the penitentiary by Judge John J. Sullivan.

Louis Stanek, robbery, sentenced to one year to life in the penitentiary; Eugene Cahill, larceny of automobile, sentenced to one to twenty years in the penitentiary; Estaben Romero, murder, sentenced to one to fourteen years in the penitentiary by Judge William N. Gemmill.

Joseph Hoblock, larceny, sentenced to one to twenty years in Pontiac reformatory; Node Brown, robbery, sentenced to one to twenty years in the penitentiary by Judge John P. McGoorty.

David C. Rockola, classed as the "crown prince" of the slot machine industry when it operated unmolested in 1928-'29, was called yesterday as a witness against Frank Beran, police custodian, on trial before Judge Otto Kerner for receiving bribes from James [High Pockets] O'Brien, known as the "king" of the syndicate. Rockola received a six months' jail sentence when he refused to testify several months ago against Dr. William H. Reid, Thompson political lieutenant, six police captains, and others accused of slot machine graft conspiracy.

Rockola admitted getting back some slot machines confiscated by police and of leaving money in an envelope in the custodian's office.

He did not say he gave the money to Beran or that the custodian received it. This being the gist of the indictment, the state will find itself without the necessary connecting link unless Rockalo goes a step further when he resumes the witness stand before the jury this morning. His testimony yesterday was outside the presence of the jury so that the judge might determine whether he was going to testify.

When Rockola was first called to the witness stand it was evident that he was not anxious to testify for the state. He was called as a court's witness and after admitting his name and address he was turned over to Assistant State's Attorney Henry Ayers for questioning. He refused to answer the prosecutor's first question as to whether he knew O'Brien. He finally made this admission.

"I refuse to answer unless I am granted immunity," Rockola replied to the question of whether he knew the defendant Beran. The court granted him immunity after a bitter fight between Prosecutor Ayers and Attorney Charles Michels of the defense.

"The state's attorney does not come in here to prosecute this case in good faith," shouted Attorney Michels. "I say his tactics are reprehensible and his conduct is dishonorable."

"And that statement is reprehensible and your conduct is dishonorable," returned Prosecutor Ayers.

CHAUFFEURS' UNION TO PROVIDE HOSPITAL CARE FOR MEMBERS

Five thousand members of the Chicago Truck Drivers and Chauffeurs' union, local 705, have approved a hospitalization plan outlined for the labor organization by its secretary-treasurer, Michael J. Galvin, it was announced last night.

It is said to be the first time a Chicago labor organization has arranged to provide medical and hospital care for its entire membership. Galvin said two floors have been leased at the Jefferson Park hospital with the option of procuring more space. He said the teamsters' union intends to build a hospital with union funds within the next two years.

Each member will be assessed $10 a year and one dollar a year for his wife and each child. He said this assessment would pay for all medical care.

SCHIRESON BALKS AT STATE QUIZ ON HIS PRISON TERM

Refuses to Reply on Why He Was Pardoned.

Dr. Henry J. Schireson, on trial for revocation of his license to practice medicine, yesterday threw the hearings before the state medical committee into turmoil when he refused to answer questions.

First Assistant Attorney General Harry A. Ash, who has prosecuted charges of fraud and malpractice against Schireson, tried to force the physican, on cross-examination, to admit circumstances concerning his imprisonment in Pittsburgh on charges of operating a quack clinic which fleeced foreigners.

The accused doctor has contended that the governor of Pennsylvania learned that he was convicted in a case of mistaken identity, and that upon the facts being made known, Schireson was pardoned.

Say He Aided State.

Mr. Ash and Assistant Attorney General William Clausen informed the committee, headed by Dr. M. L. Harris, president of the American Medical association, that Schireson was given a pardon, not because of mistaken identity, but because he had aided the state in prosecuting and convicting two detectives who had accepted bribes from Schireson.

"You were a witness for the state in Pittsburgh in the case against the two detectives, Berry and McKay, were you not?" asked Mr. Clausen.

"I don't want to answer that question," Dr. Schireson replied. "I'm standing on my constitutional rights."

"Were you before the court at the time of your sentence, and did you enter a plea of nolo contendere, that is, you stood mute, not admitting or denying the charges?"

"I refuse to answer," Dr. Schireson replied.

Schireson Forgets.

The physician's attorneys, Burrill J. Cramer and Joseph Z. Willner, then asked that they be allowed to confer with their client. This was allowed, and when Schireson returned to the witness stand, he made no more refusals to answer. He just said: "I don't remember."

Dr. Schireson was asked whether he met the county detective, McKay, in Detroit, and told McKay he was being harassed by physicians who objected to his advertising, and whether McKay then advised him to go to Pittsburgh and that he would give him protection. The witness said he had forgotten.

Attorney Ash then asked Dr. Schireson to state the manner in which "before and after" pictures were taken of all patients in his office. The witness said that a commercial photographer named Bloom took the pictures, and that the prints and negatives were all delivered to Schireson, so that they would not fall into "improper hands."

State Shows Booklets.

The state then presented a number of booklets containing articles on beauty by Dr. Schireson, and illustrated with the "before and after" pictures.

"Dr. Schireson has testified that since 1915 he has never committed one unethical act," Mr. Ash stated. "We will show that these booklets, all of which contain Schireson's name, his address and even his office suite number, also contain pictures which he said were delivered to him alone by the photographer, Bloom. These booklets are plainly unethical, and intended to advertise Schireson's activities."

Dr. Schireson denied responsibility for the booklets, saying they were reprints of newspaper and magazine articles he had prepared.

The hearing will be resumed today.

(Thomas Campbell, 1777-1844)

AVOID THAT FUTURE SHADOW*

By refraining from over-indulgence, if you would maintain the modern figure of fashion

Why let over-indulgence ruin the flattering curves that make the modern figure so seductive? Be moderate—be moderate in all things, even in smoking. Eat healthfully but not immoderately—when your eyes are bigger than your stomach, light a Lucky instead. Coming events cast their shadows before. Avoid that future shadow by avoiding over-indulgence if you would maintain the irresistible youthfulness of the modern figure.

Lucky Strike, the finest Cigarette you ever smoked—made of the finest tobacco—The Cream of the Crop—"IT'S TOASTED." Everyone knows that heat purifies and so "TOASTING" not only removes impurities but adds to the flavor and improves the taste.

"It's toasted"

*Be Moderate! . . . Don't jeopardize the modern form by drastic diets, harmful reducing girdles, fake reducing tablets or other quack "anti-fat" remedies condemned by the Medical profession! Millions of dollars each year are wasted on these ridiculous and dangerous nostrums. Be Sensible! Be Moderate! We do not represent that smoking Lucky Strike Cigarettes will bring modern figures or cause the reduction of flesh. We do declare that when tempted to do yourself too well, if you will "Reach for a Lucky" instead, you will thus avoid over-indulgence in things that cause excess weight and, by avoiding over-indulgence, maintain a modern, graceful form.

COPULOS TOSSES 3 CUSHION MEET INTO TRIPLE TIE

Ties High Run Mark with 17.

New York, Jan. 8.—[Special.]—Gus Copulos of Detroit tonight tossed the national three cushion billiard tournament into a three way tie, and furnished the feature of the evening by equaling the world's high run tournament record of 17.

Copulos defeated Otto Reiselt of Philadelphia, 50 to 48, in 45 innings, and Johnny Layton eliminated Allen Hall of Chicago, 50 to 35, in 55 innings. Reiselt's defeat threw him into a deadlock with Layton and Augie Kieckhefer, each of whom has dropped one game.

Kieckhefer, Denton Win.

Layton, who is the defending champion, now has won five matches. Hall's defeat was his second, and his standing is three won and two lost.

In the two afternoon matches Augie Kieckhefer and Tiff Denton were victors. Kiecnhefer defeated Charles Jordon in a thrilling 72 inning match, 50 to 49, while Denton downed Harry Schuler, 50 to 25. Kieckhefer's victory gave him a standing of four won and one lost.

Layton made a high run of nine against Hall in the fifth inning of their match. It was a safety play with Layton making seven deliberate safeties and Hall ten.

High Run in First Inning.

In running 17 in the first inning to take a commanding lead, Copulos equaled the mark established by Tiff Denton, of Kansas City against the late Bryon Gillette in 1919 at the Cleveland tournament. The sensational run, however, lacked one of equaling Layton's cluster of 18, made in league championship play in 1926. It also was three short of Willie Hoppe's brilliant run of 20 made in American billiard league competition two years ago.

The standing showing games won, lost, high run, best games and total points:

No Gum, No Goals, Said Mr. Teeters; and So It Seemed

Elkhart, Ind., Jan. 8.—[Special.]—Little Totter Teeters of Elkhart High school, seemed just the type a basketball coach would like to have around. He had a good eye for the hoop, was fast, and threw plenty of enthusiasm into his game. But Coach Longfellow had nerves, and Teeters had a habit which grated upon them. Teeters chewed gum.

Not that Coach Longfellow objected to an occasional chew, you understand. But Teeter's chewing long ago passed the limits of a pastime and became a vocation. He chewed not one stick but four, five, even six sticks simultaneously.

Coach Longfellow's nerves cracked at last and Teeters was ordered to chew no more. Being an obedient young fellow he complied. But the case didn't end there.

For Teeters was an artist and his art was basket shooting. Since time immemorial great artists have required certain stimuli before their best work can be produced. One celebrated composer was known to purchase several pounds of frankfurters before sitting down in his garret to weave an inspired symphony.

And as frankfurters were to this composer, so chewing gum was to Totter Teeters. His basket shooting grew worse and worse until it almost ceased to exist. His coach demanded an explanation and Teeters poured his whole soul into a plea that his gum be restored to him. Coach Longfellow broke down and granted the request.

It was announced that Sharkey would fight without a guarantee, taking 37½ per cent of the net receipts for his share. Scott will get 25 per cent.

Signing of the Sharkey-Scott match brought to an end a situation which, for a time, threatened to throw the heavyweight title wrangle in a still greater snarl. The Garden chose Tuffy Griffith as the logical opponent for Sharkey in Miami, but the Bostonian refused to have anything to do with the Sioux City and Chicago fighter, saying he would box only Scott or Victorio Campolo.

Scott now is in England but will make all speed for this country in order to have a solid month of training for the most important fight of his career.

Jack Dempsey Referees 96 Seconds; Gets $2,500

New Orleans, La., Jan. 8.—[Special.]—Jack Dempsey received $2,500 for a minute and a half of work as referee here tonight when Johnny Cook knocked out Milton Manguno in the first round of a scheduled twenty round bout, one minute and 36 seconds after the fight started.

Bruins Beat Paterson, 22-21; House of David Whips Trunks

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Chicago's Bruins celebrated homecoming last night at the Stadium by defeating the Paterson Crescents, 22 to 21, despite the best efforts of such a sharpshooter as Benny Borgeman. And the largest crowd ever to see a professional game—7,800—served on the reception committee.

It is admitted by the pros, however, that many came to see the House of David play Chicago's star girl team—the Taylor Trunks. The boys from Benton Harbor, with a splendid collection of cough drop whiskers and Chinese queues, won a bang up contest, 18 to 16, from the bobbed quintet.

Then, too, Art Bramhall, former star basketball player at Oak Park and St. Mel High schools, played his first game for the Bruins, and many of his west side friends were there to cheer. Bramhall relieved Gil Ely and during his 13 minutes on the floor, scored one field goal, a pretty one hand toss from the corner. He also held up his share of the defense.

Tucker's Height Helps.

Holding the center of the spotlights, and this literally was true, probably affected the girls' playing. The curiosity of the crowd was reflected by the picture services and the talkies. Blinding spotlights, news reel photographers, and popping flashlights so unnerved the usually steady young ladies that they missed many easy shots.

Then, the extra height of skinny Pop Tucker at center, who pushed in three field goals from above the head of his guard, was a deciding factor. Pop stalked stiff legged around the floor, thoroughly enjoying himself.

Anderson was Pop's chief assistant. He was the only blonde on the Michigan team. Dad Tally, a substitute whose basketball ability is zero but who owns the best crop of 1890 whiskers ever seen in Chicago, might have helped the Trunks win, but Cook, a dark, skinny lad with a modern hair cut, prima facie evidence that he didn't belong, stepped out in the last few minutes and his one field goal stopped a spirited Trunks' rally.

Benton Harbor Takes Lead.

It was this shot, following a push up by Tucker that gave Benton Harbor a four point lead after the score had been tied at 11 all.

Save two brilliant spurts by Paterson, the Bruins had command all the way. Chicago's long distance wizards were in form. Kennedy, Hickey, and Kellett did their stuff, putting Chicago ahead in the first ten minutes, 8 to 2. Then Benny Borgeman, the high scorer of the pro league last season, hit his stride. Twice Paterson came within one point of a tie, but with the count 10 to 9, the Bruins pulled away to a half-time advantage of 16 to 9.

Kennedy's side shot added two points as the second period opened. Grody counted from underneath and Wyak's two free throws cut the Bruin lead to five points. Then came Bramhall's shot, followed by one by Borgeman. Hickey broke loose under the hoop and the Bruins started to stall with seven minutes to play.

This stall was done so thoroughly that with less than a minute remaining Chicago still led, 22 to 19. McElwain dropped in a long shot, but the game ended seconds afterward.

PEGGY AND BILLY DROP IN FOR TEA AT LONELY LODGE

Gamekeeper Makes Pets of Deer.

BY BOB RECKER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Ogemaw County, Northeastern Michigan, Jan. 8.—It was about 3:30 in the afternoon. The sun was shining but it was cold outside where the north wind was whistling through the scrub oaks and the forest of young jack pines. We were sitting in the headquarters of the Ogemaw game refuge, talking about deer hunting with Blaine Brannon, the keeper, who with his wife maintains a lonely vigil over thousands of acres of sparsely settled, lonesome country.

Suddenly there was the musical sound of bells outside. Tinkling little bells that made you think of strings of sleigh bells.

Puzzled by such music in this forgotten country where, according to Brannon, you will find but eleven voters in ninety square miles, we heard Mrs. Brannon exclaim, "Here come the pets!" She rushed to the door.

Two Visitors Enter.

Out of the window we saw two fawns heading for the house, each with a little bell around its neck.

"Come on, Peg," called Mrs. Brannon. "Come Billy, old boy. Come right in and get your milk."

And did they come? Never have we seen animals enter a house with such confidence. They clattered up the front steps, walked through the door, and immediately began sniffing and nosing all of us for food. Peg, some three feet high [she was a June fawn], was lighter in color than her playmate, Bill, much tamer and more friendly. Bill, slimmer of neck and head, was a bit shy. He would let only Mrs. Brannon touch him.

These two little inhabitants of the scrub oak and jack pine barrens enjoyed a regular orgy of feasting for about twenty minutes. Bill has a taste for peppermint candy [he will eat no other kind] and ate his fill of sweets, while Peg licked up chocolates and hard candy. The next course was oranges and bananas, with Bill consuming even the peel.

Peg Frightens the Dog.

Sliced potatoes and apples were on the third course. Bill, sniffing around for another dish, found a rolled up piece of black paper that had been around a roll of camera film. He munched on that like a goat attacks a tin can.

Katey, a black, white and tan coon hound, not caring for these fawns, had crawled up on our lap during this visit. Peg, quite unafraid, started to lick the back of the dog and for five minutes applied her tongue to the frightened hound. For nearly a half hour the house belonged to these deer, which come in every afternoon for a visit and food. At night you'll find these friendly animals bedded down near the refuge headquarters.

BRENTANO LISTS 39 SKATERS FOR TRIBUNE RACES

BY WALTER ECKERSALL.

Chicago's playgrounds will be contenders for team honors in THE TRIBUNE'S fourteenth annual Silver Skates Derbies at Garfield park Jan. 25 and 26. Thirty-nine entries were received from Brentano playground yesterday. This is the first team entry, but there will be many more before the nominations close Jan. 19.

Brentano's entries were sent by Instructors Mildred Wagner and William Horschke. The latter always has been a stanch supporter of TRIBUNE ice races. Each year his team entry has been larger, and his skaters have won their share of prizes which are awarded to the first five finishers in each race.

Five Jones brothers will wear the colors of Brentano playground. William and Franklin Jones will compete in the senior race and Arman in the intermediate. Arman was a member of Chicago's school skating team which last year competed in several cities. He will be one of the favorites for the Silver Skates in his division.

Start Training Early.

Warren Jones will face the starter for the boys' junior Derby and Kenneth will attempt to win a prize and points in the boys' juvenile Derby which is open to boys under 14 years of age. The Jones brothers have been training for THE TRIBUNE Derbies since the skating season opened.

Brentano will be represented by five skaters in the boys' senior, six in the intermediate, eight in the junior, ten in the juvenile, one in the girls' senior, and nine in the girls' junior. Bernice Byrne is the playground's senior representative. She has raced in seven TRIBUNE Derbies and has placed in three.

Three brothers will represent Palmer park. Harry Ely will race in the boys' intermediate, Eugene in the junior, and John in the juvenile.

Checks Skaters' Ages.

Contestants seldom get into the wrong age classification. Harry Berz, chairman of the registration committee of the Western Skating association, has a list of all skaters, together with their ages. As soon as entries are received they are turned over to Berz, who checks on their ages.

A large batch of individual nominations also was received. They came from skaters in Evanston, Wheaton, Cicero, Berwyn, Oshkosh, Wis.; Milwaukee, and Fond du Lac, as well as from local racers.

2 WITH 140 EACH LEAD QUALIFIERS IN $10,000 GOLF

Kerrigan and Long Share Medal Honors.

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 8.—(AP)—In 36 hole tests, marked by few par or near par figures, 86 golfers qualified today for the $10,000 Los Angeles open championship, medal play in which starts Friday. Their names were added to 43 whose scores last year in the United States open and the Los Angeles open exempted them from the qualifying trials.

JOHNNY FARRELL.

Tom Kerrigan of New York and Harold Long of Denver each posted 140 scores to tie for medal honors. Favorites generally came through, although several failed to make the grade. Included in the list of nonqualifiers were Larry Nabholtz of Houston, Tex., Clarence Hubby of Waco, Tex., and Fred McLeod of Washington. Nabholtz and Hubby faltered on the final 18 holes today.

Farrell Totals 143.

Johnny Farrell of St. Augustine, Fla., a former national open titleholder, shot 71—72—143 for the Lakeside course, while Wild Bill Mehlhorn of New York, another star, toured the Rancho course in 73—71—144.

Because of the entry of more than 300, qualifying rounds here held over seven courses, with the low eleven and ties moving into the preferred class.

Championship play Friday calls for 18 holes that day and Saturday. The 36 hole final will be played Sunday.

VETERAN QUITS AFTER 15 YEARS IN BIG LEAGUES

Nehf, who has made his winter home here since 1925, has accepted a position with hotel interests of William Wrigley Jr., owner of the Cubs.

The veteran southpaw began his baseball career with the Terre Haute, Ind., high school team. He entered professional baseball in the Copper league of Michigan after graduation from Rose Polytechnic institute, and blasted his way into the majors—with the Boston Braves—in three years.

Set World Series Mark.

In 1916, the New York Giants paid $55,000 and five players for him. He wore a Giant uniform for ten years. In the 1921 world series he hung up a record that still stands—three games pitched with only 12 hits allowed. In the same year he pitched a 21 inning game against Pittsburgh, holding the Pirates scoreless until the 21st inning, only to lose by a 2 to 0 score.

1929	8	5	39	27	5.54
1928	13	7	52	40	2.64

1917 Nehf's Big Year.

Nehf's first big year was 1917, when he won 17 and lost 8 for Boston. He went to the Giants in 1919 for a reported $55,000, and in 1920 won 21 games for New York while losing 12. The following year he won 20 and lost 10. Art was with the Giants until stricken with neuritis in 1926.

Boston, 1915	12	78	5	4	39	21	58	3.33
Boston, 1916	32	121	7	5	50	30	110	2.01
Boston, 1917	38	233	17	8	101	39	197	2.16
Boston, 1918	32	284	15	15	96	76	274	2.70
N.Y.-Bos. '19	35	271	17	11	77	59	221	2.49
N. Y. 1920	40	281	21	12	79	45	273	3.08
N. Y. 1921	41	292	20	10	67	55	266	3.62
N. Y. 1922	37	268	19	13	60	64	286	3.39
N. Y. 1923	34	196	13	10	50	49	219	4.50
N. Y. 1924	30	172	14	4	72	42	167	3.87
N.Y.-Cin. 1926	9	19	..	1	..	..	..	..

Nehf has pitched in five world series, working in 11 games. He has something for the boys to shoot at in the fact that he has pitched two 1 to 0 victories in world series games.

During July and August of 1923 Nehf was bothered with a trick knee but the thing worked all right Sept. 10, when he squelched the slugging Phillies and beat them, 5 to 3, for the only Cub win of the season's final Philly series.

Nehf was signed by the Cubs Sept. 1, 1927, and has been a consistent performer ever since.

SOX READY FOR TRIP

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The process of separating fat from muscle so far as it affects the current crop of White Sox athletes will begin the morning of Feb. 17 at the San Antonio, Tex., training camp. On that day the battery men and such other members as Manager Donie Bush selects will take their initial workout in the two months conditioning siege in which about thirty exhibitions will help to break the monotony.

The formal summons to active service was issued yesterday by Business Manager Grabiner. Some of the battery men will accompany Boss Bush out of here the morning of Feb. 15 and the others will move directly to camp from their homes. For the athletes not included in the first squad there will be no formal getaway from here. They simply will be ordered to show up in San Antonio prepared to go to work on their flabby muscles the morning of Feb. 28.

Rookies to Get Extra Work.

Bush's intention to take with the advance squad a few athletes other than pitchers and catchers means some of the kid infielders and possibly outfielders are going to be treated to ten extra days of labor. Fellows like Smith, the shortstop, drafted from Birmingham and Jeffries, recalled from Dallas, are sure to be included. Jeffries can operate at second, short or third. Bush never has seen either of these fellows in action and as the middle of his infield is going to be his most annoying problem he wants to get an early start on his most promising rooks.

Some of the veteran hurlers, such as Faber, Lyons, and Thomas, who lead active winters so as to keep their waist lines down to summer dimensions, may be told to suit their wishes about reporting with the first gang or with the regulars on March 24.

Maroon Cage Squad Loses Bunge Through Graduation

Graduation yesterday deprived the Maroon basketball squad of the services of Jonathan Bunge, center candidate. The player is in the law school, and, while some of his courses extend over into the middle of the present quarter, Walter A. Payne, recorder and examiner, decided that the presumption should be that Bunge had satisfactorily completed the work he took last quarter.

ILLINOIS FIGHT CHIEFS CLEAR GREAT SHIRES

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Two trials and two fights in four days and in four different states and winner of 'em all, is the record the Great Shires now is in the process of establishing.

He won the first of the trials here yesterday when the Illinois boxing commission returned a verdict which intimated that Shires is not so hot as a fighter, but has a lily white soul and a heart of gold in so far as intensity of purpose is concerned.

In other words, the commission, as it previously indicated, exonerated Shires and his manager, Nessie Blumenthal, of alleged irregularities in connection with Shires' world premiere against Mysterious Dan Daly. All the other figures in the spectacle, including Promoter Jim Mullen and Eddie Meade, Dan's water bucket man, likewise, were adorned with the commission's cloak of virtue.

Art Tells Life Story.

Dan himself was the sole victim of the commission's wrath. It was he who charged that he had been induced to do a nose dive for Shires here Dec. 9. It was the consensus of the tribunal that the Columbus, O., porpoise is given to fanciful statements and, because it was feared the truth is not in him, he was barred from Illinois fistic competition for life. The commission made it clear that if there is one thing that body hates more than anything else it is a person who will tell a lie.

Shires was present at the hearing, fresh from his one round K. O. victory over Tony Faeth in St. Paul Tuesday night. He told the familiar story of his life and his ambitions, throwing in a bit of modesty here and there. He admitted that he is not a fight champion.

With the St. Paul fight and the Chicago trial successfully out of the way Shires and his manager this morning will take up the second half of their four day record. This morning at 9 o'clock they will appear at Lansing before the Michigan state boxing commission, which now has them under suspension following charges that efforts were made by Benny Ray, Detroit promoter, to put in the bag Shires' scheduled fight with Battling Criss in Detroit.

Fights Spohrer Tomorrow.

They will repeat their stories of lives well and honorably spent to the Michigan commish and it has been indicated that the badge of purity will be pinned on their bosoms in time for them to catch a train for Boston, where Shires tomorrow night will fight Al Spohrer, catcher of the Boston Braves.

The Massachusetts commission, which Tuesday paused a bit in its consideration of the match, yesterday decided that Shires and his manager are honest and earnest fellows and all of the talk about nose diving was just idle chatter.

After the fight in Boston Shires is scheduled to return to Chicago for a baseball conference and then, according to announced plans, will go to Detroit to take on Battling Criss in the battle that was to have been fought New Year's night.

VERDICT STUNS DALY.

Columbus, O., Jan. 8.—(AP)—Jim Gary, 18 year old Columbus boxer, who insists he faked the knockout he received as Mysterious Dan Daly in his fight with Arthur Shires in Chicago, returned tonight from Cleveland, saying he was the most surprised person in town when he learned he had been suspended from Illinois rings for life.

Gary said Eddie Edwards, agent of Eddie Meade, Cleveland promoter, who managed his corner during the Shires fight, came to Columbus Monday and took him and Mrs. Gary to Cleveland for a "conference," giving him money and entertaining him until tonight. Gary said Edwards told him it "would not be necessary" for him to go to Chicago to appear before the Illinois commission in its investigation of the fight in which Gary says he "took a dive."

Meade was in Chicago while Gary was in Cleveland.

The local boy, who has been boxing for two years in Ohio and West Virginia, says he was given the name of "Mysterious Dan Daly" by Meade on the eve of the bout. Gary tonight charged for the first time that Promoter Jim Mullen and Shires knew of the bout being "fixed."

CONLEY ELECTED GRID CAPTAIN AT NOTRE DAME

Notre Dame, Ind., Jan. 8.—[Special.]—Notre Dame's undefeated football squad tonight elected Tom Conley, left end, captain of next fall's team. The election was held at the annual monogram banquet and Coach Rockne, who has been confined to his home since the middle of the last football season with a leg ailment, made his first public appearance with the aid of a cane.

Conley is 20 years old and prepped at Catholic High, Philadelphia, Pa., where several Notre Dame stars have been developed in the last ten years. Last fall was his first regular season and he made a reputation as a smart wingman both on offense and defense. Conley weighs 170 pounds and is 5 feet 11 inches tall.

Moon Mullins, full back, from Pasadena, Cal., was runnerup in the voting.

Emerson, Froebel Favored in Northern Indiana Meet

Michigan City, Ind., Jan. 8.—[Special.]—Northern Indiana's fifth annual junior high school basketball tournament, sponsored by Michigan City junior high school, will be staged Saturday. Eight teams will participate, with Emerson and Froebel, of Gary, the favorites.

FIGHT IN RETURN MATCH.

Harvard and Yale to Play Baseball Sans Coaches

New Haven, Conn., Jan. 8.—(AP)—Harvard has accepted Yale's invitation to play their annual baseball series this spring without the assistance of coaches. Yale and Princeton have entered into a similar agreement which will leave the control of the game entirely within the hands of the captains and players.

Prof. George H. Nettleton, chairman of the board of control of Yale University Athletic association, said today the agreements "are in full harmony with the general principle, long supported and advocated by Yale, of encouraging the initiative and self-reliance of the players themselves."

Michigan Five Needs Defeat, Coach Says

Ann Arbor, Mich., Jan. 8.—[Special.]—Michigan swung into intensive preparation today for the invasion of Purdue Saturday night in the most important game of the Big Nine basketball schedule thus far.

Poor ball handling, which marred the second half of the win over Minnesota Monday night, was Coach Veenker's chief technical worry, but he has other things which bother his peace of mind. Most important of these is the fact that Michigan is being rated at the top of the pack.

"What we need more than anything else is a good beating," Veenker declared. "With the boys reading in the paper how good they are, they can't help believing they are pretty hot, and that is when a team begins to lose in a league like the conference. We have a good team, but not so good as last year."

Defense Needs Tightening.

Another matter which preys on Veenker's mind is that he has not been able to hit upon any five men as regulars.

When asked if he had definitely installed Weis and Downing as regulars over Kanitz and Lovell, Veenker said he hadn't decided. He liked their work at Minneapolis.

MURPHY VS. CHAPMAN

Lafayette, Ind., Jan. 8.—[Special.]—Two outstanding Western conference basketball centers, who were teammates on the Marion High school five, Indiana state champion of 1926, will face each other as enemies for the third time in their collegiate careers here Saturday night when Purdue meets Michigan in its opening conference game.

Since Stretch Murphy and Bob Chapman packed up their high school title togs in 1926 and took on the collegiate costume at Purdue and Michigan, respectively, they both have stepped into the conference net spotlight.

Met First as Sophomores.

Murphy and Chapman first opposed each other in 1927 as sophomores when Purdue took over the Wolverines, 55 to 33, and 35 to 26. Because of the rotating conference schedule Purdue and Michigan did not meet on the court last year.

Saturday night as seniors, Murphy and Chapman will meet for the third time with Chapman's Wolverine quintet a favorite for the title it shared last season. Both Chapman and Murphy are captains of their teams, Murphy, however, sharing the honor with Glen Harmeson.

ONE LOSS WON'T RUIN SEASON, MEANWELL SAYS

Madison, Wis., Jan. 8.—[Special.]—"There's nothing to get rattled about. We lost our first game to Northwestern because they have a good team and we missed enough shots in the first half to put the game on ice," Dr. Walter E. Meanwell, Wisconsin basketball coach, said today in reply to queries as to whether he will shift his lineup for the Ohio State game next Saturday. "We lost our first game last year, to Michigan, but we tied them for the championship, didn't we?" asked the doctor.

Purdue Trustees Approve Kizer as Head Coach

Lafayette, Ind., Jan. 8.—[Special.]—Approval of Noble Kizer as new head football coach at Purdue, succeeding Jimmy Phelan, was formally given by the university board of trustees at its regular meeting today, it was announced by President Edward C. Elliott. The board of trustees also confirmed the signing of Earl Martineau and Mal Elward as assistant coaches.

Tut-Flowers Fight Tops Stadium Bouts Tomorrow

The triple barreled 1930 opening scheduled for the Chicago Stadium tomorrow night appears to have all that's needed for a successful boxing show. Although three headline bouts are carded, Stadium publicists have concentrated on the exploitation of the ten rounder involving King Tut and Bruce Flowers as the feature headliner.

These boys, from their respective headquarters at Minneapolis and Philadelphia, have been waging campaigns with an eye on the lightweight title. The result of their Stadium endeavor, these publicists say, will mean a great deal toward further progress for that title.

Flowers Outweighs Tut.

Tut has engaged in 17 battles the last year. His last was a terrific contest New Year's day in Milwaukee with Billy Wallace, who, incidentally, meets Billy Delmont in the third ten rounder of the Stadium card. The Milwaukee contest ended with an eight round technical knockout for Wallace.

Flowers, a Negro, has stopped Stanislaus Loayza and Pinky Kaufman, and holds decisions over Billy Petrolle, Ray Miller, Spug Myers, and Honey Boy Finnegan. He outweighs Tut and is several inches taller.

Champion Jackie Fields and Jimmy Owens, Oklahoma welterweight, will meet in what is billed as the second ten rounder, a nonchampionship affair. They will scale around 150 pounds. Wallace and Delmont are 135 pounders. Two preliminaries support the card.

Dempsey Prelims Complete.

Emil Paluso, Salt Lake City Italian, is matched with Ray McIntyre of Los Angeles for ten rounds. They will weigh 120 pounds. Oscar Baker, west side heavyweight, is to clash with Tom Tarlico, a stablemate of Lomski, in a five round bout, and in the opener Solly Schumann of the west side will face Irish Mickey Gill of Ireland.

NEW ORLEANS BALL CLUB HEAD TAKES OWN LIFE

New Orleans, La., Jan. 8.—(AP)—Alexander Julius Heinemann, president and treasurer of the New Orleans Baseball and Amusement company, committed suicide tonight in his office at the baseball park by firing a pistol bullet through his mouth.

Friends attributed his act to ill health and not to his loss of $336,000 in the recent stock market crash. He was 51 years old, a native of New Orleans and for 24 years had been head of the New Orleans baseball club.

Heinemann rose to his position from a peanut vendor. Owners of the club took an interest in him, starting him on his climb to controlling interest in the club. Heinemann never married.

Brown, Hawkeye Pitcher, Is Declared Ineligible

Iowa City, Ia., Jan. 8.—(AP)—The last of the trio who pitched the University of Iowa to within half a game of the Western conference baseball championship last spring was lopped from the squad today when Mace Brown was declared ineligible. Decision was made by the Hawkeye eligibility committee because the hurler played semi-professional ball at Marshall, Minn., last summer.

ABEL LEFT HOME AS BLACKHAWKS GO TO DETROIT

Montreal at N. Y. Rangers.
Boston at Pittsburgh.
Ottawa at Toronto.

BY HARLAND ROHM.

The Blackhawks were split into three divisions yesterday. The main body of the hockey team started to Detroit to play the Detroit Cougars tonight, Earl Miller and Taffy Abel remained in Chicago, while Ralph Taylor started east to join the New York Rangers.

Miller, whose broken shoulder now is expected to keep him out of the lineup the entire season, stayed as a matter of course, but Abel was left behind with instructions to take off some superfluous weight. The big defense man naturally runs to beef, which isn't conducive to good hockey, and, while there was no disciplinary action in his being left behind for the one game trip, there was a hint it might follow unless the big fellow gets into better condition.

Hawks to Keep Bouncer.

Bouncer Taylor, the defense man who was slated to go to Tulsa in exchange for Teddy Graham, remains in the major league because the Rangers refused to waive on him. None of the other clubs wanted him at the waiver price of $5,000, but the Rangers refused to permit him to go down the river. The Hawks will keep Graham, but will be forced to make an adjustment with Tulsa. The Oilers are reported to have refused to accept Bobby Burns in place of Taylor, as a cash settlement is likely.

The crippled Hawks have a slender chance to regain a tie for second place tonight, but their backs are against the wall as well for if they should lose to Detroit, the fourth place Cougars would be only half a game behind them. The Hawks return to Chicago immediately after the game to play the New York Rangers at the Stadium Sunday.

Rangers Meet Maroons.

The Rangers, who passed the Hawks in the standing last Sunday, play the powerful Montreal Maroons at New York. The Maroons, who took first place away from Les Canadiens in their last game, appear to be the one hockey team in the league with a chance to give Boston a battle for the Stanley cup this year. Taylor will arrive in New York in time to play with the Rangers.

Boston, with a league record of thirteen consecutive wins, has a soft assignment tonight in Pittsburgh, while the fourth game between Ottawa and Toronto will be a battle for a better place in the standings as the two teams are tied for third place in the Canadian division.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

BASKETBALL.

BASKETBALL in the college and high school belts has started with even a greater following than a year ago. On the other hand, we find several pro clubs turning in their franchises because of lack of public patronage. Which prompts the question just how far the personal element—we cannot call it partisanship alone—enters into cage attendance.

Teams representing any city in the pro league certainly have their partisans as against any other squad they play. Yet college and high school followers seem to feel a closer or more personal relationship. Many spectators know the players. These college and high school squads, too, appeal to a cumulative partisanship which follows the college or high school teams not only in basketball but other sports as well. Often the opposition is a rival of many years standing. In this respect, at least, we think the advantage is with the amateur.

Which is the better game to watch is another question of opinon. The pro game is more exact. There is more accurate passing, fewer long shots and more spot shots. To us the pellmell of college or high school scrimmage is more appealing. Even this pellmell has been modified in recent seasons by closer guarding and fewer random heaves.

There is little question the best pro quints would defeat the best college quints. Aside from maturity and experience, there is another reason. College or high school coaches must take the material on hand, gauged by scholarship eligibility. If there be a weak spot, they must find some one for it. The pros, if they have a weak spot, may go out and find a player for that spot. There is no restriction on the quest for material.

The Wake always has liked both pro and amateur basketball. The Chicago Bruins are a popular outfit. We hope there will be no general lack of support for pro exhibitions.

GOLFERS PLEAD FOR REPEAL OF TAX ON CLUBS

New York, Jan. 8.—[Special.]—The United States Golf association today made public its petitions to congress for the repeal of the 10 per cent federal tax on dues and initiation fee to athletic clubs. The association made a general appeal for coöperation from individual clubs, district, state and sectional golf associations.

"The communication to congress is signed by Findlay Douglas, U. S. G. A. president, and Prescott Bush, secretary.

"The tax is paid by people who engage in and support athletics and sports," says the petition. "In other words, these people are taxed because they seek and obtain the benefits of health-giving exercise for themselves and others. It is respectfully submitted that it is a better policy for the country as a whole to support and encourage rather than to tax athletic organizations."

STEEL INDUSTRY PEPS UP, MILLS BOOST OUTPUT

Advance Is Made in Scrap Prices.

BY O. A. MATHER.

The big steel industry yesterday produced the most cheerful news in several months. The mills have stepped up production somewhat as the result of a stronger demand and scrap steel prices have advanced, although finished steel prices remain irregular.

"Steel production has taken an upturn after two months of sharp curtailment and the outlook is for further improvement, although it is expected to be gradual," the Iron Age says in its weekly review. "Steel ingot output in December was at the rate of 59 per cent of capacity. January production, according to present indications, may approach 65 per cent. The current average is close to 60 per cent.

"The two largest producers have reached a 65 per cent rate and operations in the leading steel centers are estimated at 65 per cent for Pittsburgh, 60 to 65 per cent for Chicago and 50 to 55 per cent at Youngstown. The betterment in steel demand is due mainly to an increase in the number of specifications rather than in their size. Buyers are still cautious. Although specifications from the automobile industry continue to increase in the aggregate, they are still made up of comparatively small tonnages for current needs."

Reduce Auto Steels.

The price situation is muddled and is causing consumers to avoid buying steel products except for current needs. Automobile steels have been reduced $2 a ton, strip steel and wire have been shaded $1 to $2 a ton and tin plate has been cut 10 cents a base box. But heavy melting scrap steel had been advanced $1 a ton.

"Final statistics on December production of pig iron and steel ingots reveal how drastic was the year-end retrenchment," the Iron Trade says. "Last month the daily pig iron rate declined to 91,513 tons, the lowest since December, 1927. Active blast furnace stacks suffered a net loss of 19, following the dropping of 29 in November, bringing the number active as of Dec. 31 to 157, the fewest since July, 1924. December averaged 115,851 tons of ingots daily, the lowest rate since October, 1924.

"Specifications for finished steel and releases against pig iron contracts have expanded materially in the last week. This betterment is appraised by most producers as a rebound from the repression of buying over the year-end. Farm implement manufacturers are more generous buyers at Chicago."

Reserve Bank's Profit Rises.

The higher rediscount rates that prevailed last year resulted in larger profits for the Chicago Federal Reserve bank, according to its annual report, issued yesterday. Net earnings were $6,424,665, which were equivalent to 27.5 per cent on average capital stock and to 9.7 per cent on average capital and surplus. Net earnings for 1928 were $4,763,428, equivalent to 25.9 per cent on capital stock and to 9.3 per cent on capital and surplus.

The bank paid $1,170,363 in dividends during 1929 and the franchise tax paid to the United States government amounted to $602,837, leaving a surplus for the year of $3,651,464, as compared with $3,663,667 surplus for the year 1928.

The fifteenth annual statement of condition of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York shows for the calendar year of 1929 total earnings of $19,314,279, compared with $18,483,042 in 1928. After deduction for bank operations, the cost of printing federal reserve currency and other charges, net income available for dividends, additions to surplus and payment to the United States government was $12,263,223, compared with $11,018,432. Of this amount $2,544,314 was distributed as dividends to member banks at the rate of 6 per cent on paid in capital.

CARBON COMPANY BOOSTS ANNUAL DIVIDEND RATE

J. C. Penney Co. Payment Shows Increase.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 8.—The Columbia Carbon company increased its annual dividend rate from $4 to $5 on its voting trust certificates for capital stock by declaring $1.25 quarterly, compared with $1 quarterly previously. Directors also declared the usual extra of 25 cents.

The J. C. Penney company declared a dividend of $2.50 on the common stock, which is an increase over the 1928 dividend, which, figured on the present basis after the splitup in the stock, is equal to $2.30 a share. It is planned to place the new stock on a $3 annual basis, the first quarterly payment of 75 cents to be made in March.

The Standard Power and Light corporation declared a special dividend to be paid in common stock of the Standard Gas and Electric company at the rate of one share of Standard Gas and Electric common stock for each 22 shares of Standard Power and Light old common stock.

The Dictaphone corporation declared a 10 per cent stock dividend and increased the annual rate on the common stock from $2 to $3 by declaring a quarterly dividend of 75 cents. The Intertype corporation placed its common stock on a $2 annual basis by declaring a quarterly payment of 50 cents. National Distillers Products declared an initial quarterly dividend of 50 cents on its common stock.

GILLETTE SAFETY RAZOR REPORTS ON NET PROFITS

New York, Jan. 8.—(AP)—Net profits of the Gillette Safety Razor company for the year ending Dec. 31 amounted to $13,620,700, compared with $16,250,657 in 1928, the company reports.

The 1929 profits are equal to $6.48 a share on 2,100,000 shares outstanding during the greater part of the year. Based on the 2,205,000 shares outstanding at the end of 1929 after the 5 per cent stock dividend, paid early in December, the profits were equal to $6.18 a common share, compared with $7.73 a share on the 2,100,000 shares in 1928.

Gasoline Price Adjustment Is Believed Under Way

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 8.—With the announcement today that the Magnolia Petroleum company, subsidiary of the Standard Oil company of New York, had readjusted its gasoline price bases in the southern territory in conformance with the plan already put into effect by the Standard Oil company of New Jersey in the east, it became apparent that a general revision of pricing methods by the big companies is under way. Other large marketing companies are expected to take similar action within the next week or ten days. Some of the smaller companies

Dairy Mergers Help Reduce Service Costs

BY SCRUTATOR.

The complaint that five or six milk wagons, under the conditions created by competition of numerous small dairy companies, often were supplying one apartment house and adding uneconomical costs to each bottle, is being overcome by a series of consolidations.

At present the Chicago metropolitan area is being served by about 150 dairy companies. Up until a couple of years ago there were about 250. Of the present operators in this field, two are estimated to distribute about 70 per cent of the total and another nearly 10 per cent.

The merging of smaller unit distributors into large ones began on a considerable scale in June, 1928. The Bowman Dairy company, the leader, then strengthened its position by the acquisition of the Eich, Murphy Ward, Mix and Forest Glen National interests and retained first place. Borden Farm Products company assimilated a much larger number, including the Welland, Irving Park, Logan Square, Greenview, Barron, Hammond, Broxham, Christiansen Bros., Natoma, Huntley, Carlsen, Benson, and several other concerns.

All but the Welland business is now under the Borden name and the consolidation is ranked second.

Effect Other Economies.

M. O. Maughan, executive secretary of the milk council, although declining to make public any official percentages for the leading companies, said yesterday that the council's thirty members distribute about 95 per cent of the metropolitan area's two million quarts a day. This would leave but 100,000 quarts for 120 smaller companies.

Milk is taken to individual households by some 7,000 drivers, and back of them are 5,000 more employes of the industry. According to Mr. Maughan, the labor forces of the companies are as large as they were before combination, but wagons are loaded more heavily and each man on the average delivers more milk. In this sense some waste has been eliminated in distribution.

Prices at retail have remained at the old levels. The farmers are said to be getting a higher price for their product now than formerly. Mr. Maughan has figures to show that there is no profit at all under the present price scale on pint bottles and only a half cent on each quart bottle. Losses are said to occur also on all milk returned by the drivers after making their rounds. Ten to 25 per cent of the milk that comes to supply the retail demand is reported as rehandled—separated and the cream is churned into butter, with the skim milk made into powder or thrown away.

Simplifies Health Task.

Concerning the quality of milk here and the certainty of supply, the consolidations seem to have simplified the task of the health authorities. Sanitary arrangements are regarded as the best in the country. With 400,000 cows supplying the market, some of them at long distances, a large part of the milk is shipped in glass lined tank cars. The butterfat content is 3.6 per cent, well above the legal requirement of 3 per cent, but admittedly lower than in some other cities.

Current reports show milk prices lower than in some other large cities, including New York, Boston, San Francisco, Birmingham, and Memphis. The merging here has seemingly been of benefit to the farm producers. For one thing, all milk that is offered is taken at the agreed prices and the farmer is enabled to increase his herd.

PLANS GIANT STEEL MILLS EAST OF GARY

New Combine Buys 1,000 Acre Site.

BY AL CHASE.

Purchase of a 1,000 acre tract of land on Lake Michigan, east of Gary, by the National Steel corporation yesterday, is to give Chicagoland another huge steel plant, to cost between $40,000,000 and $50,000,000, according to Ernest T. Weir, chairman of the board of directors, in an announcement made last night.

The National Steel corporation is a holding company recently formed through the consolidation of the Weirton Steel company, the Great Lakes Steel company, and subsidiaries of the M. A. Hanna company of Cleveland.

Will Total 1,100 Acres.

"The plant site which we've acquired in the Chicago district was purchased through the Insull interests," said Mr. Weir. "It will aggregate about 1,100 acres upon completion of reclamation work.

"Construction on this property will be started on the completion of the new Detroit plant of the Great Lakes Steel corporation, probably within the next three years.

"The Detroit plant, now building, will, on completion, represent an investment of $25,000,000 and with our contemplated Chicago operations and improvements in our Weirton, W. Va., plant, now under way, makes an aggregate expenditure of more than $72,000,000 scheduled for expansion by National Steel within the next several years.

Last Word in Construction.

"The Chicago plant will embody the last word in modern steel mill construction and will include blast furnaces, complete steel plant, and finishing mill.

"Decision of our company to build in the Calumet district is in recognition of the growing importance of the middle west as a steel consuming center and is another step in the company's program of diversified manufacturing operations to locate production close to both consuming markets and sources of raw material supply."

Walgreen company and subsidiaries sales for December were $4,901,459, against $3,664,493 for December, 1928, an increase of $1,236,965.87, or 33.8 per cent. For the twelve months of 1929 sales were $46,545,461, against $31,389,313 for the same period in 1928, an increase of $15,156,148.73. The total number of stores being operated as of Dec. 31 was 397.

N. Y. Life to Apportion $71,500,000 in Dividends

Approximately $71,500,000 is the amount of policyholders' dividends to be apportioned by the New York Life Insurance company for the year 1930, according to an announcement made by Darwin P. Kingsley, president. This is $4,400,000 in excess of the dividend apportioned for 1929, which amounted to $67,100,000.

HEAD OUTLINES VIEWS ON 1930 TRADE OUTLOOK

The outlook for the year 1930 is that it will be about as good in a business way as 1928 was, according to Walter W. Head, president of the Foreman - State National bank. His views on the subject were given in an address at the weekly luncheon of the Chicago Association of Commerce yesterday in the Hotel La Salle.

Mr. Head presented the thought that about half the population of the country depends for livelihood on three industries, railroad transportation, farming, and automobiles, with their allied vocations. Farming, he said, was better off than at the start of any recent year.

No reduction in wages or in employment was expected for the 1,700,000 railroad workers, who with their families make an estimated total of 8,500,000, Mr. Head added. The automotive industry, he suggested, had its biggest year in 1929, with wholesale production of four and a half billions.

While he did not look for as good times in this industry in 1930, he said the consensus of manufacturers' opinions indicated that the 1928 figures would be about duplicated in this line, and the same would hold good for all business.

PESETA SLUMP IS SENSATION IN SPANISH CIRCLES

MADRID, Jan. 8.—(AP)—The renewed sharp slump in the exchange value of the peseta today caused a sensation in trade and industrial circles. Some banks refused to transact business in pesetas because of the irregularity of quotations. The peseta yesterday was quoted at a low of 13.2 cents, United States currency, and today dropped to 12.5 cents or lower in various cities including Madrid. Its par value is 19.3 cents.

Plans Bill to Eliminate Chain Banking

Washington, D. C., Jan. 8.—(AP)—Confronted with complex proposals for legislation affecting the national banking system, the house banking committee today initiated hearings looking toward a study of the situation in the light of current conditions.

The committee failed to agree on two bills proposed by the federal reserve board, and decided they should be re-drafted. One would empower the board to cancel federal reserve bank stock held by a member after the member had discontinued banking operations. The other would authorize the board to permit withdrawal of any state bank or trust company without the six months' notice now required.

Would Ban Chain Banking.

Meanwhile another far reaching change of law was proposed by Representative Strong of Kansas, ranking Republican on the committee. He said that tomorrow he would introduce a bill to eliminate group and chain banking.

The proposed bill would prohibit use of the mails and the shipping or delivering in interstate or foreign commerce of any article, and transmission by wire or wireless of any intelligence in interstate or foreign commerce by any bank or trust company which is included in a chain or group of banks.

Strong Cites Purpose.

Such institutions as are members of the reserve system, except national banks, also would be deprived of their stock in the federal reserve bank of their respective districts and denied the rights and privileges of membership in the reserve system. State banks or trust companies not members of the system would be denied all rights and privileges under the federal reserve act.

"The purpose of my bill," Strong said, "is to abolish group and chain banking before it is established in every state of the Union."

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 8.—The stock market turned over on its back and dozed a great part of today. Business reached the lowest ebb in eighteen months, the sales for the five hour period amounting to only 1,638,830 shares. The ticker was idle for minutes at a time.

With interest in price movements confined in a financial way largely to traders on the floor of the exchange the market held moderately steady until the final hour, when enough recession took place to leave the list irregularly lower on the day. As on the preceding days of the slump many of the changes were fractional.

Only Handful Active.

Trading for most of the session was concentrated in a handful of stocks, four issues accounting for 25 per cent of the total volume in the first four hours. These were Radio-Keith-Fox, Foreign Power, Nickel, and Kreuger and Toll.

About the middle of the afternoon some of the rails began to display pronounced activity—pronounced at least in comparison with the showing of this group for the last few months. There were times, in fact, along toward the last when the carrier shares virtually monopolized the tape. Interest centered chiefly in Baltimore and Ohio, C. & O., and a scattering of the speculative descriptions such as Missouri-Kansas and Texas and Chicago Great Western.

Shares Are Most Active on Chicago Exchange.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Grigsby Grunow was the most active on the Chicago board yesterday with a turnover of more than 16,000 shares. The market otherwise was dull, with total sales approximating 124,000 shares.

The activity in Grigsby, which dropped below 19 and closed just under that figure, was followed up last night by an announcement by President B. J. Grigsby of a move which gives the firm approximately $5,000,000 in additional working capital.

The company has entered into a contract with the Commercial Investment Trust company of New York to take over the financing of time purchases of Grigsby products which was formerly handled by the Majestic corporation, a Grigsby subsidiary. Commercial Investment Trust within the next 30 days will take over the $5,000,000 worth of paper now held by Majestic and the latter firm will discontinue business. The Commercial Investment Trust will extend the same services to Grigsby dealers which Majestic formerly provided, it was stated.

Zenith Omits Dividend.

The remainder of the list was dull and irregular. Zenith yielded slightly following announcement that the directors had voted to omit the quarterly dividend of 50 cents due at this time. However, it was apparent that the market had discounted the action before. It was stated that the directors wished to conserve the cash of the firm, which now amounts to about $900,000.

Rumors that creditors were considering asking a receiver for Steinite Radio company brought forth a statement from President Jay Abelson last night that the difficulties of the firm are being ironed out. Mr. Abelson said that company officials have met with creditors in New York and Chicago and arrived at an agreement. A final meeting will be held today in Fort Wayne in an attempt to make a working agreement. The company is operating as usual and making deliveries, Mr. Abelson stated.

Investment Trust issues showed little change. Corporation Securities, Insull Utility were fractionally lower at the close. National Security Investment was 2 points higher on sales of 350 shares.

Automotives Quiet.

Automotives were quiet, as were the majority of stocks in the general list. Auburn was off 5 at the close and General Theater Equipment declined 1¾. Borg was unchanged and Bendix slightly lower.

Exchange governors meeting yesterday gave formal approval to the transfer of memberships to Gen. Robert E. Wood, president of Sears, Roebuck & Co.; Harry C. Robbins, partner of F. S. Moseley & Co., Boston; Robert S. Anderson, Charles W. Erwin, Albert Seckel, Frank Solomon, Merrill W. Tilden and Clarence G. Troup.

PHONE COMPANY BUYS NEW SITE IN WINNETKA

The Illinois Bell Telephone company has purchased the property, 147x185 feet, at the southwest corner of Lincoln and Oak streets, Winnetka, from Christ church of Winnetka for an indicated $120,000. At the conclusion of town improvements, which will necessitate the phone company moving from its present location, a two story exchange building is to be erected.

The new structure is to conform architecturally with the town buildings nearby. What it will cost has not yet been determined. The exchange will serve only the town of Winnetka. At present there is an Episcopalian parish house and rectory on the land bought by the telephone company. These are to be moved nearer the lake.

BETTER CLASS OF WHEAT BUYING BOOSTS PRICES

Note Revival of Foreign Grain Demand.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

A revival in the foreign demand for North American wheat, with sales of 1,250,000 to 1,500,000 bu in all positions, including 750,000 bu to Portugal and inquiries for around 1,000,000 bu more from that country, brought in a better class of buying of futures yesterday. Prices rose 1⅛@1¼c over Tuesday's finish, with the close at intermediate figures, with net gains of ⅝@1¼c.

Winnipeg wheat was strong early, but eased toward the last and gained only ½c for the day. Liverpool, however, was up 1⅛@1⅜d, an oversold condition developing there, with a better cash demand, while Buenos Aires was 2¼c lower and Rosario, ½@1½c lower, both breaking sharply after Chicago closed.

About 1,000,000 bu of the wheat sold for export was hard winter and it was said that all of the No. 2 hard at the gulf offered at May price had been taken, while Omaha sold No. 1 hard to go to New Orleans. N. B. Updike of Omaha, in commenting on the export situation, wired that the long expected foreign demand seemed to have materialized, as gulf bids were on a better basis than those from elsewhere. Bulk of the hard winter at the gulf is said to be sold to go out.

Russian Mystery Explained.

Wheat futures showed a better undertone from the start, with the pit element more inclined to the buying side. The bulge was checked by selling on resting orders and against offers. July was bought on reports of sleet-storms over parts of Kansas and Missouri, and the explanation of why Russia has been exporting wheat also attracted attention.

An accumulation of a small amount of wheat at Russian Black sea ports so inconsequential that it was hardly worth while hauling back into the interior is said to have been responsible for recent sales to European countries. It develops that only 38,000 bu were sold to Marseilles, France, recently, all in small lots, and Canadian messages claimed that there was only 375,000 bu that were likely to be cleared.

Dry weather prevails in parts of western Kansas, southwestern Oklahoma, and western Texas, according to the government weekly weather report. A Kansas message reported total precipitation in that state in December averaged .17 inches, the lowest for any month in about two years, and compared with a normal of .89 inches.

Corn Bookings Small.

While outside trade in corn for some time past has been light, there has been a rather steady gain in the open interest in futures and the market seems to be gradually gaining friends. Prices held within a range of ⅛@⅜c for the day, with the close at net gains of ¼@⅜c. Buying was based on the strength in wheat, active cash demand and small country offerings.

CASH-GRAIN NEWS

There was a fair improvement in the foreign demand for cash wheat with the United Kingdom taking Manitobas and the continent hard winters. Sales in all positions were estimated at 1,250,000 bu or more. Sales at the Pacific coast last week were estimated at 1,250,000 bu. Local handlers sold 12,000 bu wheat; 195,000 bu corn and 94,000 bu oats to the domestic trade.

LARD UP 30 CENTS

Lard prices are below cost of production, which is bringing in investment buying of futures. It is said that packers, instead of hedging the output of their houses by sales of futures, are buying them. The market has been well liquidated by the long decline and pressure from sellers was light.

Hog prices were 10c to 20c higher yesterday despite the good receipts. January lard was picked up readily and shorts were good buyers. Prices advanced 30c and closed at the top. Bellies were offered sparingly and, like lard, advanced 30c, with the close on May at $12.30. Liverpool lard was unchanged to 3d lower. Cumberland sides in that market were 2s higher. Exports of lard were only 196,375 lbs and of bacon 320,500 lbs. Prices follow:

BUTTER LOWEST SINCE 1924

Sharp fluctuation in butter and egg contracts featured trading on the Chicago mercantile exchange. Sharply lower levels were the rule in butter following a break of 2c in the spot level to the lowest price since 1924. January butter tumbled to a new low for the season at 31½c but recovered to finish $48 a car, or ¼c lower. February was off $96 a car or ½c after selling at a new low at 32c and March contracts dipped $72 a car or ⅝c after recording a loss early in the day of $120 a car at a season's low level at 32¼c. Four market storage statistics favored the low prices as withrawals were 101,472 pounds less than a year ago. Sales were 214 cars with receipts of 8,244 tubs. January fresh firsts were the strong spot of the egg trading with a gain of $75 a car or ⅝c with January refrigerators up $60 a car or ½c. Forecasts of additional cold weather brought on the advances which were marked up in the face of four market storage movements which showed 7,491 cases less taken out than a year ago. Sales were 184 cars with receipts of 7,581 cases. Prices follow:

LOW CORN CROP

There was only 2,191,135,000 bu corn harvested as grain in 1929, the smallest amount since 1924, according to a report by the department of agriculture, and compared with 2,361,000,000 bu in 1928. Acreage of corn harvested for grain in 1929 was 82,601,000 acres, against 85,448,000 acres the previous year.

Including the crop, carry over and visible supply, the trade figure that there is 2,271,000,000 bu corn available for consumption during the 1929-'30 season, or 146,000,000 bu less than the previous year. Silage production in 1929 was 29,908,000 tons, against 31,579,000 tons in 1928.

Top yesterday, $14.25: average, $13.20.

Hogs recovered 10@20c of the recent loss yesterday, closing strong at the high point of the day with all interests on the market. The extreme top advanced 20c at $9.95, while the general average moved up 15c at $9.65, comparing with a top of $10.00 and average of $9.70 last Saturday.

An advance estimate of only 35,000 for today, when most traders were expecting 40,000 to 50,000, encouraged some to hold hogs off the market in hopes of forcing the top above the $1.00 line.

Large Shipping Demand.

Shipping demand continued larger, taking 10,000 more yesterday, or more than 50 per cent of the available fresh receipts after directs had been deducted. Less than 4,000 were left at the close, when larger houses came on the market for fair sized droves at the general advance.

The general cattle market yesterday reached the highest level in recent weeks, bulk of sales showing fully 25c advance, with most sales as much as 50c above Monday's quotations. Meager supplies, coupled with good eastern demand and better outlet for beef, were the strengthening factors.

Chicago receipts since Jan. 1 show a decrease of 13,000, compared with the same period last year, while shipments are practically the same. Receipts during January, 1929, were second smallest for that month since 1915. Choice yearling steers averaging 1,059 lbs topped yesterday at $16.25, while 1,320 lb steers sold at $15.50. Butcher stock shared in the advance. Calves sold steady to strong. Stockers and feeders were scarce and quoted strong to unevenly higher.

Although weakness and some declines were noted in the market for fat lambs yesterday, aged sheep and yearlings established new high marks for the season. Top 91 lb fed western yearlings soared to $12.25, while handy ewes reached $7.65.

Top yearlings last week stopped at $11.00 and aged ewes at $6.25. Two weeks ago yearlings sold at $10.50 and aged ewes at $5.85, indicating the sharp rise in mutton stock. Considering quality of lambs, most sales were in line with the general trade Tuesday. The best available averaged 85 lbs and sold at $14.25, while $13.50@14.00 took most good 85@100 lb averages. Feeders were in good demand at $12.25@12.50, although best kinds are quoted at $12.75.

PRODUCE MARKETS

Spot butter was weak and prices 2c lower with demand slow despite the decline. Fresh eggs, easier, with expectations of lower prices. Live spring chickens declined ½@1c, with other poultry unchanged. Receipts by freight, 4 cars. Potatoes in active demand and prices somewhat higher. Receipts, 62 cars, with 181 cars on team track.

FIRST UNION TRUST AND SAVINGS BANK, CHICAGO, ILLINOIS, TRUSTEE

Mr. Frank S. Cunningham, President, furnishes the following information:

Business: Butler Brothers was founded in 1877. Its business consists chiefly of the wholesaling of general merchandise to merchants only, through a chain of distributing houses extending from Coast to Coast and located in New York, Chicago, St. Louis, Minneapolis, Dallas and San Francisco, with sales offices in other important trading centers of the United States. Company operates 76 departments of general merchandise, comprising approximately 30,000 items, including dry goods, clothing, hardware, tinware, toys, glassware, crockery, automobile accessories and tires, jewelry, etc. Sales are made through the medium of monthly catalogues, principally to general and variety stores, including dry goods and department stores in small towns throughout the United States.

During 1929, the retail division of merchandising was undertaken through the organization of a wholly owned subsidiary, Scott Stores, Inc., which operates variety stores, specializing in goods retailing from five cents to one dollar, in towns which are not served through the wholesale division. Forty-two such stores are now in operation and it is expected that eighty additional stores will be opened during the coming year. Our expansion program in the retail division will be further augmented during 1930 by the organization of ten to twenty junior department stores, which will sell exclusively popular priced women's, misses' and children's ready-to-wear clothing; men's clothing, shoes and a comprehensive assortment of notions and fancy goods.

American Wholesale Corporation: This Company, which is to be acquired by Butler Brothers as of January 1, 1930, is the largest wholesale house in the Southeast, serving the territory south of Philadelphia and east of Ohio and handling a complete line of general merchandise; sales for 1928 amounted to $22,866,000. Its selling is effected through a monthly net price catalogue. Its plant is located at Baltimore and this acquisition will complete a group of seven wholesale houses.

Assets: Our financial statement as of November 30, 1929, after giving effect to this financing, shows net tangible assets, after deducting all liabilities, excepting this issue, of $35,266,801, or 4.7 times this issue of Debentures. Total current assets of $29,803,475 were more than 7 times total current liabilities of $4,228,576.

Earnings: Net earnings, after all charges including depreciation but before Federal Income taxes, for the eight year period, 1922 to 1929 inclusive, have averaged $3,002,765 annually. The maximum annual interest requirements of this issue will be $375,000. Such net earnings for the year 1929 are conservatively estimated at $2,000,000, after making provision for extraordinary non-recurring expenses expended in the foundation of the new retail division and the opening of the new San Francisco house. These net earnings do not include earnings of the American Wholesale Corporation, which for the same period have averaged $1,247,251 annually. Cash dividends have been paid on the capital stock of Butler Brothers without interruption for the past 42 years.

Trust Indenture: These debentures will be the direct obligation of Butler Brothers, and will be issued under a Trust Indenture whereby the Company will covenant, among other things, that no mortgage or other lien will be created against any of the properties or assets of the Company or of any of its subsidiary companies, while these debentures are outstanding, excepting purchase money mortgages, or properties acquired subject to mortgages or renewal or extension of existing mortgages, and that the surplus of quick assets over all liabilities, excepting this issue, shall be maintained in the sum of at least $11,250,000, during the life of this issue.

Purpose of Issue: Proceeds of this financing will be used in part for the retirement of current indebtedness, expansion of the retail store division and for other corporate purposes.

CUSTOM BUILT

By SIDNEY HERSCHEL SMALL

SYNOPSIS.

John Andrew Kellogg, heir to millions, asks Barbara Thornton to marry him. She agrees, but not very graciously. When she hears that he has just lost his job she scolds him and calls him a playboy. He calls on his attorney, David Craig, who tells him that he will never inherit the money his father left if he doesn't prove himself capable of managing his life in a sensible way. He tells him that since he has lost one job after another he will have to double five thousand dollars in thirty days or live on an income from a trust fund for the rest of his life. John Andrew telephones this to Barbara and she offers to give him five thousand to turn over to Craig. He refuses and tells her he is going out to Hollywood. She is furious with him and breaks the engagement. He decides to go to San Francisco and starts for California. On the train he meets Anne Ames, who is on her way to Hollywood with a letter of introduction to a movie producer. They become interested in each other. Before saying good-by in Utah John Andrew tells Anne that he will see her in Los Angeles in a few days.

Arrived in San Francisco, John Andrew meets an old school friend, Peter Merriam, on the street. Pete is selling Mercury cars and tries to sell one to John Andrew. They go for a trial spin and with John Andrew at the wheel have a slight smashup. In order to save Pete from losing his job John Andrew buys the custom built roadster for $4,080. To this gives all but a hundred dollars of his expense money to an old man with an accordion without asking what the machine is. He drives to Los Angeles in the Mercury and sees Anne at the Consolidated studio, where she is being tried out. He makes an appointment to take her to dinner. Before starting out he looks at the old man's plans and learns they are for a noiseless camera. He sells the patent rights to Consolidated for twenty-five thousand, the money to be turned over to him on the receipt of the signature of Blake, the inventor.

In the meantime the hotel people become suspicious of John Andrew and ask him to pay his bill. He decides to pawn some belongings. Before going out to meet Anne he receives a telegram from the inventor's attorney asking for ten thousand additional or cancel the contract.

INSTALLMENT XXVIII.

LOVE.

John Andrew mentally added $1.30 to $6.50 [the amount he had received for the silver brushes, after long argument, which had only raised the original offer fifty cents] and by no mathematical legerdemain was he able to make the total more than $7.80—seven dollars for dinner, eighty cents for the waiter.

"I had a late lunch," he said, "but that musn't stop you [for seven dollars she could assuredly have anything she wanted] ordering anything and everything you like. Except pêche Melba [usually over a dollar]. I never could continue loving a girl who was fond of that mess."

Without waiting for a crossrond John Andrew swung the low custom sport roadster in a half circle, backed twice, and headed south again. He had, it seemed, always loved Anne. "Love" was not, John Andrew decided, a very competent word, unless it included many other things. Respect, admiration, devotion, and [combined with it] an earthy desire and passion. You couldn't figure it out; you loved and that was the end of it. Heigho! The Consolidated papers would be signed in full just as soon as he wired $500 to San Francisco. John Andrew was intelligent enough to know that whoever was advising Blake would certainly not try to pull the same game twice, although he did not understand exactly what Blake and the attorneys he had obviously consulted were up to. The money would be sent just as soon as the Mercury could be sold—tomorrow. [The matter of the hotel bill he dismissed; when the Mercury was sold the hotel would get their money.] Next step, with no chance of the Consolidated deal falling through and the check pocketed, should be to wire Craig. Then, Anne. Next ——

"First," said Anne, "I want—what are patties cardins?"

"What will you do now?" Anne asked. "Promote something else?"

"I'm no promoter. I'm—well——"

"You've never told me anything," Anne tried to lead him on. "All I know about you is that I saw you in a New York boarding house, and on the train, and——"

"Take off your hat," said John Andrew. "You look sweet when the wind blows your hair, little Anne—that's going to be a good Scotch name for you, isn't it? Anne Kellogg. Good sound."

"And you don't know anything about me." Which, the girl felt, was only a continuation of her first question.

Practical John Andrew said, "I know you. Isn't that enough?" And without deliberately intending to do it, prevented any further inquisition.

Anne let her head droop to John Andrew's shoulder. "There can't be any room there?" she asked dreamily. "Consolidated can't back out at the last minute——"

"All sewed up. Quit bein' so suspicious. I'm not."

"It's only because I've seen things fail through really no fault of the persons who was trying to do them. Do you know, sometimes I think that wealthy people never have any trouble."

"Never given it a thought, Anne."

"Why—you like to talk about things as if you were rich; that means you must wish you were. We all do, sometimes [soberly staring out of the car]. I asked you before and you gave me some silly answer, but what do you want most of all?"

John Andrew stopped the car. He said nothing, but the girl caught her breath, while exquisite color streamed over her face until it was like a pomegranate flower. "O," she said dimly, and swerved from him. Then, with a swift, lovely movement came closely against him, lips raised. "You—we—can get married—tonight," she breathed. "And drive—anywhere—in the world—and——"

The walls crashed about John Andrew's head. He shook himself clear of the débris and said shakily, "It's after five, dear. Even in Hollywood we've got to have a license."

Anne nodded, but let him glimpse her shining eyes. For mile after mile a spell was unbroken and Kellogg drove automatically, turning here, following the lines of traffic there, until the jade green Mercury, as if by itself, approached the Poinsetta. By sheer force [it seemed to Kellogg] he prevented a diabolical roadster from swinging into the hotel drive [where, if he had taken Anne to dine, disaster would surely have resulted] and forced it to continue down the wide boulevard.

"I've never been in the Poinsetta," Anne suggested. "Some of the movie people live there——"

"Badly overrated," said John Andrew. "Nothing extra."

"But better than the boarding house on 6th avenue, my lord?"

"Much the same sort of place," Kellogg grinned.

The Spanish room of el Hotel Fernando Rivera would have passed unrecognized by the old stalwart himself, who, even though indirectly, had an actual hand in the founding of el Pueblo de la Reina de los Angeles. In the thousand-odd rooms above the sellers of wares still arrived in great numbers [although the Indians are now gone] with much the same sort of merchandise as was bought in Fernando Rivera's own time, when there had arrived the cope of silk stuff with raised flowers, and the frontal of the same material, only in red; there had been yellow, and violet, and red ochre by the pound, the gross of running fire and carretillas to please the Indians; the bundles of tobacco; the twenty-five arrobas of chocolate [fine, superfine, and ordinary]; the cloth bags of blue glass beads and the twelve gross of mirrors; the can of snuff and the three yards of gold galoons for trousers; the anise, and saffron, and balsam, and hernia oil, and viper root; the chisels, and augers, and spikes, and plowshares; all of these and many more, including the little barrel of grape brandy for holy mass.

Few things were not so very different [in this regard] from the early days. In the rooms of el Fernando Rivera [who was killed by those same Indians on the Colorado in escorting the expedition into California, which founded Los Angeles] are representatives of tobacco companies, and farm equipment plants, and patent medicine firms, and silk factors, and hardwood workers, and cloak and suit salesmen, and cosmetic dealers.

In the Spanish room all of them could dine [according to the advertisements] in authentic Spanish atmosphere.

Rifles are looped around the wall; there are spurs and [believe it or not] real flintlocks crossed with sabers; every little balcony has its shawls and hangings of Spain's red and yellow. The cigaret girl even looks like a tiny Carmen.

"Hide thy face
Beneath thy fan;
Peer across its edge at me," and you are transported to the sunny days of señoritas, and brave deeds, and fine dining from iron barred windows and opulence and—and, if you have the right sort of imagination, strawberry colored bungalows with vermilion tiled roofs—just the sort of place to raise the kiddies, and only $750 down with easy payments.

Neither John Andrew nor Anne was so critical. They had been given excellent table near a draped window, neither too near the entrance nor the serving doors; the menu [fortunately for the diners] was not in Spanish.

"First," said Anne, "I want—what are patties Cardinal?"

"Something red and not to be trusted," John Andrew suggested. "You can get a bit of caviar [$1.25], but I don't care for the stuff. Then——"

"Cream of chicken Vanderbilt?"

"At 90 cents? "I'd suggest consommé Milanaise [45 cents] instead of a thick soup. And how about—let's see—beef Wellington?" [$1.00—not a whole less than that which he could see!]

"I want Grenadin Talleyrand," Anne smiled. "Don't tell me what it is, it sounds lovely and expensive."

Good Morning!

Lovers of the glorious western classic which, issued in 1902, brought its author, Owen Wister, speedy and lasting fame, will find the screen's sound version of "The Virginian" entirely to their liking. It delighted me.

Long, lanky, awkward, shrewd eyed, wistful Gary Cooper with his drawl, and the smile that flashes with such sudden and believable sweetness over his sober and somewhat melancholy countenance, is, I should say, just about perfect in the title rôle. Steve, the Virginian's happy-go-lucky, unmoral friend, and rival for the affections of sweet Molly Wood; Steve, who has been warned to stay away from that bad man, Trampas, and who blithely disregards that advice; Steve, who, according to the law of the land the Virginian, as foreman of the Bar H. ranch must order to be hung—is given a beautiful sendoff by Richard Arlen.

Walter Huston as the snake, Trampas, to whom the Virginian delivers the famous ultimatum, "When you call me that—smile!"—gives a great characterization. He's just about all the bad men you've ever seen rolled into one.

Mary Brian makes Molly Wood a live and adorable maiden. Eugene Pallette does much for the rôle of Honey Wiggin, and Helen Ware has one punchful scene as "Ma" Taylor. I refer to the episode in which she tells Miss Molly where and how to head in.

This picture was made almost entirely out of doors and the scenery is marvelous. There are a number of the most beautiful photographic shots you have ever seen. Photography and synchronization throughout are fine.

The action takes place in and near Medicine Bow, Wyo., in 1880, and the storied events give you a pretty good idea of the country and its laws as they were at that time. Besides being informative the tale spins an intriguing romance, shot with humor, and sinisterly overhung by clouds of impending tragedy.

As for the sounds—cattle low, babies weep, cowboys sing, birds twitter, horses' hoofs clatter, shots ring out, a locomotive, stalled by a herd of cattle, has its bell rung angrily, and Miss Wood's pupils render "Three Blind Mice" with killing effect.

"The Virginian" has been directed with admirable restraint and an eye to brevity. The dialogue is unusually well rendered and recorded.

You're going to be awfully sorry if you miss "The Virginian"—so don't be sorry!

A short subject "The Life of Brahms" is also on the Roosevelt screen. This is one of the "Music Master" series, and should greatly interest music devotees.

See you tomorrow.

Prof. Michelson Leaving for 3 Months in Bermuda

Prof. A. A. Michelson, noted physicist of the University of Chicago, who is 77 years old, will leave Chicago today for New York. There he will sail for a three months' stay in Bermuda. Mrs. Michelson, who will accompany him, said yesteday his convalescence from two recent operations and an attack of pneumonia had been rapid enough to permit the journey without fear of a relapse. On his return Prof. Michelson intends to go to California to spend the summer on a ranch, where a mile long pipe line has been set up to enable him to continue his experiments in measuring the speed of light. Prof. Michelson resigned from the faculty of the university recently and will become professor emeritus in June.

The Inquiring Reporter

Every Day He Asks Five Persons, Picked at Random, a Question.

The Tribune will pay $5 for each question accepted for the Inquiring Reporter to ask. Send your name and address with your question to "Inquiring Reporter," Chicago Tribune. For today's question Mary G. Viglione, 1118 Lake street, Oak Park, Ill., was awarded $5.

The Question.

Have you ever kept a New Year's resolution?

The Answers.

Timothy Mahoney, 461 Flournoy street, street car conductor—I don't believe I ever did. I have made them, but broke them. One hears it said that it is useless to make New Year's resolutions, as they always are broken. It never is useless to make a good resolve. Even if they are made and broken a hundred times we are the better for making them.

Mrs. J. R. Kalivoda, 6203 South California avenue, clerk—I am trying to keep one now. I have made them before, kept them for a while, and then broken them. I intend to make good on the one I made this year. Some of the resolutions I make during the year I keep and some I break. If one fails one can always start over again.

Allen H. Frost, 859 North Dearborn street, advertising salesman—I never have kept one of them. I have made plenty of them. I suppose I will be making more of them year after year until I either become totally indifferent or perfect, or reach the end of my time. But that's all right—why not?

Miss Isabella Daly, 1401 North Austin boulevard, inspector—I have made them and kept them more than once. When I make up my mind to do something or not to do something I keep that resolution. When I start something I go through with it.

Edward F. Quinn, 3549 Rita avenue, advertising salesman—I have made many New Year's resolutions, but so far as I recall I never kept one. It is difficult enough to keep resolutions that exigencies of the occasion suggest as they come up throughout the year. However, I believe in making these resolutions, whether the New Year's kind or other.

Synthetic Life Soon to Crown Science Efforts

So U. S. Physicist Predicts at Meeting.

New York, Jan. 8. — [Special.]—The prediction that life some day may be produced synthetically in the laboratory was made today by Dr. Paul R. Heyl, physicist of the United States bureau of standards. He talked before the science forum of the New York Electrical society.

The year 1929, Dr. Heyl said, saw greater progress in the direction of the solution of the riddle of life than any preceding year.

"Life is physical and chemical in its nature and we will get at it some day," Dr. Heyl said. "We will understand the processes that make life as we now understand the burning of coal. I do not think anything is impossible, considering what we have accomplished in the last 200 years.

"I feel science is approaching the solution of the mystery of life. We already have learned to produce artificially many of the compounds functioning in the body.

"There is nothing occult or supernatural in the processes of life and eventually we will unravel its secret. Protoplasm, the basis of life, is nothing, but a chemical compound. I see no reason why some day we shall not be able to produce it. When we do it may be living or it may be dead—no one can say."

Dr. Heyl referred to the achievement of Dr. Hans Fischer in Germany, who succeeded last year in producing the "respiration ferment." This is the red part of the red corpuscles in both human and animal blood.

Dr. Heyl said this particular ferment is essential in the process of transferring oxygen from the hemoglobin in the blood, which has taken it from the air in the lungs, to the tissue of the body. Without the ferment he pointed out, the blood would not surrender its oxygen supply to the tissues, and a man would quickly suffocate.

Dr. Heyl said that discoveries such as Fischer's are helping science greatly in its efforts to master the riddle of life.

Civic Music Tea Today.

A tea for the delegates of the seventh annual conference of the National Civic Music Association of America will be held this afternoon at the Opera club.

Katherine Farwell, H. W. Carpenter Will Marry Today

Miss Katherine Farwell, daughter of John V. Farwell, well known Chicagoan, will be married at 9 o'clock this morning to Horace W. Carpenter, who has an experimental farm at Brookfield Center, Conn. The ceremony will be performed at the Church of St. Mary of the Virgin in New York. The bride will be attended by her father.

This announcement was made last night at the Chicago home of Mr. and Mrs. Farwell, 229 Lake Shore drive, by Mrs. Farwell, whose recent illness did not permit her to make the journey to New York, where the couple obtained a license yesterday. Miss Farwell is 40 years old and Mr. Carpenter is 29.

Before making her home in New York about ten years ago Miss Farwell was active in north shore society, an accomplished equestrienne and golfer. In May, 1927, she was married in New York to Charles Merwin Howe of Bridgeport, Conn. The marriage was annulled in the Westchester (New York) County court a year ago.

D. A. R. Hears Attack on Radical Views of Morals and Politics

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

"As parents and taxpayers it is high time we demanded that there be decent professors in our colleges, where too often professors influence young men and women toward atheism and seek to change the moral code. No professor has a right to take from youth its safeguards for the future, and if our children are to be made pacifists in any schools or colleges we shall have a demoralized nation in the future."

Mrs. Sisson further asserted that the American Civil Liberties union is a menace to the government, since "it defends all radicals in their complaints." She said communism is growing in this country, while "unemployment and poverty aid in its growth."

Americans in Paris.

PARIS, Jan. 8.—The following people registered at THE TRIBUNE Paris office today: Mr. Philip Sabody of Boston, Mr. Henry and Arthur Weiss of Chicago, and Mr. Frederick McMillan of Denver.

THEATER

WILLIAM GILLETTE'S engagement here in "Sherlock Holmes" will start February 24, in the Erlanger: that will be after George M. Cohan's three weeks in that theater in "Gambling." . . . A deal of popular interest in Mr. Gillette's resumption of the rôle of Holmes is to be discerned—a tribute in part to a tradition and in part to the ballyhoo for the revival.

And Mr. Cohan, although now on tour, is making ready for New-York a play named "Sporting-Blood," by Lewis B. Ely, who some years ago had a piece called "The Horse-Thief" put on here in the Harris, with Miss Ann Harding and George Marion in the principal rôles. Walter Connolly, now acting the late Raymond Hitchcock's part in "Your Uncle Dudley," and Miss Ruth Shepley will be in the new play.

Miss Cornelia Skinner's program for Sunday afternoons in the Selwyn will be:

"Spring Evening";
"A Picnic in Kentucky";
"Monte Carlo";
"A Lady Explorer";
"Aftermath";
"Motoring in the 'Nineties";
"Sailing-Time on the Olympic."

Bobby Howes, a London comic as yet unknown in this country, is to be imported by Mr. Dillingham and placed as co-star with Miss Louise Groody in "Mr. Cinders," a London song-and-dance success. . . . Miss Groody has been inactive since the New-York run of "Hit the Deck!"

That Miss Gertrude Lawrence will go out of "Candlelight" and into the International Revue is now a matter of formal announcement by the sponsors of the latter entertainment. . . . "Candlelight" is among the season's imported disappointments.

The piece known as "The Sap from Syracuse" was made known last night in New-York under a new title, "So Was Napoleon!"

Mrs. Fiske is making ready a new piece, "Family Blues," wherein she expects to appear early next month in New-York. She will have with her Cyril Scott, long a familiar performer, but not lately in view. The new play is by Hatcher Hughes and Alan Williams.

The Cort will "go dark" after Saturday night's performance of "Queen Bee." Expectation is that the next offering there will be "She's No Lady!" with Lynne Overman in the principal rôle.

"Those We Love," one of the new plays, is credited to S. K. Lauren, whom I don't know, and George Abbott, who is believed to have made a deal of money by "fixin' up" pieces designed by others. "Broadway" was one. "Coquette" was another.

Chicago Banker Fears Mass Production in American Education

A reduction of waste in "quality education" to a minimum was urged last night by Eugene M. Stevens, president of the Continental Illinois Bank and Trust company and treasurer of the board of trustees of the University of Chicago, at the annual dinner given by the trustees for 800 members of the faculty at the Shoreland hotel.

"For some years in this country we have been making a fetish of mass production, a vast quantity of machine made products of exact similitude and standardized form," Mr. Stevens said. "It may be that this practice has insidiously crept into some of our educational institutions. There are schools and colleges without number to minister to those who seek a college education for its nominal value. I wonder if there has not come a time when a greater degree of selectivity can obtain in our great university.

"We cannot stand for waste in industrial quantity production, and we surely should minimize waste in quality education."

President Robert Maynard Hutchins spoke upon the necessity of greater coöperation among the various departments of the university, and Dr. Anton J. Carlson, head of the department of physiology, spoke on behalf of the faculty.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DUBLIN, Jan. 8.—Prof. John MacNeill, brother of the governor-general of the Free State, James MacNeill, and former minister of education, is leaving Queenstown at the end of February for America. There he has been invited to lecture at several universities, including the University of Chicago. His subject is to be the ancient Irish language.

Women Win Praise in Two Concert Roles

BY EDWARD MOORE.

In its concert at the Eighth Street theater last night, the Chicago Woman's orchestra devoted itself to the presentation both of women as executants and a woman as composer. Pursuant to this plan, the first half of the program was taken up with compositions by Dvorak (his "Carnival" Overture) and Saint-Saëns ("Le Rouet d'Omphale"), also his B minor violin concerto, which was played by Ruth Ray, concertmaster of the orchestra.

The second part was given to Gena Branscombe, once of Chicago and now of Canada, to conduct a rather elaborate series of her own compositions. These included "The Dancer of Fjaard," for chamber orchestra and women's voices, the Lake View Musical club chorus being present for this purpose; a double trio and baritone solo from a choral drama, "Pilgrims of Destiny," the solo by William Phillips, and a symphonic suite, "Quebec," with tenor solo by Le Roy Hamp.

In all of these Miss Branscombe has been her own poet, and evidently as good a one as she is musician. While in Chicago she displayed an inclination for sound, attractive melody as a basis for her compositions, and she would seem to have continued in this none too common course. Her music and the excellent playing of the orchestra were both causes for liberal applause by the audience.

A second performance of "Conchita" at the Civic Opera house last evening confirmed the opinion formed at the first, that it has a book, a score, and a cast of uncommon merit, many times more than most of the novelties that have been put up in recent seasons, and that its weaknesses are chiefly due to artless staging in an attempt to avoid the lasues of the story. This is said with full knowledge of how a prima donna's breath must be saved for singing and not wasted in dancing.

Miss Raisa is both a glowing singer and a glowing personality in the piece; Mr. Cortis excels as a singer if not quite as a romantic don; there is music here and there, like the dance in the second act and the distant voices echoing through the third, that has imagination enough for three operas. As a suggestion to the management, any time that applause seems to be dying out, all that is needed is to turn on a moonlit scene. It never fails.

Mr. Stock and the Chicago Symphony orchestra are announcing a plan whereby young musicians may get an appearance with the Friday-Saturday pair of concerts. This season it will be for pianists, or at least for one pianist. A committee of three has been chosen to work with Mr. Stock in the task of picking out the one to appear, and the engagement will be for the concerts of March 21 and 22.

There will be no contests. Applicants may apply to Henry E. Voegeli, manager of the orchestra, at Orchestra hall, relating their qualifications or asking the opportunity of playing for the committee. As the first few years of professional life are frequently difficult and discouraging for young musicians, this has been adopted as a plan which will attract the attention of public and critics under favorable circumstances. In this case Mr. Stock will be the final judge to pass on talent and ability. The advisory committee includes Herbert Witherspoon, Rudolph Ganz, and Edward Moore.

Visiting Merchants to See Chicago's Business Scope

The scope of the industrial and commercial activities of Chicago will be demonstrated by the Chicago Association of Commerce during its first annual "Chicago—World City Week," Feb. 3 to Feb. 8. The celebration will be held while thousands of merchants of all parts of the country are in this city for their spring buying and to attend the seventeenth meeting of the Interstate Merchants council.

Chain stores and Chicago manufacturers are planning to display their products throughout the city by special window displays in retail stores, emphasizing Chicago made products.

'Yacht Waiting' Florida Word to Donnelleys

BY THALIA

"Cruising in their yacht in southern waters" is a phrase provocative of visions of leisure, luxury, and many pleasant things to be envied those who possess them. The less propagandized process of achieving the described situation is, however, something else.

A yacht doesn't miraculously appear in southern waters. It has to be taken there, and the hazards and worries incident to its passage are quite beautiful. Take the Thorne Donnelleys, for instance. Their beautiful new cruiser, Phantom III., was launched just fall too late for much use in Lake Michigan. So it was planned to send it down to Florida for use this winter. It has reached the port of Jacksonville, and is now safely waiting for the arrival of the Donnelleys from California, but it suffered what the crew referred to as "quite a trimming" on the way down. The Donnelleys must have spent quite a few anxious days with an eye on the Atlantic seaboard weather reports when they knew their lovely new boat was on its way down the way down.

The Donnelleys must have spent quite a few anxious days with an eye on the Atlantic seaboard weather reports when they knew their lovely new boat was on its way down the coast. Particularly must they have wondered what Ol' Man Ocean was up to when Edsel Ford's yacht, bound in the same direction as theirs, foundered and was lost off Massachusetts.

The Donnelleys went to California before Christmas to spend the holidays with Mr. Donnelley's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. C. Pardee Erdman, in Pasadena, and the captain of the Phantom III. hasn't yet heard from when to expect them aboard.

Speaking of yachting matters, the latest issue of the Lake Michigan Yachting News contains a description by Mrs. Burnham of the new Chicago Yacht club's prospective quarters. The new building, to be constructed on the site of the old one at the central location on the shore of Grant park, is to be 8 stories high, but only 4 stories will show above the level of the park. Parking space, all sorts of rooms designed for the needs of sailors and yachtsmen, a natatorium, a lake front terrace, extensive dining rooms, lounges, and living quarters for members and their guests are planned for the new edifice.

Possibly a radio room for sending and receiving messages to and from members' yachts out on the water. The mechanical equipment is to be complete. The exterior will be of Bedford stone or marble, and the architecture is to be on classic lines. The location of the club is considered to be a special value, because it will be in such proximity to the World's Fair. The final treatment of the decorations and appointments will be in the manner of a "sumptuous Venetian palace."

Apparently some of the pre-nuptial parties that the former Barbara Ranger Cowles couldn't attend before her marriage last wall now are materializing. The now Mrs. Shepard and her husband are down here from Menasha, Wis., for one of the frequent trips that their nearness to Chicago makes possible. Mr. and Mrs. John Jelke are giving a dinner party at the Casino for them before the Twelfth Night ball tomorrow night, while Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert E. Porter III. are having a dinner for them on Saturday night in Lake Forest.

Col. and Mrs. Tryggve A. Siqueland will give a dinner dance this evening at their residence at 2156 Caton street to celebrate the 18th birthday of their daughter, Alyce.

Mrs. Theodore W. Robinson, Mrs. Rockefeller McCormick, Mrs. Wentworth Field, and Mrs. John T. Pirie are to have guests with them at the box of the Kinsolving programs of the season at the Blackstone this morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Miner Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Simpson Whiting have issued invitations for a dance at the Arts club on Friday evening, Jan. 24.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick L. Spencer are receiving congratulations on the birth of a son, Frederick L. Jr., on Saturday at St. Luke's hospital. Mrs. Spencer is the former Miss Bluford Richardson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph R. Richardson of 1235 Astor street.

Mrs. Watson Blair of 209 Lake Shore drive has been in New York City for a short stay for shopping, theaters, and the like.

Mr. and Mrs. Scott Durand of Lake Forest are planning to sail on the S. S. Columbus on Jan. 21 for a trip around the world. They will be gone several months.

Mr. and Mrs. Edmund A. Russell have closed their home in Lake Forest and have come into town for about three months. They have taken an apartment at 209 Lake Shore drive for that period.

Mrs. Franklin P. Smiths of Lake Forest have gone down to Palm Beach, Fla., for the remainder of the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Stinson, who were here for the holidays with Mrs. Stinson's mother, Mrs. Hugh J. McElroy, at the Drake, have returned to their post.

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

The South Side Art association has secured very pleasant galleries in the Fine Arts building. Their second exhibit of the season is hung there now. The organization numbers some brilliant and solid workers among its artists and is one of the three important art leagues in Chicago. Some of its members are members also of the Chicago Society of Artists which held an exhibit recently of ultra-modern flavor at the Stevens hotel.

In the current exhibit the bizarre is displaced almost entirely by the intelligible and carefully painted picture. William H. Eppens is represented by two unusually fine etchings, one of the Columbian Fine Arts building and the other called "Down the River" and showing the Chicago river crowned by the towers which are making Michigan boulevard one of the most beautiful avenues in the world. A painting by Mr. Eppens shows the dunes of Indiana in a warm glow of yellow sands under purple shadows. It is a canvas of nice feeling and great beauty.

Frank V. Dudley has a painting of the dunes with a spray of purple blossoms against the sand, another beautiful canvas. "Horses on the Beach" by Saunders continues the sand motif, but takes us to a much wilder scene, a shore swept with spray and rain and shrouded in gray mist through which loom the giant figures of three horses guided by a thick-set man, heavy in rubber boots and coat against the weather.

Josephine White, who is a young artist—still a student—shows an extremely fine painting of water running up on rocks. "High Tide" she calls it and there is a daring sweep to her shoreline and a beauty to the far horizon that speaks promisingly of her talent. Laura Van Pappelendam offers two colorful paintings. "The Open Door" is delicately conceived and her "House and Palm" is a rich flood of color. Florence White Williams contributes a beautiful street scene painted in Spain, imaginative and decorative.

Josephine L. Reichmann has one of the most fluent canvases in "Bear River, Nova Scotia," that has come from her brush in some time. It is a hauntingly beautiful canvas, well arranged and of deep, pure coloring. Increase Robinson shows a well-defined, clear-cut, intriguing painting of a street. Alice L. Bidwell offers a canvas, "Provincetown, Street Scene," which has warmth of color and a certain ease and grace of line to commend it. Eloise Long Wells submits a characteristic, fantastic little painting of great charm.

A Coarse Bread.

The flavor of the coarser breads makes them desirable at any time of year, but perhaps they are never quite as acceptable as when appetites fail because of colds, influenza, or any of the winter infirmities. A simple little hot corn bread, whether it be pone or one almost as simple, baked in the oven, will help to make a nourishing meal for one who otherwise might have been unwilling to taste anything put before him.

Some of the coarser breads served cold and sliced may be just as appetizing. In the following we may use either entire wheat or rye flour: One cup scalded milk, one cup wheat flour, two cups [more or less] of some whole grain flour, four tablespoons butter, one-fourth cup molasses, one teaspoon salt, one yeast cake.

Start the milk to heating and when it has reached the tepid stage take out one-fourth of a cup in which to soak the yeast cake and add a little sugar to this combination to hurry up the action. After the rest of the milk is hot, add to it the butter when it is taken from the fire. When this combination has cooled to tepid, stir in the white flour and then work in the coarser flour, beating it well while doing so.

After this dough has been well worked with the spoon take it out on a floured breadboard, dust it with a little white flour, or use entire wheat for the dusting. Then knead it until it is not sticky, after which butter the dough and set it to rise. In warm weather it will rise in an hour, because these coarse breads do rise rapidly. It is best to get as near summer temperature for the dough as possible while it is rising.

If this amount of dough is put into the little tins, which are four and one-half inches long by two and one-half inches wide and two and one-half inches deep, we can make four small loaves which give slices that attract almost anybody. These should be baked a little over half an hour at 350 degrees. Perhaps you will like, as I do, the rye loaves so made better than those of wheat. We can use as much as two and one-fourth cups of rye flour.

London Will Have $5,000,000 Theater for Talkie Shows

[Copyright: 1930: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Jan. 8.—London will have a moving picture theater costing over $5,000,000, to seat 3,700, in the west end near Piccadilly. The prices are expected to approximate those of New York film theaters.

Joseph M. Schenck, president of the United Artists, is behind the scheme. He and Samuel Goldwyn left today for Paris en route to New York after completing negotiations for the project. The capital employed will be partly British.

Repeated efforts have been made to revise the present scale of prices in West End film theaters. They now range from the equivalent of sixty cents to over two dollars. In the projected theater not over one dollar will be charged. Schenck also is interested in a plan for building a chain of large film houses throughout Britain.

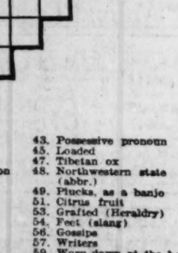
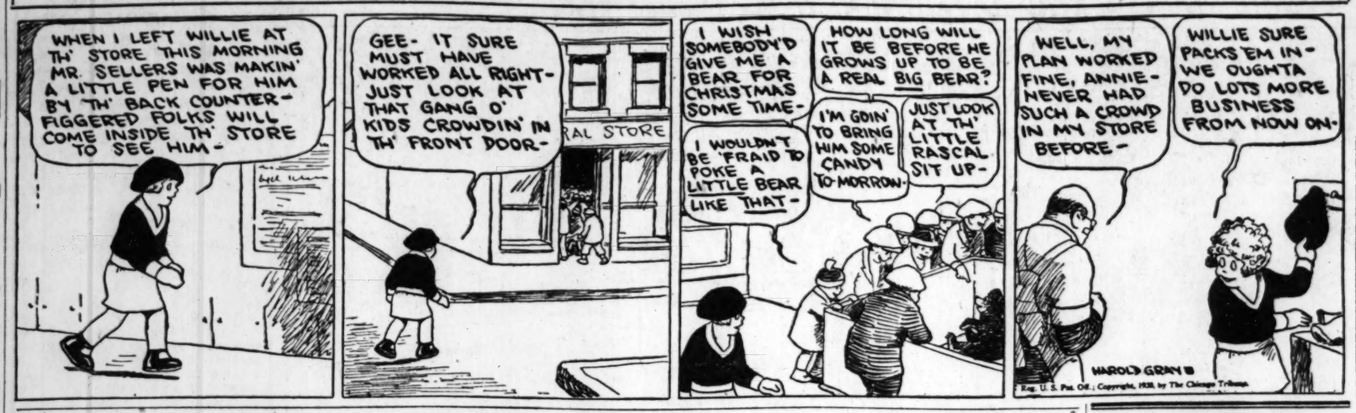
YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED



LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: The Magnet



Two Gallon Jug Gives Elmer a Touch of Blues

BY ELMER DOUGLASS.

Exactly what an ordinary two gallon jug has to do with music might be better explained by the jug member of a mouth organ-zither-guitar-jug quartet from Bloomington which was an unexpected part of the W-G-N, 7:30 to 8 popular program. Presumably the unusual bass blubbs, on pitch and off pitch, and the strange glissandos heard during the selections were attributable to the jug. Quin Ryan intimated that a juggist's task is a hard one.

Jean Goldkette and his W-G-N symphonic dance orchestra may be presumed to have set radio dancers to work, 8 to 8:30. And I understand dancers like to work, at dancing. It does not require any work to listen to a symphonic dance program, if played well.

WIBO joined WLW, Cincinnati, 7:30 to 8:30, to celebrate a new program with WBBM joining from 8 to 8:30. It was a peppy dance and song hit program, with special features following each other in rapid succession.

Max Bendix and his World's Fair symphonic band presented a semi-classical program, WLS, 8 to 8:30. One selection was the intermezzo from "Cavalleria Rusticana," which used to be heard about every other evening, but which I have not heard for many months.

Floyd Gibbons, in his talk from New York through W-G-N, 9:30 to 10, described the arrival in 1917 of Gen. Pershing and the Yanks on English and French soils. Every moment of his talk held one's attention.

HAVE KIDNEYS EXAMINED BY YOUR DOCTOR

Flush your kidneys by drinking a quart of water each day, also take salts occasionally, says a noted authority, who tells us that too much rich food forms acids whoch almost paralyze the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken; then you may suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To help neutralize these irritating acids, to help cleanse the kidneys and flush off the body's urinous waste, get four ounces of Jad salts from any pharmacy here; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days, and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Funeral services for Miss Margaret Victoria Wilson of Winnetka, a Chicagoan for 77 years and a social leader of the eighties and the nineties, will be held at 2 p. m., today, from the residence of her nephew and niece, Mr. and Mrs. John C. Cobb Jr., 615 Elm street, Winnetka. Miss Wilson, who was a relative of Empress Eugenie, wife of Napoleon III. of France, was 88 years old. She died at the Cobb residence on Tuesday.

Born at St. John, New Brunswick, on Dec. 24, 1841, Miss Wilson was a brilliant and popular figure in the early life of this city. The banks of the Chicago river still were green with grass when she came here in 1852 with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William James Wilson, and her nine brothers and sisters. Her first residence was in the old City hotel, now the Hotel Sherman, then owned by the celebrated J. Irving Pierce.

Seven presidents of the United States, including Lincoln before his election, were among Miss Wilson's wide social acquaintance. For more than forty years the home of herself and her brother, William J. Wilson, on Ashland boulevard, was a social mecca in the days when the Washington Park Derby was in its glory.

Miss Wilson's grandfather was a Kirkpatrick, and a first cousin of the mother of Empress Eugenie. The latter's grandfather was William Kirkpatrick, United States consul at Malaga, and her father was Count de Montijo, a Spanish grandee.

N. S. DARLING, M. D.

Dr. N. S. Darling, of La Porte, Ind., the originator of ZENZAL, during his long and successful career as a skin specialist discovered that nearly all cases of acne, pimples or otherwise red, blotchy complexions were caused by dust and dirt getting into the pores of the skin and becoming infected.

As a result, in the early part of his career, Dr. Darling spent many long hours in his laboratory, testing and retesting, experimenting with first one combination and then another in an effort to perfect a formula that would bring about absolute relief from skin irritations.

The result of Dr. Darling's experimental years was a formula which he prescribed among his own patients for over 40 years. It was only upon his death that the secret was released to the public. Today you can obtain it at any drug store by simply asking for ZENZAL. If you are the victim of an unsightly, blotchy complexion caused by burning eczema or a kindred skin trouble try it at once. All itching and burning stops—all the redness disappears—your skin becomes clear and healthy again.

ZENZAL is a white, stainless, odorless cream. Procurable in three sizes—50c tubes—75c jars—and a special $2.00 physicians and hospital size. Your druggist guarantees quick, sure relief or your money back. Try ZENZAL tonight. There is also a special Zenzal for wet eczema and a Zenzal medicated soap. Ask your druggist about them. A generous sample of Zenzal will be sent you on request.

Mischievous Boy Is Frequent Topic of This Writer

Often this comes in a letter: "I wish you'd write more about" this or that. And often I have just written about that very thing—but the mother who was reading the paper that day didn't perceive it through its slight, though unintentional disguise. The reason for that is, I suppose, that the indirect way in which we get at so many difficulties was not quite understood by the reader.

For example, if a child is so nervous that he's jumpy and twitches, we don't tell him to control his muscles, we go back and find the mental or physical cause and remedy that. If a child bites his fingernails we don't harp on it and nag him. Instead we fill his mind and hands so full of congenial interests and activity that the habit melts away. And we also help him along by praise, and manicuring.

So when a mother says, "It's Robert stop this, and Robert quit, and Robert don't do something else." I wish you'd write more about mischievous boys," I feel a little taken back.

The funny thing is that it seems to me I'm always writing about mischievous boys—indirectly. It seems to me that, having a very close contact with them, I have to forcibly keep myself off the subject. Though of course, I don't usually call it—or the boys—by that name. What I write about mischievous boys is indirect. For example:

When I suggest hours of vigorous exercise and games outdoors after school, it's mentioned indirectly one way of taking care of the mischievousness of a boy, because it gives him an outlet for his sense of fun and his vitality.

When I suggest that you eliminate the don'ts, and give them something positive to do to take the place of the forbidden thing, I'm writing about mischievous boys who only do the forbidden thing as an outlet for their spirits.

When I say, "Overlook all the unessential infractions you can in a growing boy or girl," I'm writing about mischievous boys—because they can't be perfect according to our ideas of conduct.

When I say, "Be jolly, and ready to laugh and joke, and fool, and be interested in their conversation." I'm writing about mischievous boys—because if they feel you there with them in spirit, they don't get contrary or deliberately trying.

So—indirectly—I'm writing about mischievous boys much of the time, or about many of your problems. Only you have to read between the lines.

FARM AND GARDEN
BY PAUL POTTER

On the average "hot" formaldehyde and cold corrosive sublimate have produced best results in seed potato disinfection experiments conducted by W. E. Brentzel, pathologist, North Dakota Agricultural college, in coöperation with substations in the state. The newer so called organic mercury products now in use to some extent, are still being improved and may in time have some advantages over the older products which are now in general use, according to Mr. Brentzel.

The hot formaldehyde treatment has more often produced the cleanest and best appearing tubers. In these experiments this method has been particularly effective in controlling scab. Corrosive sublimate also has produced good results and either of these treatments should be very profitable to producers of high grade potatoes.

New methods of disinfecting seed potatoes by treating in chemical solutions have also been compared with the older methods in experiments conducted. Disinfecting the seed has given profitable results in controlling scab, scurf [rhizoctonia], and in reducing the amount of the blackleg disease. Under certain conditions the treatments have reduced rotting of seed pieces in the ground. The larger yield and cleaner potatoes have usually been obtained from treated seed. In soils infested with the scab and scurf producing organisms the treatments have not yet given complete disease control.

Spilled the Cream.

The grocery store was crowded and I was in a great hurry to finish my household shopping. While the clerk was collecting my order I noticed that the paper top of the cream bottle, which was among my packages on the counter, was half way off. Thinking to put it back securely, I pressed on the cover in what I thought was a gentle manner.

Imagine my horror when the contents of the bottle shot into the air, covering the clerks, the other customers, the counter, and myself with a blinding shower of cream. I was unable to see until a clerk brought a towel to wipe my face. One of the customers announced angrily that her dress had just come back from the cleaner's. E. F.

Will you ask in your column for musical instruments for the boys in our neighborhood who are forming a club? Most of the boys cannot afford to buy them. We have been promised lessons and will need a violin, a cornet, an accordion, and a saxophone.

Have we among our readers a musician or two with a surplus of instruments? If so, you can help to further this interesting project by donating any you will not be using again.

PATTERNS BY CLOTILDE

[Registered U. S. Patent Office.]

WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESS.

This chic new design indicates the raised waist line with the horizontal tucks that make it so appropriate for larger women, as well as for the slender, youthful type. The neck line has an interesting diagonal band trimming, and the circular skirt shows a pointed treatment at the front, with a tendency towards a downward, curved movement at the back. Black Canton crêpe and bottle green faille silk crêpe are smart for luncheons and matinées, while black velvet, with ermine galyak fur trimming, is stunning for more formal wear.

The pattern, No. 3220, comes in sizes 16 and 18 years and 36, 38, 40, and 42 inches bust measure. Size 36 requires 3¼ yards of 39 inch material with ½ yard of 35 inch contrasting.

Our Current Era of Dry Skins Gives Rise to Predictions

If I were one of those prognosticators who tell what the world is going to be peopled with ten thousand years hence I'd have a picture to offer, too. You know the kind of people I mean—always thinking up some horrible bald headed, pants wearing, tobacco chewing future for us poor females, when what most of us want is a batch of golden nursery curls, a wide eyed stare, a lisp, and a pusson to aim "ain't you the great big wonderful" at.

My picture wouldn't be so purty, either. You know those alligator girls in side shows who are alligator girls because they are born with very few of the oil glands you need to keep the skin lubricated, pliable and soft? Well, that's what the girls would be looking like—all of them—ten, twent', thirt' thousand years hence, according to my little forecast, were I making one. But I ain't. I'd ruther try to forestall any such future.

I don't know "what-all" is responsible for our current era of skin dryness, but it is a fact that complexions suffer frightfully from it today. I have a theory, based on the fact that it has increased greatly in recent years, that reducing regimes contribute much to it. When you take all the fat and oil making properties out of a diet naturally the skin is going to be deprived of its quota. It isn't always wrinkles and lines that give that wan and faged look to the face after a stringent reducing program. It is the unfed skin, and nothing else. There is no gloss to the skin, no warmth in it, if you know what I mean.

Then, too, our scheme of hothouse living is conducive to dry skin. We live so sedentarily, too. Comparatively little exercise is taken to stir up those glands we speak of, upon which lubrication depends. Of course, we do plaster on tons of creams and oils and all that. And they help, it is true, for if the skin isn't lubricated by natural oils it must be kept softened by synthetic measures, or it would shrivel up like parchment. And then, of course, "shines" in our country are socially taboo with the consequence that our leading female industry is rubbing shines off with puff and pad.

We use hard waters for bathing. And the air in our houses and places of occupation is dry. So that the wonder is that we aren't more dried up than we are. It just proves what a tough think that epidermis of ours is.

Doris Wonders Why Kiss-and-Tell Club Has Any Members

BY DORIS BLAKE.

There is a Kiss-and-Tell club, to which you get yourself nominated, it seems—well, you'd know how from the name of the club. But that isn't the news about to be reported. No, the club has been in existence some time. What's new about it is an argument that arises about which sex has the larger body of representatives in said club.

Originally, it was supposed to be a stag club, the assumption being that there wouldn't be much work for the secretary because men didn't kiss and tell. As exceptions there'd be only a few scoundrels for whom some tag indicating social ostracism had to be prescribed; therefore, club membership.

But women started crowding in, so the report goes. Their way of telling deserved a club of its own, if you would believe the informants. It seems when they tell, they only tell what they feel like telling, and, it is suspected, they often tell out of peeve and more often out of revenge and with a peculiarly vicious flavor to the words. Injured parties, they are, innocent dears who never suspected he would be like that. No, not after they tried every known lure to make the gentleman forget that his mother brought him up one!

But then men! Their roll call is growing at a hysterical rate, we're told. The old stigma seems to have lost its sting. Men tell whose fathers would have drawn a sword did any one hint their tongues could be guilty of such a piece of dirty work. In fact, they want us to believe that there's a perfect grapevine system from which one can gather all the data about a girl that is wanted before she is aware she is going to be invited out.

Don't tell us that the good old honor system of sealed lips is threatened. We can't bear it. Beside, we don't believe it. Yet—somebody's telling, and it isn't women shooting on themselves.

Of course, kissing isn't what it used to be, we are enlightened by our informants. In the old days when men kept their lips sealed, a kiss was something to brood over rapturously, if there is that kind of brooding. Anyway, it meant something, so the elders assure us. Now, it doesn't mean what they call in necking circles a darned thing. So, why the club, is all we can say. Where'd be the relish, or the conquest, in telling?

Cape Veers Around to the Front of Coat

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS.—[Special.]—The Mississippi river flowing down Broadway would be a front page sensation. A turnip in a bunch of roses would give you a turn. These natural things pass without notice in their accustomed place, but a new location makes them news.

That is what happens in fashions. At the moment styles are shifting geographically and giving us something that is new and often startling. Take the cape, a familiar detail on coatlines and coats. Capes are going south, and they are also advancing to the front lines of smart coats, thus coming into the public eye as new styles. We are so used to capes at the back and capes on the shoulders, they do not even get the tribute of a lifted eyebrow or an extra heartbeat. But capes in front, like the one illustrated here, receive eyebrow gyrations and excess heart throbs aplenty because they are where we haven't been in the habit of seeing them.

Smart, isn't it? This Renée cape-coat, with the cape in front only. It looks attractive seen from the back in the large figure of our sketch as well as from the front, shown in the little figure below. The cape is attached to the back of the sleeves, and under the astrakan scarf collar in front.

It is not only this feature of the coat that makes it something new, however. The hemline squared at the back, and set off by two wide bias folds of the material gives another novel silhouette feature. The sleeves, too, that are cut like a man's coat sleeve, and that have astrakan cuffs inside are also details that command attention.

This coat, like about seventy-five per cent of other Parisian coats, is made of black wool. The particular wool used here is a mat surfaced wool woven like a honeycomb, and it is very, very fashionable, warm and not in the least heavy.

In Paris this winter there are so many different kinds of chic coats and capecoats, it is evident that at last fashion is getting away from the monotonous straight line uniform and into more personal modes.

the prices we mark our used cars often serve as the standard by which other motorists judge their used automobiles. Just as U. S. Steel is considered the "bell weather" of the stock market, a Studebaker regarded as the barometer in the used car field.

We have the greatest selection of good used cars in one building and we feature the LOWEST PRICES in Chicago. You will save time and money by visiting us the first and purchasing from this source.
